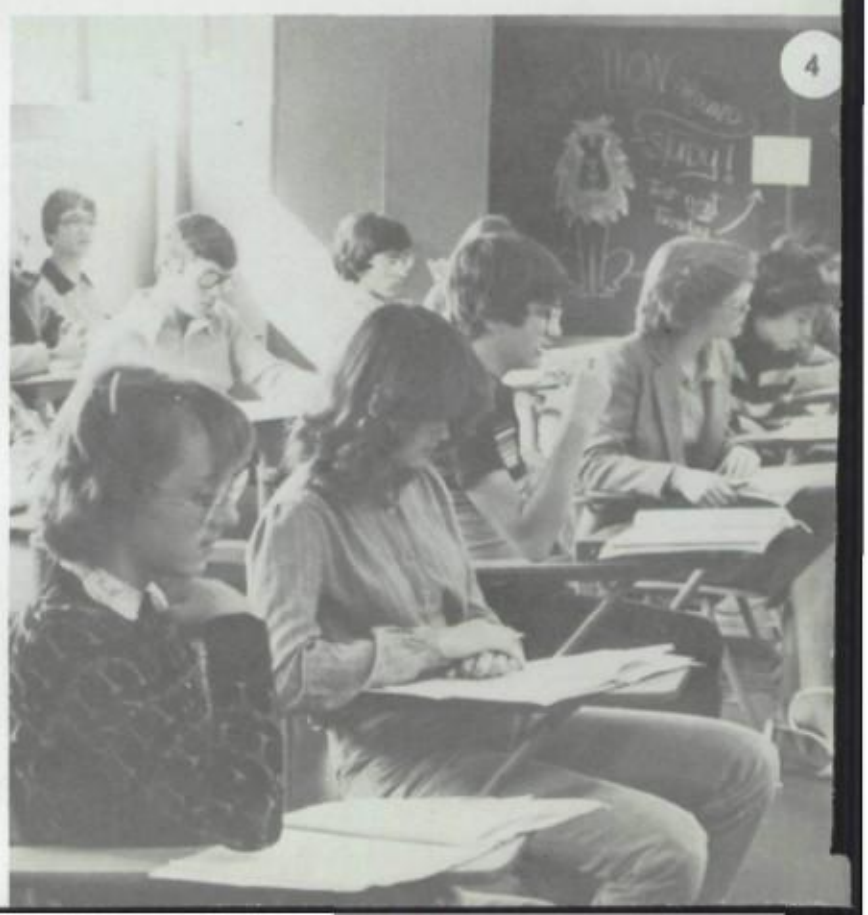
Tradition



1. Members of the senior class listen to the words of Coach Roberts at a St. Paul pep rally.
2. Annex students guard their pumpkins while others wait for theirs.
3. Band Director Mrs. Julie Burt watches as her band members join in with the cheer.
4. Sister Deanne's freshmen religion class prepares for an upcoming test.

1. Mr. Linder prepares us for an upcoming victory, while Rick Schaffer cheers him on at the Monroeville pep rally.
2. Pat Pickett puts the final touches on the bonfire for the 1981 homecoming.
3. The 1981 Volleyball team congratulates each other after a thrilling victory at the Norwalk Junior High.
4. The Varsity Cheerleaders stir up action at one of our many pep rallies.

Tradition is the handing down of information and ideals from generation to generation. Traditions are people, places, and things that give us a view not only of the past but also into the future.

Traditional problems, traditional goodtimes, traditional lines and traditional rivalries are all a part of the St. Paul heritage passed to us and through us.

St. Paul is a tradition in itself made up of the special, wonderful memories of family and friends who preceded us. An active alumnae association helps to remind us of our tradition. Their generous gift of compsite pictures of early St. Paul graduates serves as a vivid demonstration of just where our roots lie.

The alumnae pictures line our halls with traditions, traditions that live on and traditions that change . . .

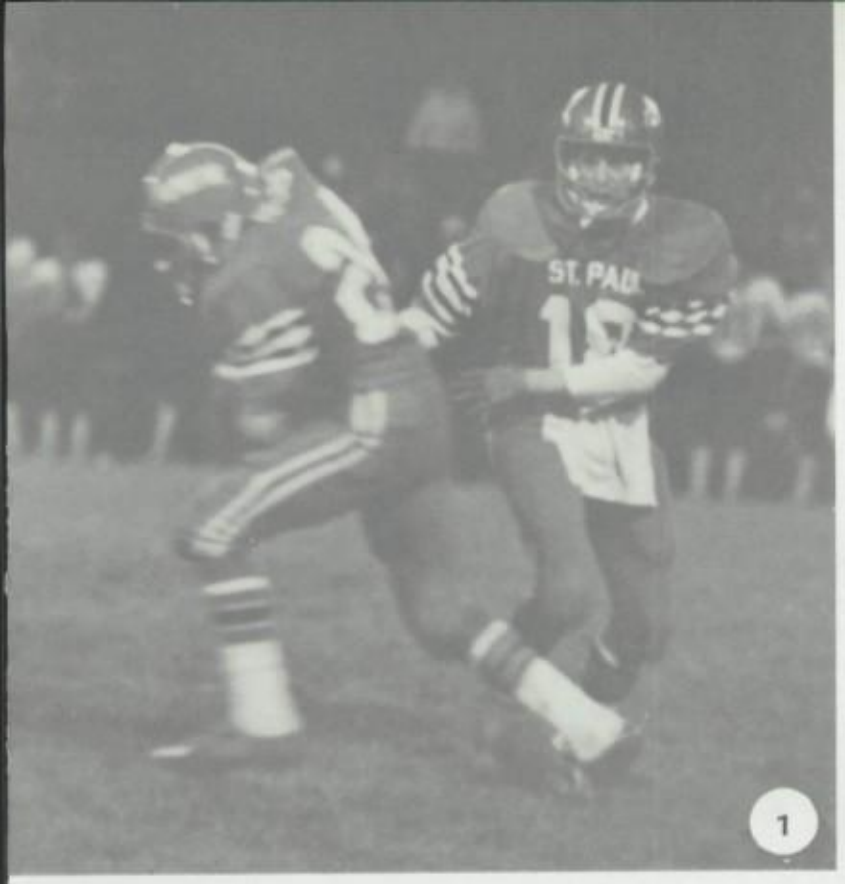
A twist to tradition is like adding more spice to your favorite food in order to enhance its flavor. The flavor of our traditions is being constantly enhanced by our twists. We mix our ideals of today with those of yesterday and of tommorrow.

A part of everyday life here at St. Paul, tradition reminds us of our links for all time to the school and parish. The variety in our traditions demonstrates in one way our spirit. The twists and changes that we add boosts that spirit and keep it growing.

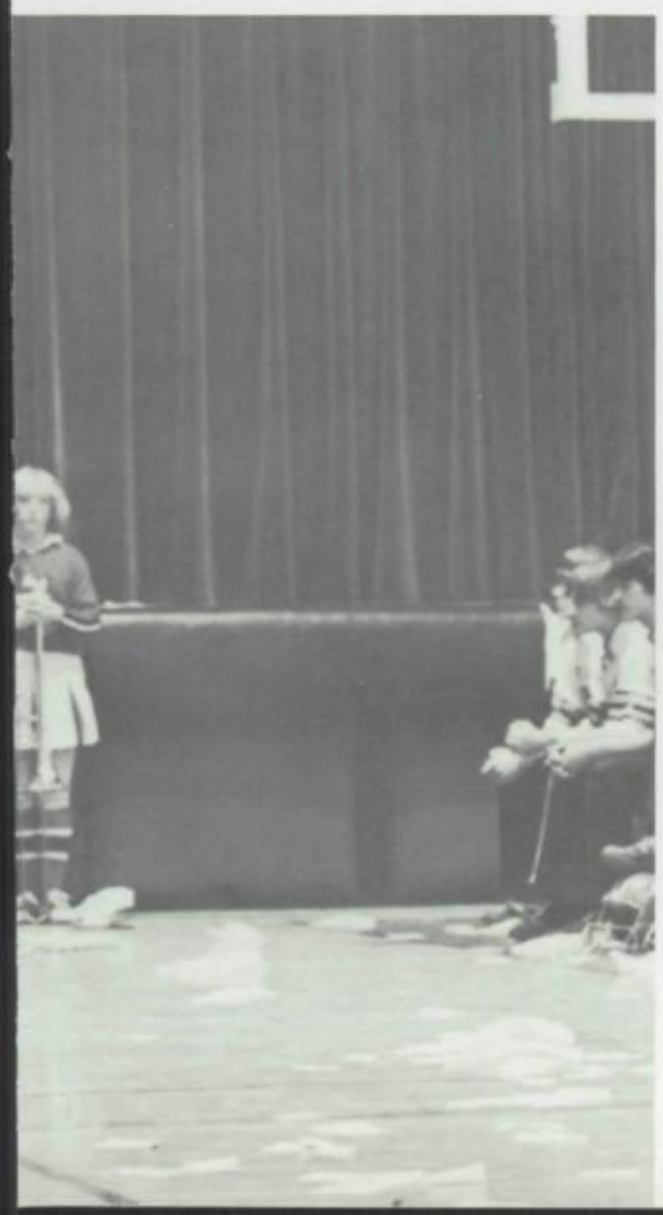
Although we are in a constant state of changing and twisting our traditions, the ideas that we hold remain very much the same. One tradition that we have maintained is attendance at Mass every Friday. In this tradition we demonstrate our unity as community members at St. Paul Parish and show our belief in God.

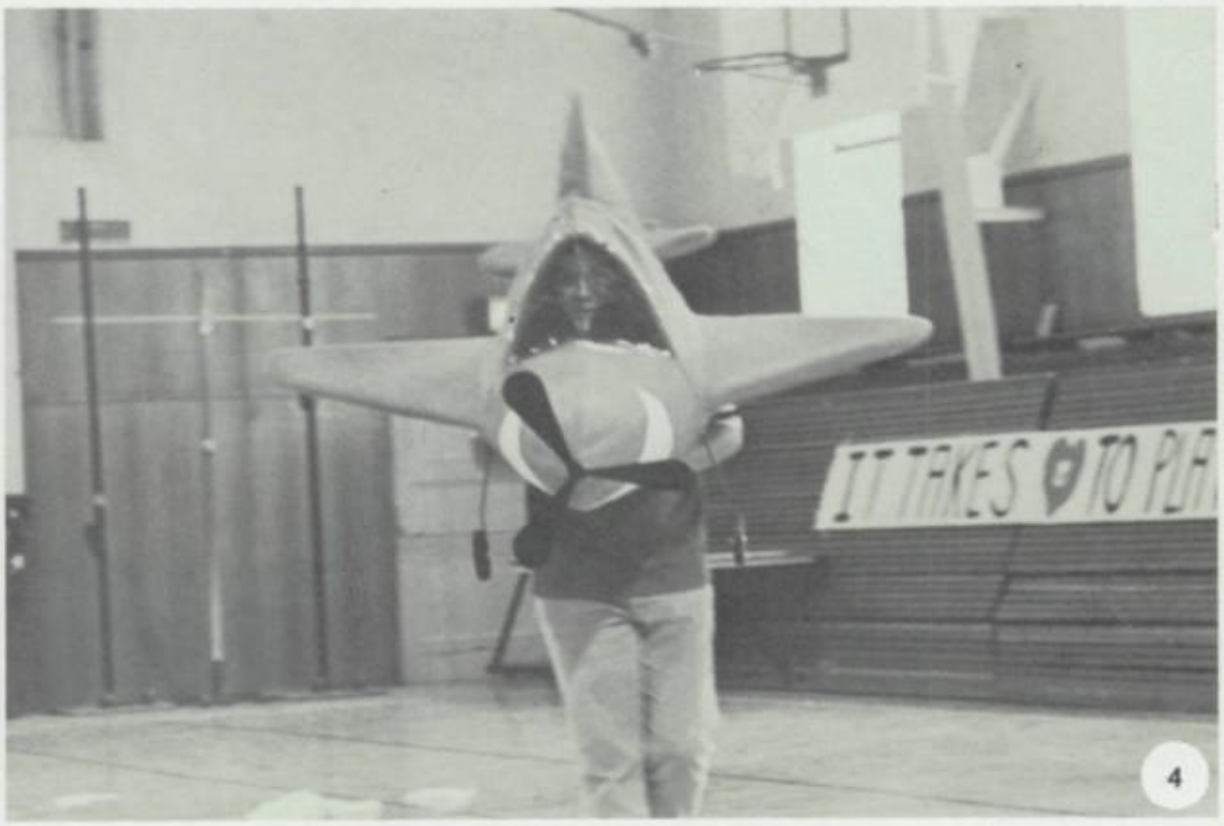
We know that the twists taking place in our school are good ones. They enrich our lives, prepare us for the future, and tell our unique story to those who follow us.

1. For Halloween, each high school student carved a pumpkin for a student in grades one through four at St. Paul and St. Mary's.
2. "Seniors do it with class" was an understatement when it came to the bonfire at the Knights of Columbus.
3. Looks like we caught Marcia Collier by surprise leaving Mr. Vickery's classroom only to get trapped in Freshman Hall.
4. Father Thomas prepares to offer a prayer for a football victory at a pep rally before the Flyers went to Monroeville.



1. Junior quaterback, Kelly Amato, hands off to Keith Shumate during another exciting Flyer football game.
2. Sophomore Sean Berry lines up a putt during a home match at Sycamore Hills against New London.
3. The Flyer Marching Brass add spirit and zest to the game action during halftime at Monroeville's Marsh Field.
4. Chuck Conney shows off the Flyer mascot at a Pep Rally. The Mascot was made and donated by Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hokes.





With A Twist

STUDENT LIFE

Bob Simon, Marty Schaffer and Dan Leiber find Mr. Vickery's room a good place to discuss their plans for the day.

Student life at St. Paul High was a lot of things this year. It was dances, assemblies, special events, people and a lot more.

In the cafeteria the students had time to eat a hot meal and just relax and enjoy themselves before their afternoon classes. In the halls the students had time to do just about anything they wanted, like joking around and talking to their friends. Best of all the students had time to be by themselves if they wished.

The assemblies this year were a major part of the students acedemics. They consisted of energy and history programs, a mission talk and Christmas antics. Along with the information assemblies came the pep rallies in which the students had a chance to support our teams.

We had several dances this year which consisted of Sadie Hawkins, 50's, prom, Superdance and Homecoming. We also had several dances which classes put on to make a profit.

Student life at St. Pauls was all of this and more. Things that followed tradition and changed tradition made up St. Paul High School.

This year's Homecoming was an exciting event. It began with spirit week. During which we had tie and jewelry day, clash day, dressup day, and the selecting of Homecoming Queen and her court.

Our Homecoming Queen was Maribeth Leitz; attendants were Sandy Kocher, Debbie Bleile, Patty Spaar, Debbie Kolanda, and Gloria Boes.

Following tradition the bonfire was held at the Knights of Columbus Field on the Thursday before the game. There was a parade which started at the school parking lot and went to the Knights of Columbus. Following that event was the lighting of the bonfire by a group of seniors. This set everything off for the big weekend ahead.

The game was exciting and our guys put on quite a fight and almost defeated a very surprising team this year.

The Homecoming dance was held at the Conservation Club Sunday evening with music provided by Long Overdue.

After these events, we were ready to get into the regular swing of things but never to forget Homecoming 1981.

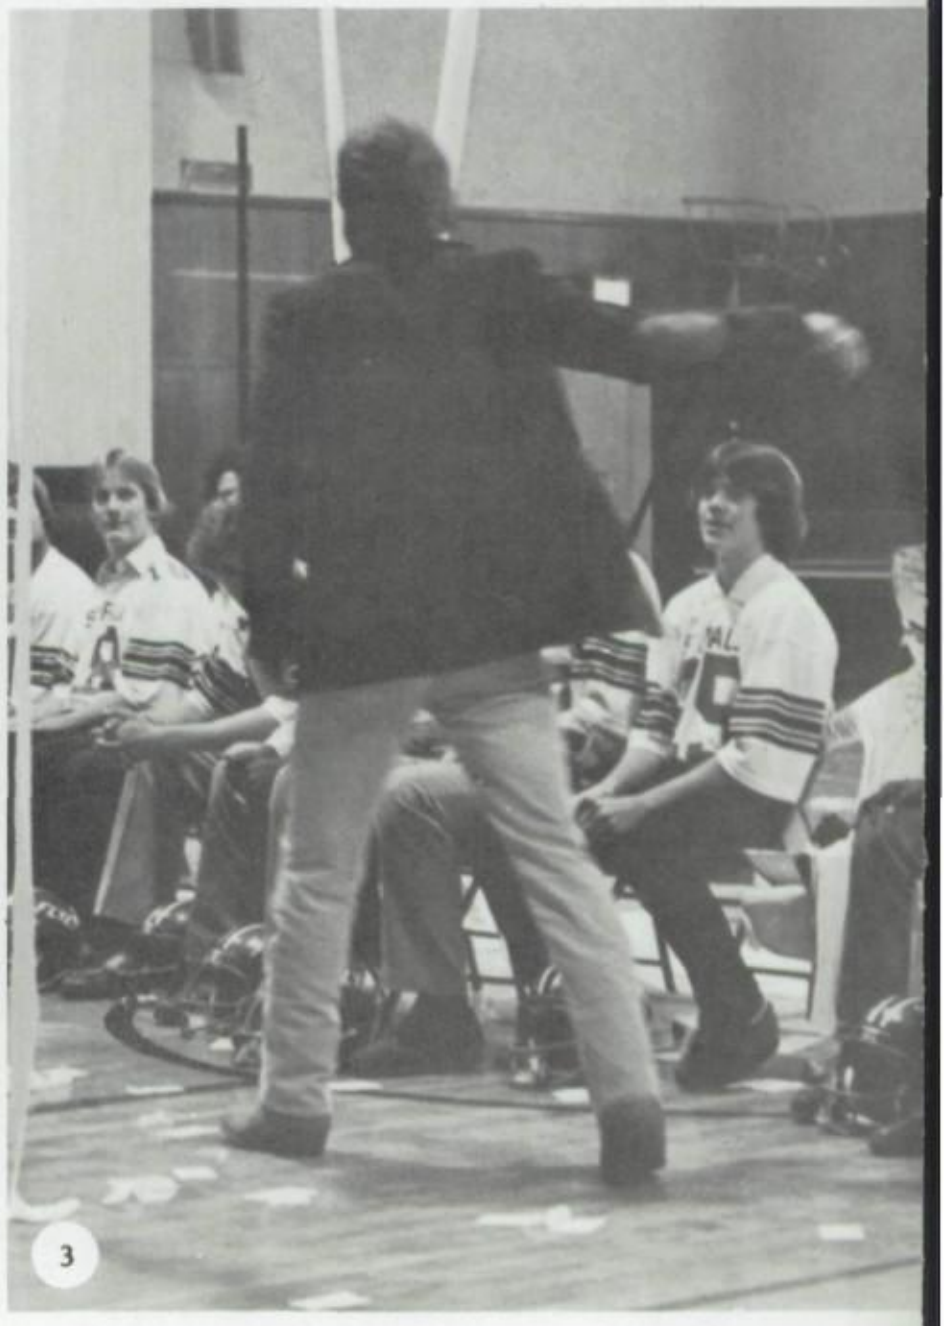
Boost Your Spirits!!

Pep Rallies were a major part of our Athletic events. This year was the first in quite a long time that we had a pep rally for spring sports. According to tradition, students got together to show how much dedication they had for the various teams.

The pep rallies consisted mainly of skits done by the cheerleaders and talks by the coaches and captains. The Fight Song was played before and during the rallies to get the students psyched for the game ahead and a victory prayer was said for the teams by one of the parish priests to close the program.

Even though some say we didn't have enough pep rallies the ones we did have were very beneficial and supportive towards the athletes. Altogether students enjoyed themselves at the pep rallies.



1. The varsity cheerleaders are encouraging the various teams as they perform a cheer with true spirit.

2. No not a horror movie, just the cross country team all wrapped up in a activity during a pep rally.

3. Mr. Linder gets Rick Schaffer to help him arouse the fans for the big game ahead.

1. Mrs. Burt leads the pep band while boasting everyones spirit during a pep rally.

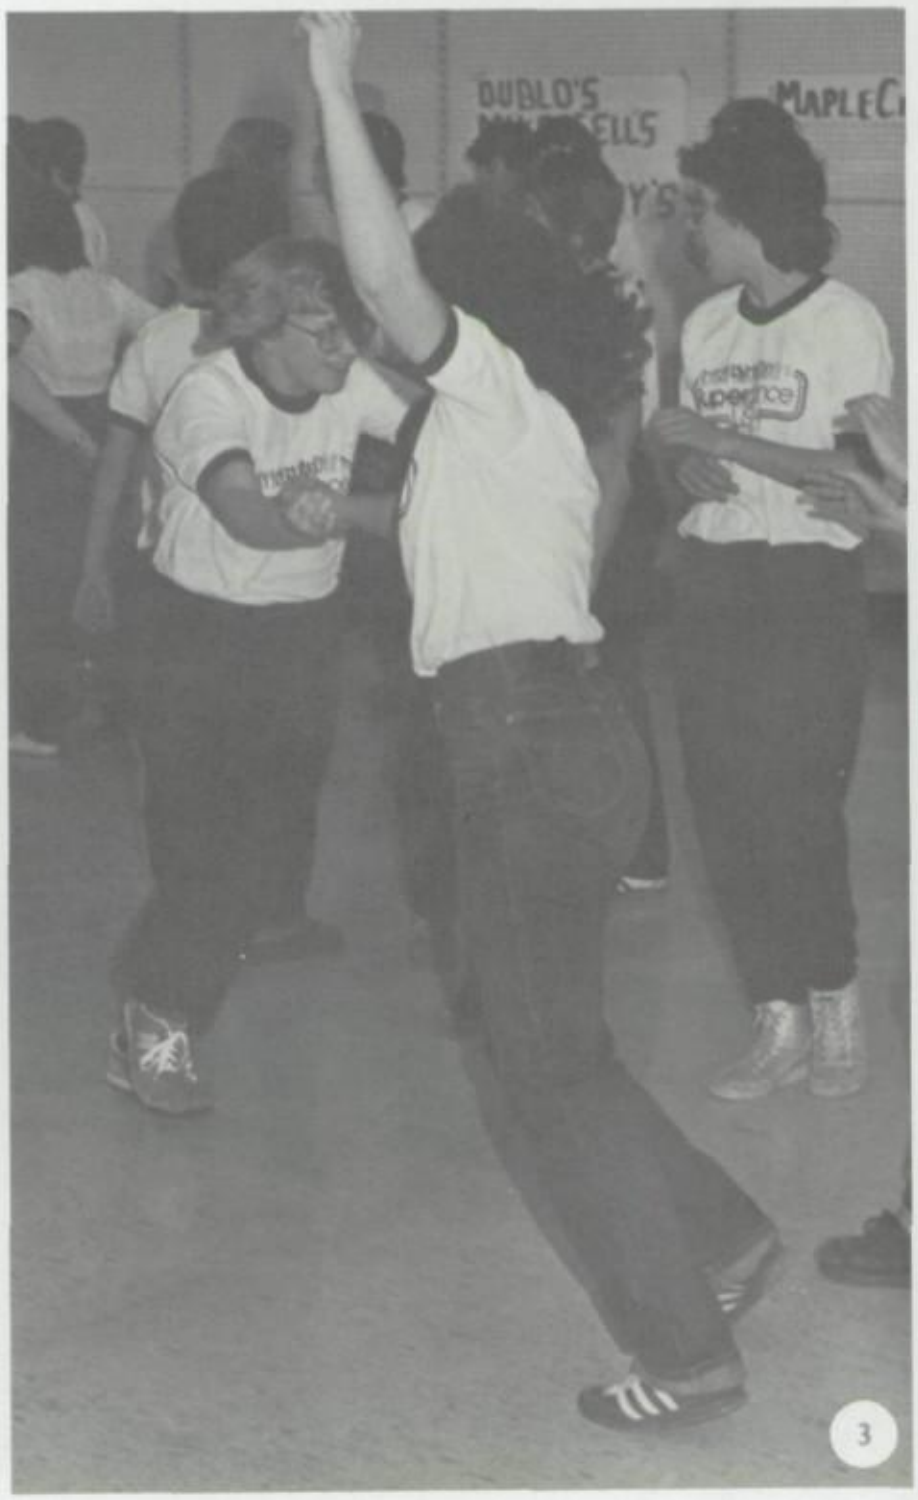
2. The varsity cheerleaders take a turn at raising the school spirit by performing a skit.

3. Mr. Fisher tells of his faith in the people invoved in the sports program here at St. Pauls and wishes everyone the best of luck.

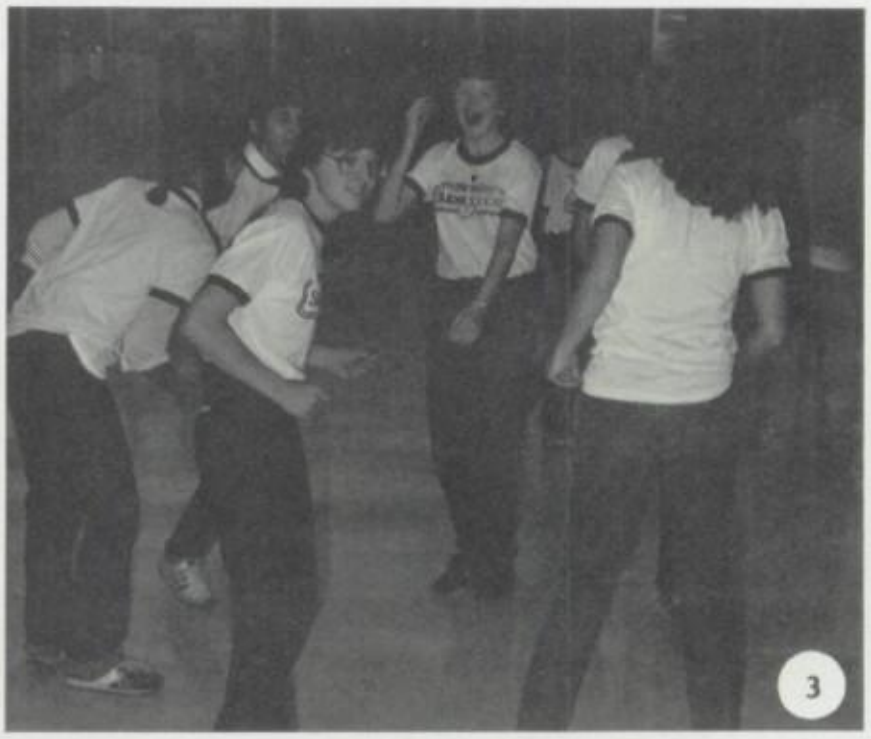
Twist And Shout

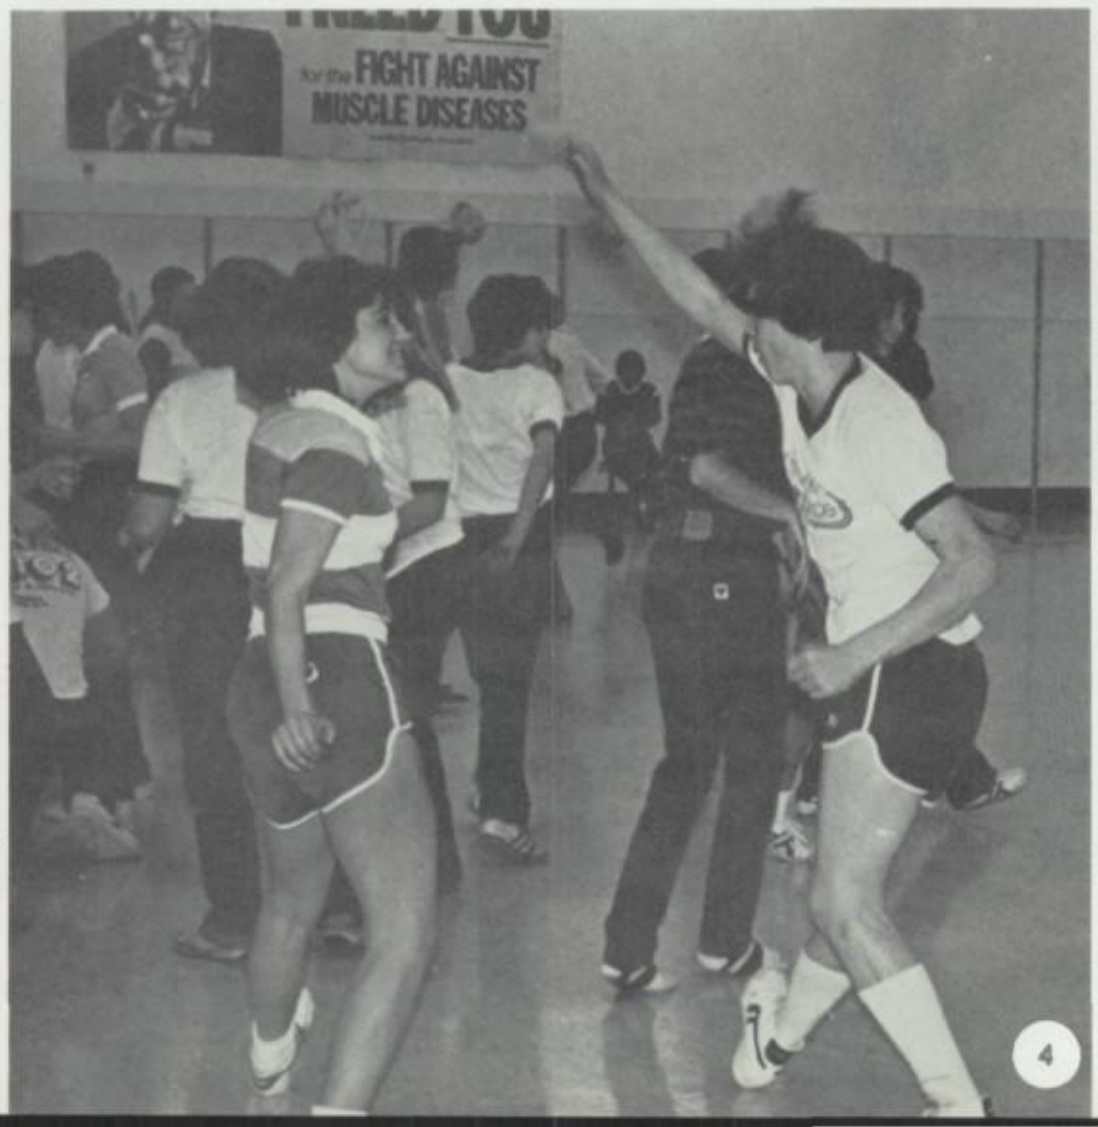
Evening fell, visitors came, and a voice began the call that became a battle-cry. A quiet "We want money!" soon became a fifty-three voice shout as St. Paul High continued its fight against Muscular Dystrophy with Superdance 1982.

This year's dance was held at Mason's Marketplace in Norwalk and was graced by the presence of many special guests. Disc Jockeys from two area radio stations came to keep the dancers hopping. Very special to all of us was 1981 Toledo Area Poster Child, Tony Garza. Mayor Goodsite opened the event and made a proclamation in our honor. Parents, friends, and sponsors helped us celebrate our 3500.00 dollar victory.



1. St. Paul students give their hearts and feet for Dystrophy at their Valentine Weekend Dance Marathon.
2. Freshman dancers join Mark Doughty in using a balloon to boost their spirits and keep moving during their twenty-four hours.
3. Lori Leis watches the action of other dancers while Jackie Smith swings a classmate around to the music.





1. Poster Child Tony Garza joins Monica Egle to show everyone the plaque of appreciation presented to St. Paul High at the end of Superdance '82.
2. Joining the fun in the 3500 dollar chaindance are Mike Smith, Jane Schmuhl, and Sandy Kocher.
3. Marcy French, Val Pendleton and friends "Twist and Shout" for Jerry's Kids.
4. Superdancers answer Jerry's call for help with their supermoves at Dance Marathon '82.
5. Twenty-four hours later, dancers celebrate and join in their victory song, "Looks Like We Made It."

Days To

Special Days at St. Paul High are very special indeed. Thoughtfulness and caring are sure to be involved and so is a majority of the students.

One thing that we will always remember is truckloads of pumpkins brought to the high school for students to carve and present to grade schoolers on Halloween. The students were in their favorite Halloween costume as they delivered the pumpkins to the grade school students.

Besides dressing up for Halloween the high school students had a fifty's day. The freshmen really enjoyed this. Their spirit was great.

This is the second year the high school students escorted the grade schoolers to church and everyone had a great experience.

1. Senior Barb Smith, shows her spirit by wearing her 50's outfit and plenty of red lipstick.
2. While showing their spirit the freshmen lead cheers for the varsity basketball team.
3. High School students enjoy carving pumpkins because it means fewer classes.
4. A class is never complete without these characters which include, pinochio, a farmer, and an ape.

Remember

1. John Gassman shows how upsetting carving can get when he threatens Matt Heit with his carving knife.
2. Pep band is all dressed up in their 50's outfits ready for the Dance after the Basketball game.
3. Jody Greenwald and Theresa Hackathorne take their dispute to the outer lobby (maybe its over a guy).

1) The Juniors move on to their next class, but with some reluctance.
2) John Gassman exclaims, "Hey Mikey, He likes it", as he watches Ken Missler dig into a bowl of soup.
3) Seniors move quickly to their next class before the bell rings.
4) Mr. Linder, Mr. Fisher, and Mr. Hoxie take a break from their daily routine to enjoy the cafeteria food.

1) Monica Myers takes three before going to her next class.
2) Junior girls catch up on the latest gossip during lunch.

At any time of day you can find students roaming the halls. There is always something going on. A few examples are a game of hacky sack in the senior hall, snowball fights in the junior hall, sophomores gossiping about the recent events that have happened around school, and freshmen showing their spirit as usual. While walking down the halls the encouragement and motivation that is unique to St. Paul High.

The cafeteria is a very popular place when the 11:07 bell rings. The freshmen and sophomores can be seen running out the door trying to get there before the upperclassmen do. The classes usually sit together and talk about the day so far. Students sometimes find the opportunity to study for a test (usually the one right after lunch) and plans for the rest of the day are discussed before the crowd thins.

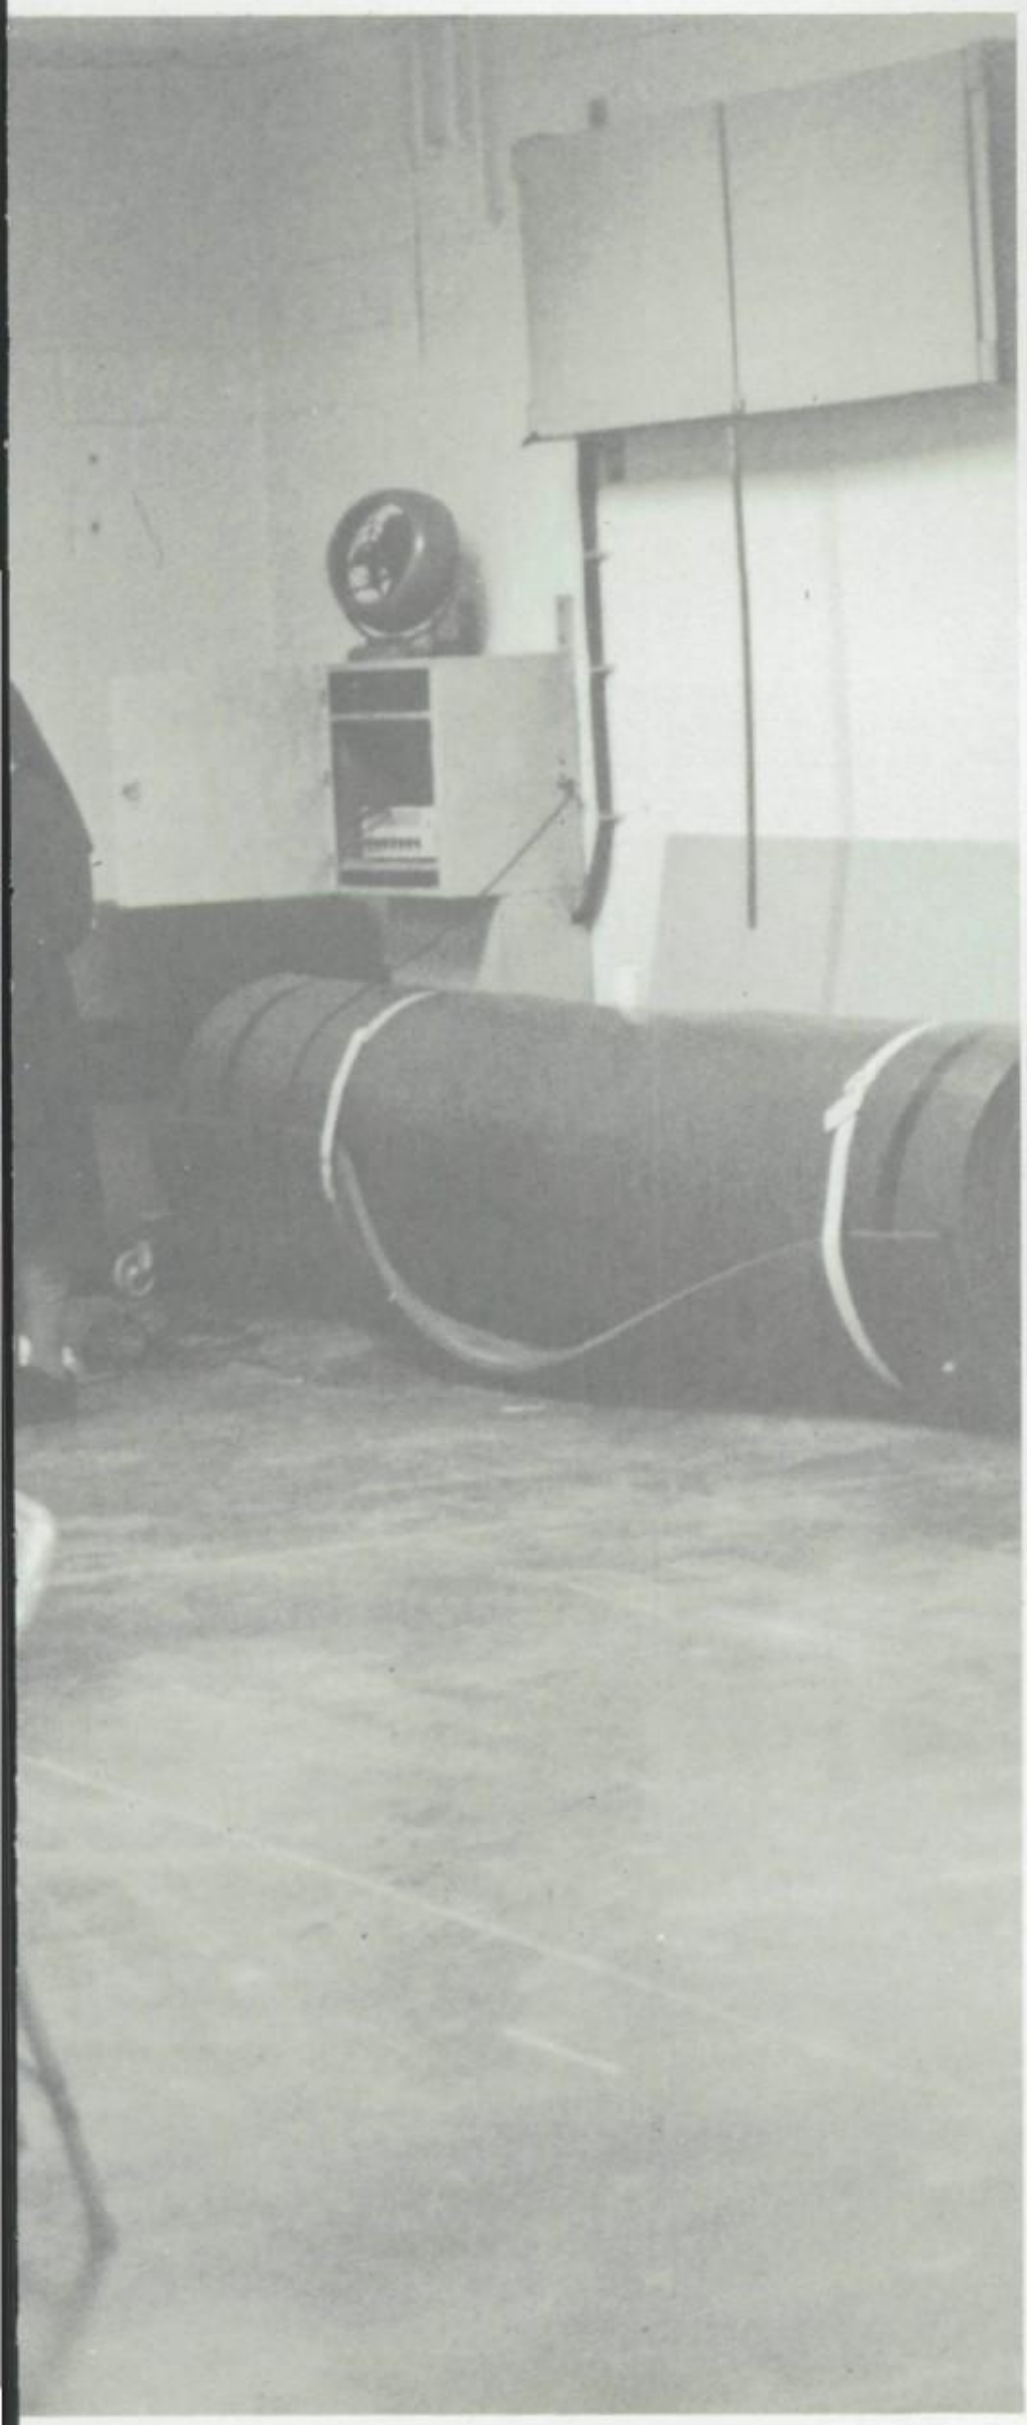
Halls And Cafeteria

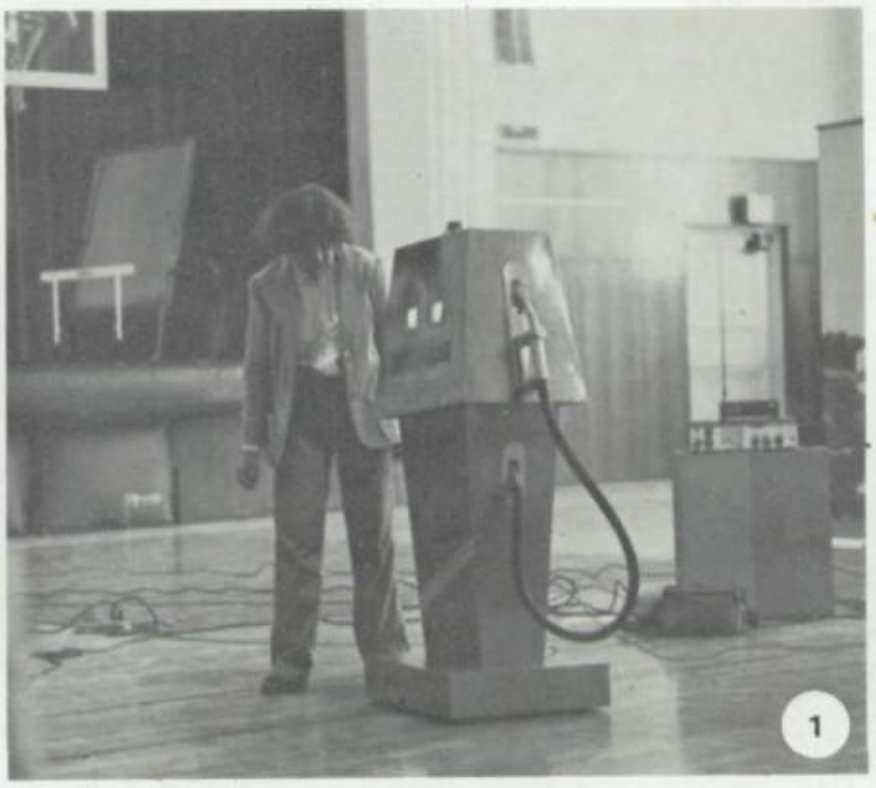
Assemblies

1. Mr. Carl Grendow speaks on the dangers of alcohol, alcoholism and how to handle it at a special day long seminar.
2. The folk group takes a frist in the Gong Show which was held for the high school and grade school students.
3. Sister Rita Mary gives both an inspiring and informative speech on mission involvement.

1. In an energy assembly for the high school, a gas pump reveals the way to conserve energy.

2. During the mission talk given by Sister Rita Mary, students were both attentive and alert.





Education outside the classroom was obtained at the high school assemblies. These assemblies were a major part of the students academics. The students really appreciated the speakers coming and sharing their information with them.

The assemblies consisted of the Alcohalism talk in which Mr. Carl Grendow and Dr. Robert Forney explained the hazards of drinking. Sister Rita Mary talked to the students about the mission problem and ask them to continue their support. An Americanism speech was given to the Juniors by Dr. Nino Camardese, to encourage them to show their appreciation to their country. The energy tlk given by a representative from Standard Oil Company taught students how to conserve energy in todays world.

This years HiQ was very educational for not only the participants but also for the audience. During the assemblies students learned about something exciting and interesting along with it being educational.

CLUBS AND ACTIVITIES

Pep Club advisor Sister Nathan puts the finishing touches on a sign during Ziggy week.

St. Paul's has made their own traditions. This year, the students added a special twist of creativity, pride and spirit to the traditional clubs and activities. Students were able to become involved in many activities, both new and old. In fact, by the end of the school year, about 97% of the student body had become involved with one of these school related activities.

Students participated in pep club, flag corp, CYO, the various bands, National Honor Society, Academic Challenge, Hi-Q and as cheerleaders and majorettes.

The pep club worked hard to support all of the teams by decorating all of the teams lockers, the halls and by backing up all of the St. Paul teams and their events. The cheerleaders played a major part of boosting up the St. Pauls spirit. They worked hard to support various teams and to spread the spirit throughout the high school.

The majorettes and flag corp also worked hard for their sharp, snappy routines in which they performed at half-time shows. Our various bands also worked hard to perform and improve their talents by playing at games and events, help show their spirit and show off their musical talents at the traditional formal musical presentations.

Support, spirit and participation by all of the clubs and activities made this school year a very special one.

The St. Paul Marching Brass played on . . . Under the direction of Mrs. Julie Burt and band President Shirley Skinn and Vice President Meg Hohler the band improved and succeeded.

They performed at all our half-time shows and also at the St. Mary's and Vermillion Band Festivals.

The 4th of July, Strawberry Fest., and Pet and Pup Parades were also on the agendas.

Another successful year tucked under the collar of our St. Paul Marching Brass.

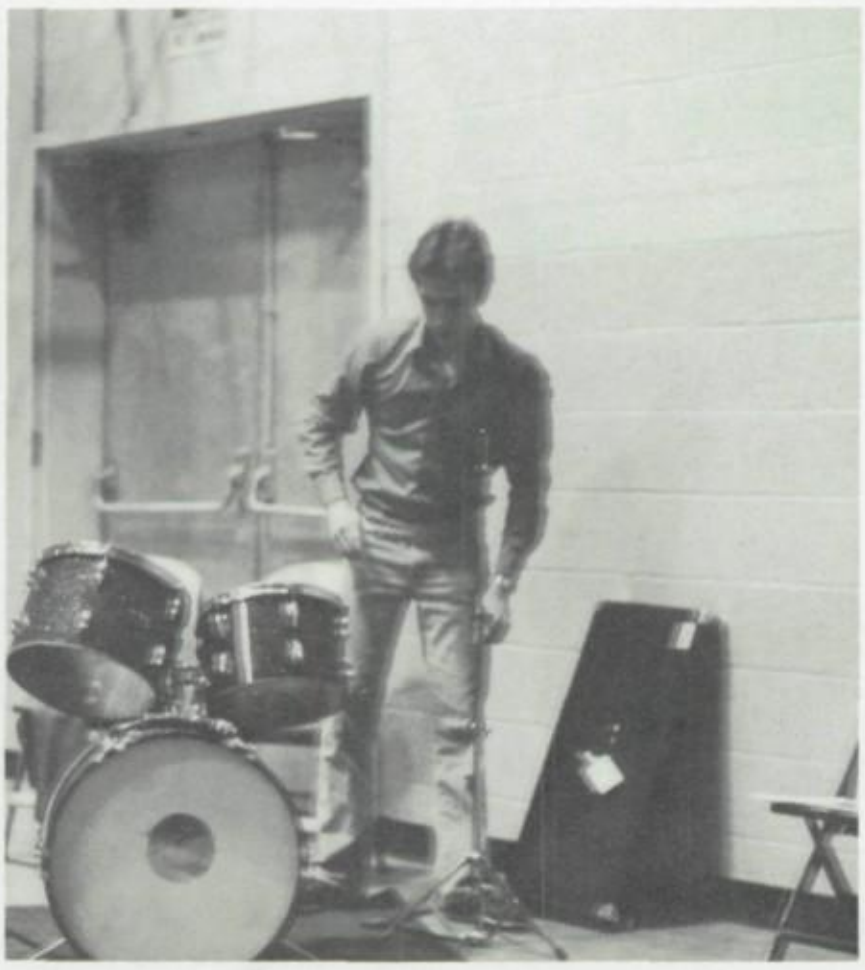
Band director Julie Burt conducts practice outside on warm days.

The concert and jazz bands were part of the pride that stood at St. Paul High. Working hard to improve their talents, the bands practiced everyday after school. When the weather got nice, Director, Julie Burt held practices outside on the play ground. The concert band held a Christmas concert and a spring concert, as well as performing their annual concert at St. Mary's Grade School.

As for the end results the bands put on some very good performances, allowing the school's pride to shine brighter.

Music Of All Types



The 1981-82 Jazz Band consists of, L-R, Mona Sangria, Shirley Skinn, John Gassman, Kathy Barman, Barb Smith, Lori Trautman, Nancy Gross, Kim Renneckar, Beth Shibley, Sally Reed, Gloria Boes, Shelli Boes, Gregg Roofer, Chris Barman, Rita Smith and Chris Meyer.

Musicians Alice McClaffin, Andy Smith and Molly Fritz melodize on their clarinets.

Majorettes Dazzle At Half-Time

This year's flag corps and majorettes added spirit and enthusiasm to all the half-time shows.

They twirled and spun with the band on every occasion. Rain, wind and snow couldn't keep our dedicated group off the field.

The majorettes, a very young team, were led by Rhonda Woodside, a soph, follow followed by another sophomore, and two freshmen.

The flag corps, on the other hand, led by Melanie McPherran, was composed of three seniors, six juniors, two sophomores, and one freshman.

Eventhough the practices were long and hard, both squads stuck it out and sound it rewarding.

This year's majorettes were, (from top to bottom) Rhonda and Robin Woodsied, Michelle Schaffer, and Sue Dixon.

The 1981-1982 cheerleaders were a very supportive and spirited part of the school. They worked hard to lead the teams to their goals. They were a very dedicated group and always managed to get the team and fans pysched up.

The cheerleaders did their duty by regenerating lost motivation during an off game.

Pep Club Shows Spirit!

1) Presented are the active members of the 1981-1982 Pep Club.

There are many activities at St. Paul and their main supporters were the members of the Pep Club. The students and their adviser, Sister Nathan, make sure that everyday there's an event that the lockers get decorated the night before. The dedication of the members is very remarkable considering they got no real praise for it.

Besides decorating the lockers they also decorated the halls. Usually everyday you could see signs up in the halls to support all the various teams. The Pep Club had several raffles and other money raising projects. Some of those projects were selling buttons and ribbons also to support the teams, raffling off a doll called Peabody and raffling a stuffed animal.

This years Pep Club officers were President, Sandy Gilson and Treasurer, Maribeth Lietz. The various teams really appreciated their support throughout the year.

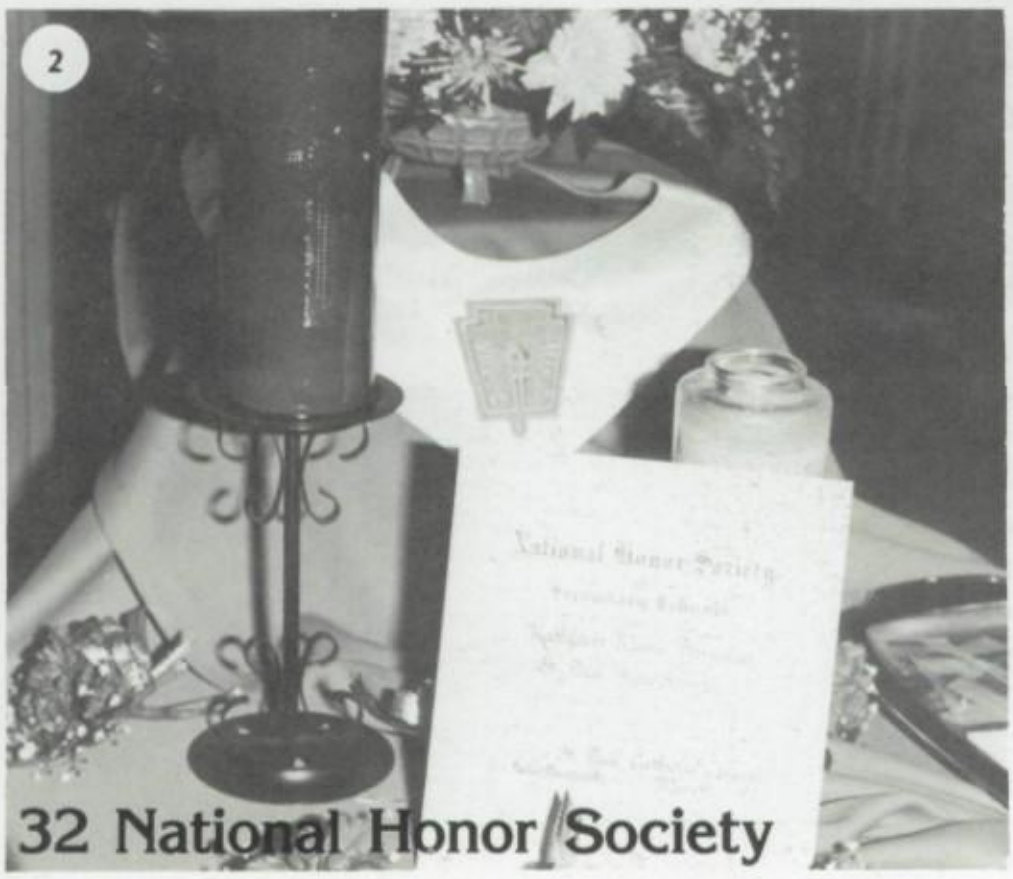
Showing Intelligence

1. We proudly present our 1982 National Honor Society members. Congratulations.

National Honor Society inducts students who have a 3.0 or better grade average, service to the school and community, leadership capabilities and character.

Last year's members who are Albert Vargas, Meg Hohler, Debbie Bleile, Nancy Gross, and Bill Collier tapped out Barb Smith, Pat Pickett, Bill MacDonald, Steve Boose, Marty Roth, Kim Renneckar, Sally Reed, Andrea Marksbury and Kathleen Barman in a very special mass with the whole high school and their parents present.

2. These are symbols of the student's hard work and drive to achieve this goal.



3. Senior Debbie Bleile pins a coursage on Junior Sally Reed during the induction ceremony.

1. Our 1982 Firelands Challange team consisted of five seniors, one junior and two sophomore and was headed by Mr. Wilber Vickory.

2. During a competition our team discuss the question intensely before answering.

It's Academic

The name of the competition has been changed but the intelligence is still the same. The Scott Hi-Q competition ended last year because of leaving the area and Firelands Challange replaced that program this year.

SPH students competed in this competition along with ten other area high school. The Firelands Challange has greatly inproved the intellectual development of the students involveo.

The students involved in this academic competition were Albert Vargas Captain along with four other seniors, one junior, and two sophomores. Their experience helped them this year to compete and will help them in their future academic careers.

3. Albert Vargas answers a question while his team members wait in anticipation.

Student Council Supports The School

This years student council headed by Mrs. Bauer and Mr. Hoxie raised a lot of money for the parish this past school year. Some of the fund raising projects were selling Sweetest Day Flowers to the students to give each other. Poinsetta's at Christmas time to all the members of St. Paul Parish and Valentines candy to the students. They also sponsored the Homecoming Dance.

Along with all the Student Council projects each class had their own Fund raisers for their treasury. They raised the money by Bake Sales, Car Washes, Magizine sale, pizza drive and Dances.

Acolytes participate in the Mass.

St. Paul High School can be proud when it comes to boys giving up their time to serve in church. They not only participate in Mass but also grow in their responsibilities.

This year there were 45 boys organized by Mr. Vickery to serve their community and God.

Our 1981-82 Folk Group consisted of Seniors; Barb Burtin, John Gassman, Matt Heitt, Bill MacDonald, and Shirley Skinn. Juniors: Kathy Barman, Sally Reed and Kim Rennecker. Sophomores Shelley Boes and Chris Meyers. Freshman: Charles Doyle. It was advised by Mrs. Hummel. They played and sang at all high school masses and Saturday afternoon for the parish. With Wednesday afternoon and some evening practices they were given the chance to polish up before the Friday and Saturday Masses ahead.

They brought new songs to our attention and boosted the participation up in Mass.

SPORTS

1) Dan Lieber meets up with an Edison Charger during a home game.

The 1981-82 sports season featured many dedicated and determined athletic teams. The football team had a very good record but couldn't quite break even as they had wanted to. The volleyball team also ended with a good record and a very good show for the season.

The Golf team under first year coach Dan Wheeler put in a successfull one. The tennis team put in a lot of spirit for being a boys team with more girls. The boy's basketball teams had a great season lead by the Freshman team who took Firelands Conference Crown. The girl's basketball teams ended with a good record as the Varsity team won their first sectional game but were knocked out of competition in the second game.

The wrestling team had another terrific season and also sent John McFadden to state where he finished as a state qualifier. The baseball and track teams showed more of the St. Paul spirit like all the other athletic teams.

2) Jill Eberly pushes on with all her determination at a home meet against Danbury Lakeside.

Loss

The 1981 St. Paul Flyers Football team finished it's second consecutive season with a 4-6 record. Under the direction of third year Head Coach Bill Roberts, the Flyers were some what of an exciting team by winning their four games by a total of 11 points. With the help of Coaches', Lippert, Linder, and Zanotti, the players maintained an immense conditioning and strength program which kept the Flyers rolling through the year. For the first time since 1951 the Flyers have beaten the St. Mary's. The come from behind win against Black River also highlighted the season. The Flyers were fortunate enough to have many skilled players. Bob Simon, Dan Lieber, Mark Wiesenberger, and Kelly Amato were recognized in the All-Conference selections. Lieber an offensive end set a school record with 50 pass receptions. Wiesenberger set a school record with a 33 yard field goal. Simon averaged over ten tackles a game at his linebacker position, and Kelly Amato had over 800 yards passing.

Hard Work Pays Off.

The Reserve Team, under the guidance of coaches Larry Hoxie and Jamie Wise posted a record of 5-2-1. This is one of the best records of a reserve team this school has had in a long time. The key to this winning record was the teams desire. The team never gave up and it was evident in the scores of their games.

Game after game the J.V. Flyers were either tied or down in the fourth quarter and they came back to win. It was key plays like a field goal or a long run that kept the Flyers win streak alive. Highlighting this exciting year were victories over Mapleton and Black River.

The St. Paul girls volleyball team had an enjoyable but disappointing season this year.

The Varsity team, led by Coach Vern Fawcett, ended with a record of 10-8 overall. They started out by winning the consolation trophy at the Norwalk Invitational and went through the season with some victorious and heart-breaking games. Five girls were placed on the Firelands All-Conference teams. Maribeth Leitz made first team, Barb Burton made second team, while Barb Smith, Patty Nickoli, and Amy Mushett had honorable mentions.

At the annual Sports Banquet three awards were given. Barb Smith received 110%, Patty Nickoli received most improved, and Kathleen Barman received a plaque for most consecutive points in one game.

The JV team, led by Coach Becky Speer, ended with a record of 9-5 overall.

2. RESERVE TEAM, standing: Anne Nestor, Cecilia Hackathorn, Dina Barman, Paula Gerstenberger, Pat Nestor, and Coach Becky Speer. Kneeling: Cathy Creamer, Lori Trautman, Mary Dudics, and Amy Seitz. Sitting: Sue Dixon and Carolyn Lieber.

Achievement

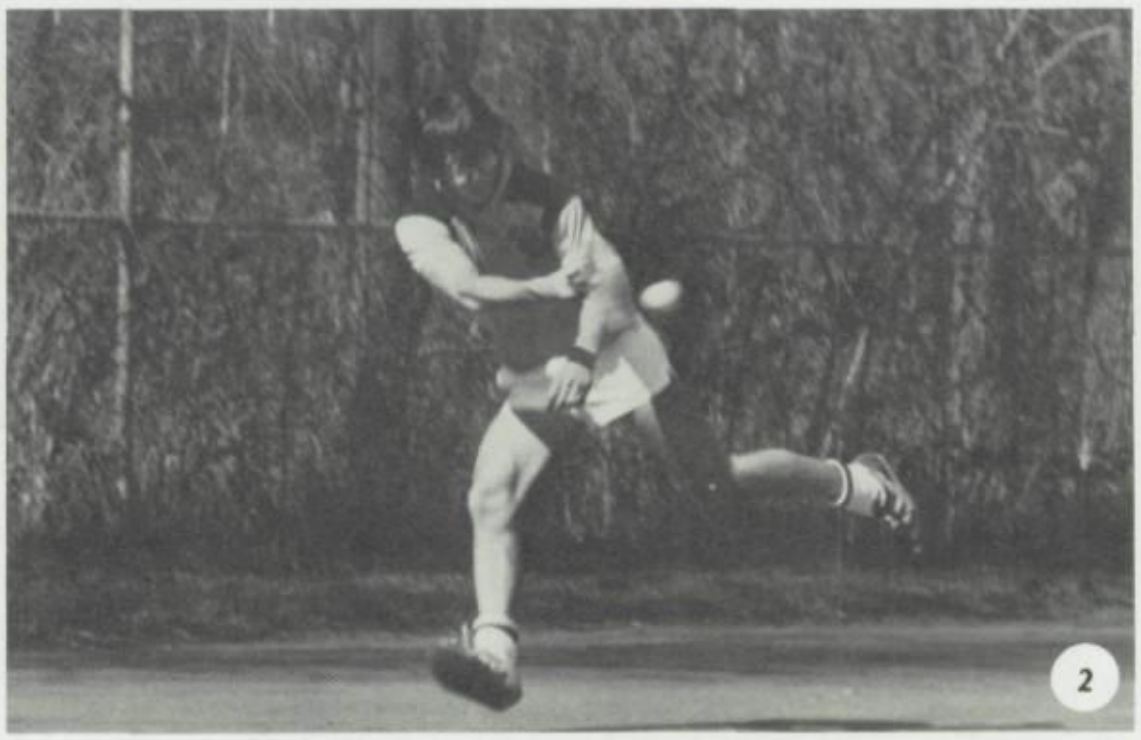
2. Sandy Gilson shows good backhand form as she returns the ball to her opponent.

3. Jenny Gassman and Carolyn Lieber work as a team against Crestline.

This tennis season was a season of growth, not only external skills developed through true dedication, practice every day and matches, but inner game skills as well.

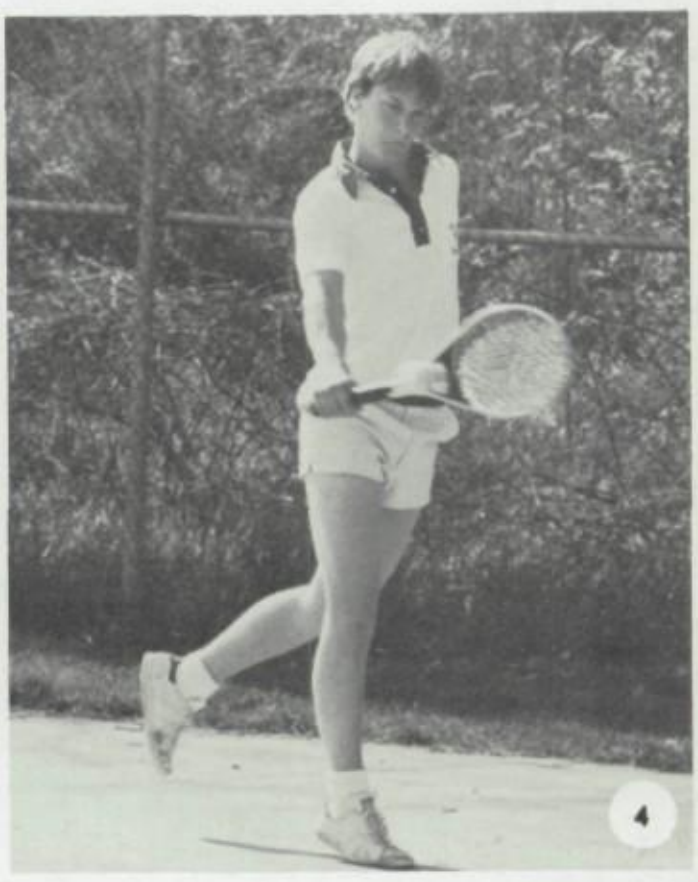
The first year students were concerned with executing strokes, positioning and focusing on the ball. The more experienced players reviewed and strengthened techniques, developed concentration, confidence, tennis strategy, and bettered the awareness of the game.



1. Lori Trautman anticipates returning the ball to her Crestline opponent.

2. John Volcheck hustles to save the shot against Mansfield St. Peters.

3. Tim McFadden returns a difficult shot to his tough opponent.



4. Kelly Amato easily returns the shot to his Crestline opponent.

Flyers Hang In There

3. All anyone can do is watch the ball go through the hoop after one of Mark Smith's shots during a home game.

The '82 season had some exciting games but they just weren't enough to pull the rest of the season together. At Sectionals both the coaches and the team put in a heartbreaking effort when they lost 46-42 against New London.

Although the Flyers Varsity Team ended with the record 3-18, they kept their heads up and pushed on after their loses, to show that it takes more guts to keep going than to just give up.

Thrills And Spills

1. J.V.: Coach Bill Roberts, Jude Ott, Alan Lieber, Kevin Shumate, Mike Umpirowicz, Keith Shumate, Mike Smith, Roger Schloesser, Rick Kettle, Sean Berry, Chris Stang, Paul Martinez, Bill LaRoche, Ron Miller, and Mgr. Rick Schaffer.

It was a year of disappointment and of improvements for the Flyer J.V. basketball team. They ended their season with a record of 2-18. But for this team the record didn't matter, pride and determination were enough. The team was coached by Coach Roberts. Most of the teams' practices were held in the morning before school started because of how late school was let out. But the team stayed in there; putting up with getting up early, many defeats, and a dragging season.

Under the direction of new head coach Larry Hoxie, the freshmen basketball team pulled out an excellent 15-2 season. They started out the season with a five game winning streak, then lost to Mapleton, 29-35. In the meantime, they had a three game winning streak beating New London in double overtime, but the Wildcats turned the tables beating us in overtime, 47-49, for a second and final loss of the season. In tournament play, the Young Flyers went to the top earning the Conference Crown by defeating Western Reserve in the opening game, 56-35, Monroeville in the semifinals, 52-46, and the final showdown once again against New London, 42-36.

1. Keith Shumate attempts to block a shot off of his opponent during a heartbreaker against Mapleton.

2. The intensity of coach Hoxie reflects upon the true spirit of the Freshman team during their victorious season.

3. Sean Berry outjumps his Mapleton opponent in a home game against the Mounties on Parent's Night.

4. Brad Alge goes in for a allay-up against his tough New London opponent adding two more to their winning score.

2. Jackie Smith and Lori Leis show their spirit by holding the hoop for the Girls Varsity team on Parents Night.

3. Pat Nestor gets set to shoot during a home game against Mapleton.

4. Coach Mancuso and his JV team take a time out to discuss a new play which led them to a victory during a home game.

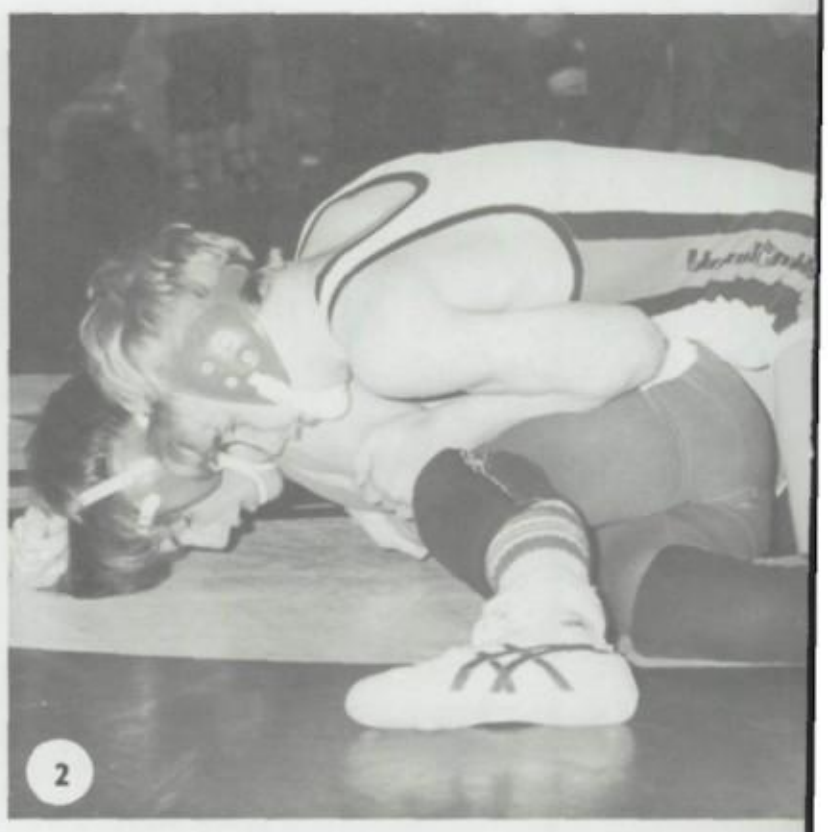
The '81-'82 Girls Basketball season was one of dedication throughout the entire season which paid off in the end with an excellent second half with the record of 6-4.

Although they had their share of defeats in the beginning they proved that sometimes it takes the thousandth step to reach their goals. For the first time in four years they won their first sectional game against Ashland Crestview but were knocked out of the competition by Western Reserve at their try for the Sectional Crown.

They also placed three girls on the Firelands Conference team. Anne Spettel was placed on the second team while Barb Burton and Molly Fritz both had honorable mentions.

Wrestlers Continue Winning Tradition

1. Don Carabin works on a "chicken wing" on the way toward a victory over his Tiffin Calvert opponent.



2. Freshman standout Kevin Jaworski is in complete control on his way to another victory.

The 1981-82 wrestlers faced many obstacles along the road to highly successful season, a season that opened with a new head coach. Dr. David Ember took over for a highly successful Coach Denny Doughty and did an excellant job in keeping the wrestling pride alive and well at St. Paul.

The team consisted of only two seniors who compiled a glittering 7-2 dual meet mark and highlighted their season with a second place finish at the single A sectional. Three wrestlers won individual conference titles including John McFadden, Don Carabin and Scott Jaworski. At the sectional tournament in Vermillion the Flyer pride showed unbeatable odds yet still came out on top. John McFadden, Don Carabin and Scott Jaworski again copped top honors with outstanding performances. Joe Mack, Kevin Jaworski and Jim Gassman wrestled extremely well losing only in the championship finals to claim second place. Senior first year heavyweight Mike Grine suprised everyone with his outstanding performance taking 3rd place and earning a trip to the districts.

After losing Jim Gassman to an injury the Flyers entered Anderson arena to face head on their toughest competition of the year. When the smoke had cleared John McFadden was the lone remauining Flyer. John lost a hard fought heartbreaker 1-0 in the semifinals but showed great heart and determination in battling back to claim 3rd place and earned a trip to Columbus. At Columbus experience worked against John but will be on his side as he shoots for his second consecutive trip to Columbus next year.

Gone from next years team will be the great senior leadership and determination of Chris Barman and Mike Grine, a position that will need to be filled by outstanding young underclassman of this years team. A fine nucleus of juniors return next year as will freshmen and sophomores who saw valuable varsity experience this past season. Next year looks like another banner for the Flyer wrestling tradition.

1. Coach Linder shouts encouragement as seniors Chris Barman and Mike Grine look on.

2. Junior 105 pounder Joe Mack tightens a head lock en route to a pin.

3. Junior Varsity stalwart John Rospert rides tough on his Tiffin Calvert opponent.

A Full Count!

1982 VARSITY BASEBALL TEAM 1st row: Jim Sarr, Dan Lieber, Mark Smith, Dave Rospert, Mike Kocher. 2nd row: Sean Schaffer, Kevin Miller, Eric Hipp, Bob Simon, Marty Schaffer, Marty Roth. 3rd row: Rick Schaffer mgr., John Landoll, Jeff Hohler, Brian Alge, Brian Missler. 3rd row: Coach Larry Hoxie, Coach Bob Lippert, Coach Don Hohler.

The 1982 Flyer Baseball team enjoyed a fine season with their new coaching staff headed by Mr. Bob Lippert. Coach Lippert was ably assisted by Coaches Don Hohler and Larry Hoxie. They finished their season one game away from .500.

A major point to the season was the defeat of Norwalk High at the St. Mary Invitational game in Sandusky. This win earned the team a berth in the championship round.

Brian Alge rounds third in front of an approving Coach Lippert at Sandusky's Rather Field.

Although the 1982 Boy's Track Team, headed by Mr. Paul Boll, had a disappointing season overall, they advanced themselves mentally as well as physically.

Steve Boose, Kevin Toney and Bill Collier, the senior captains, led a large group of underclassmen.

Great achievements were made by: Doug Mainzer, the leading scorer, followed by David Poole. Competing at regionals were Junior John Fisher and Sophomore Rick Kettel.

Though the team didn't do as well as they had expected they reached a goal—they worked together to improve their skills and they improed their ability to work as a team.

2. Jane Schmuhl and Suzi Martin battle it out for first place in the 100 yard dash.

3. Jill Eberly runs her leg in the mile relay.

The 1982 Girls Track team ended their season with a record of 5-6. The team was very young, consisting of mostly freshmen and sophomores. The only three returning four-year lettermen were Jane Schmuhl, Maribeth Leitz, and Nancy Gross. Two outstanding sophomores were Tricia Gross and Suzi Martin. Also among freshmen standouts were Donna Phillips in hurdles, Amy Seitz in sprints, Regina Missler in the 880 yard run, Gloria Boes in the 440 yard run, and Anne Nestor in the high jump.

Much promising talent is looked for in the future. The team should gain strength within the next few years.

1. Kathy Kiser prepares to throw the discus at a home meet against Lakeside.

2. Regina Missler takes her turn running in the two mile relay.

3. Sharon Hoffacker puts everything into her long jump during a home meet against Lakeside.

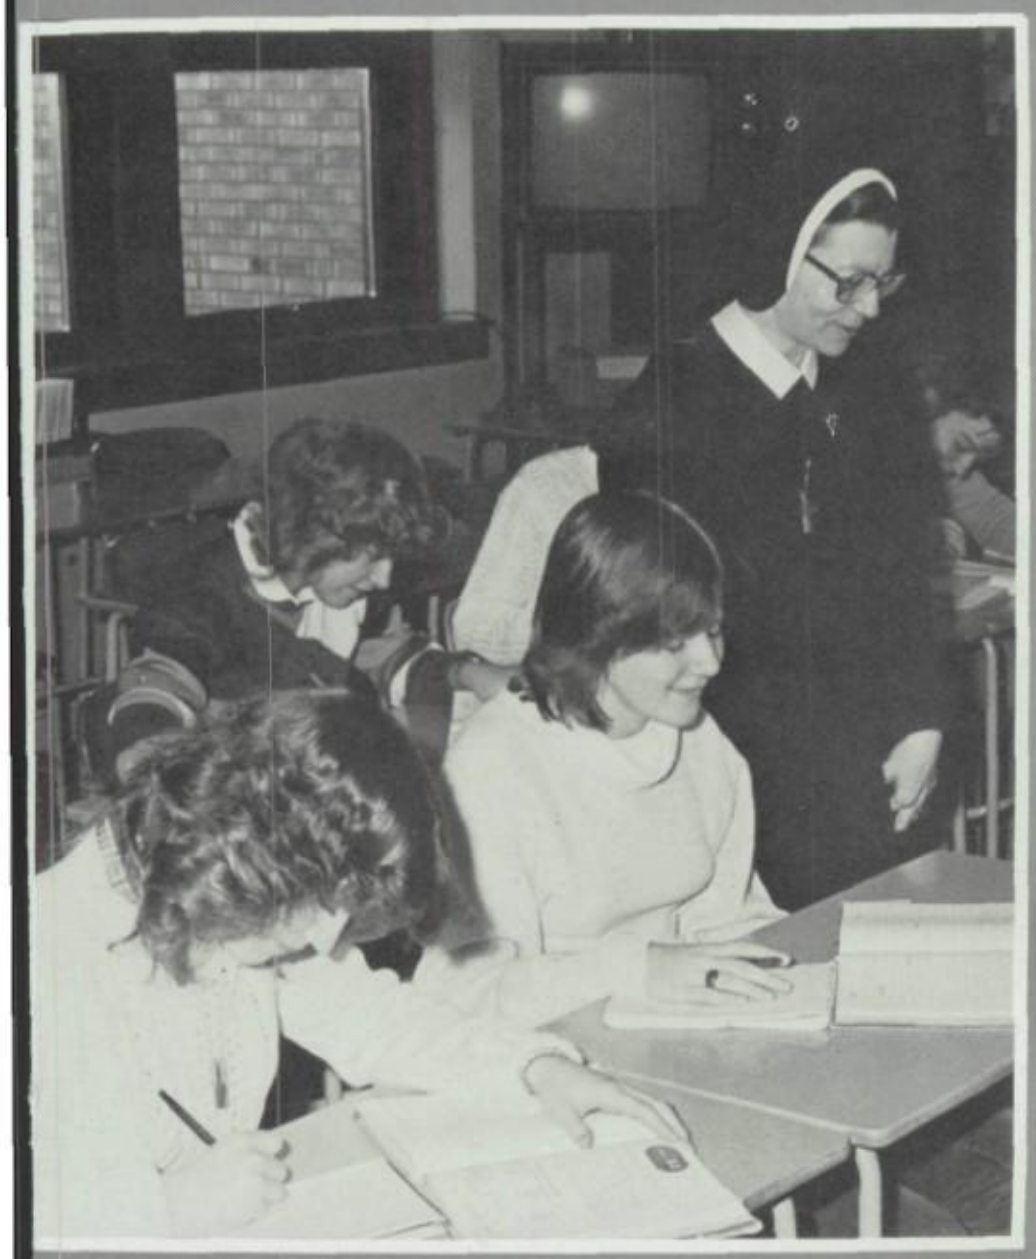
ACADEMICS

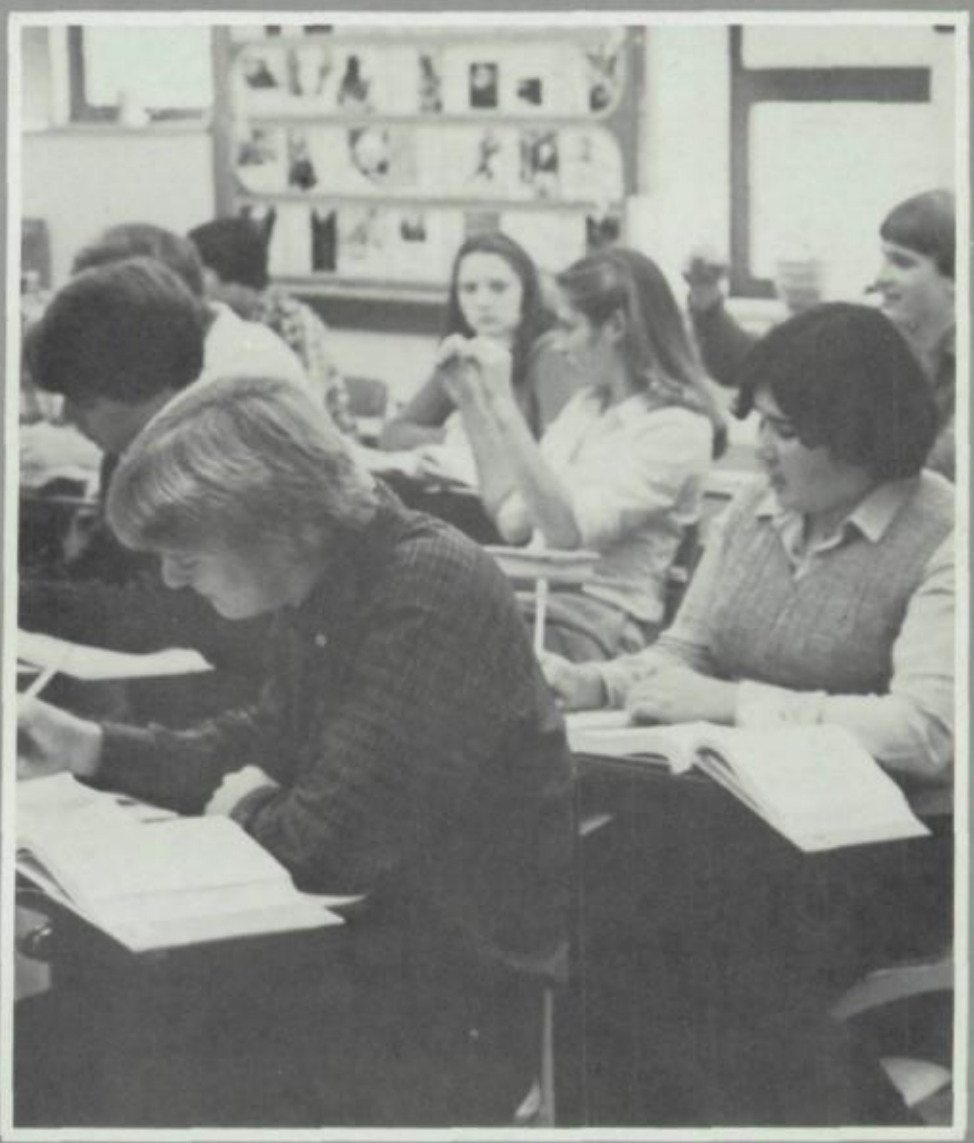
Part of Math is tests, and general math students experience those tests given by Mr. Fawcett.

One thing that has always been a tradition at our school is our studies, or our academics. We have experienced the fun times and the serious times. We all accepted the homework and took part in the discussions. Whether we were in the classroom or in the public eye we learned many different things in many different places. We learned both in school from the books and out of school from life.

We all accepted our traditional required classes, but each class had a twist of newness in it. In Religion we all learned to appreciate our faith by sharing in our liturgies, experiencing Christ at our retreats, and for the juniors in their service projects. The English classes had the experience of acting out a favorite scene from literture.

St. Paul's academics offered a variety of classes, both traditional and new, that helped developedall of our skills and abilities.

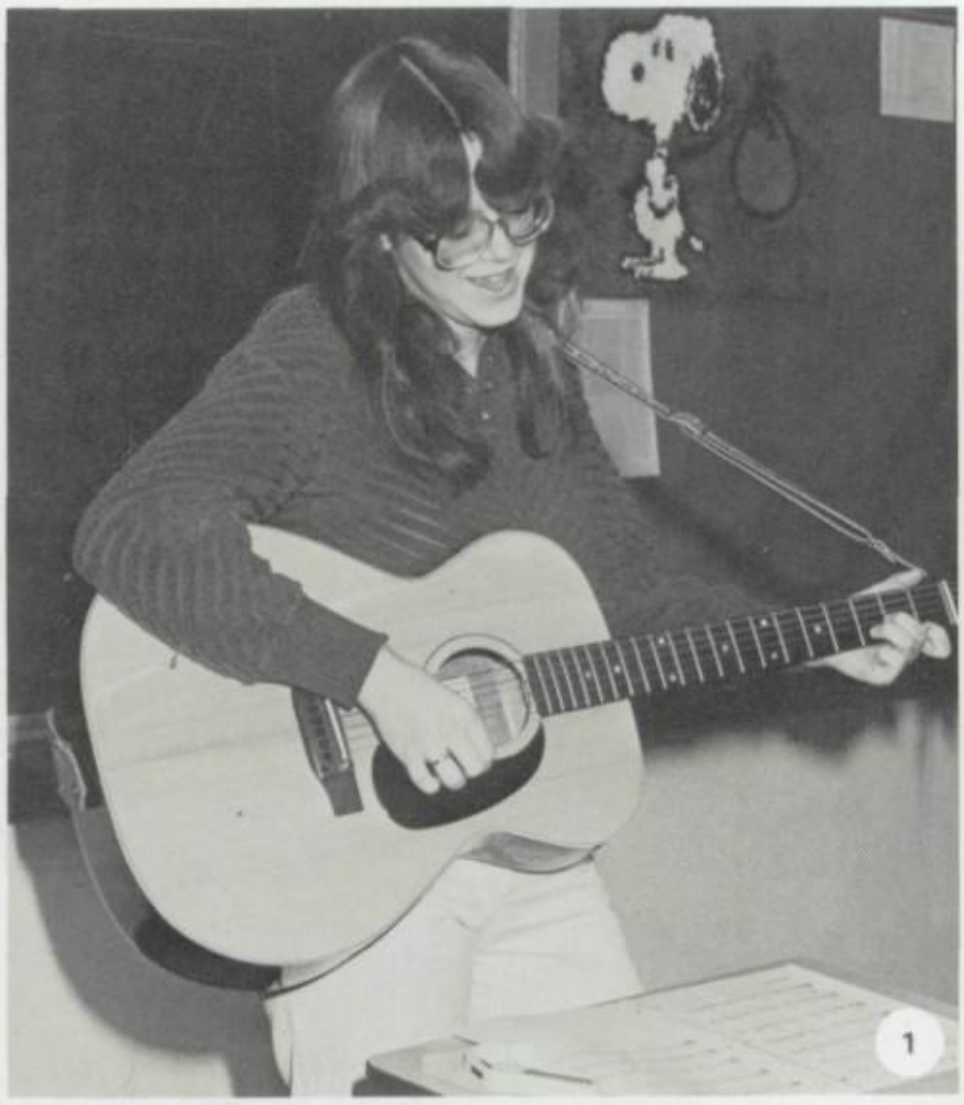




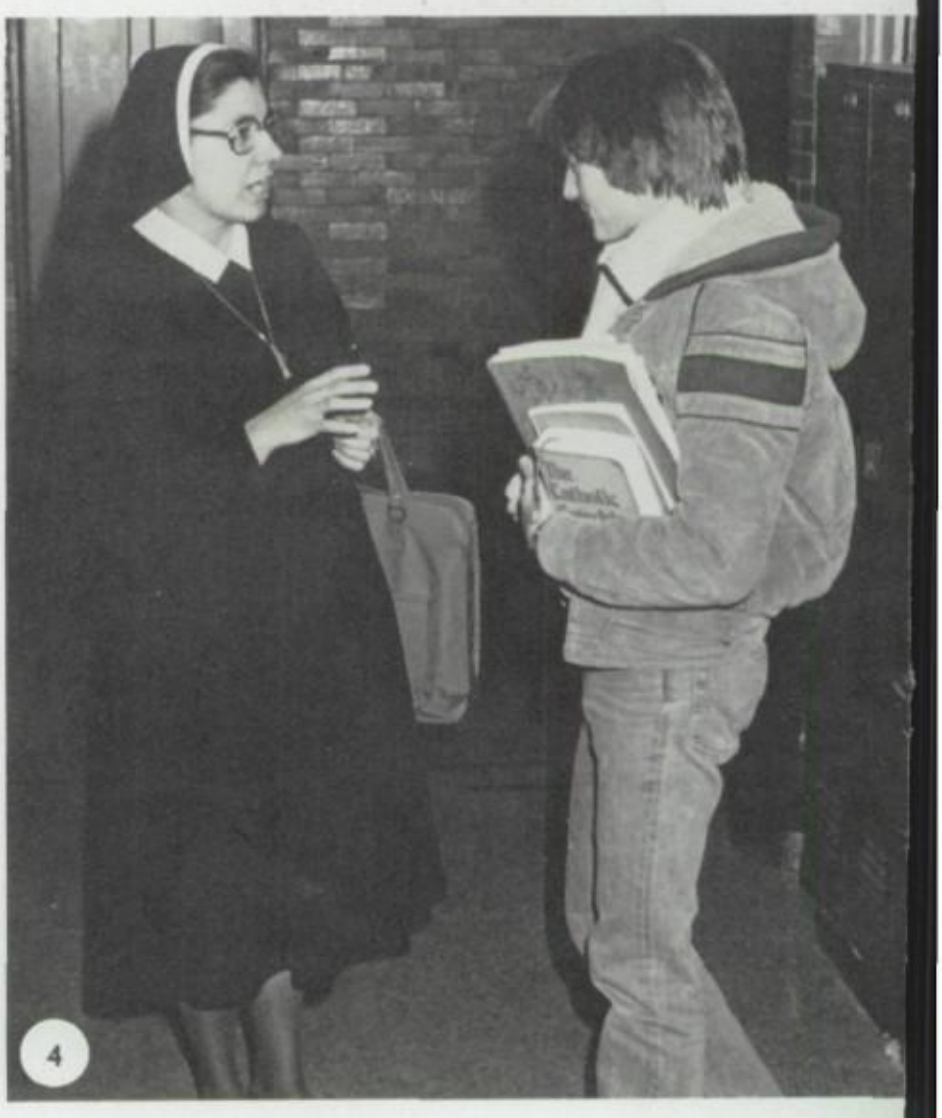
Sister Janene tries to get a point across to Alice McClaflin in shorthand I, while Chris Larson breezes trhough the assignment.

Pat Pickett furiously tries to understand his Algebra II while Kelly Amato and Claudia Villa simply take down thier math information.

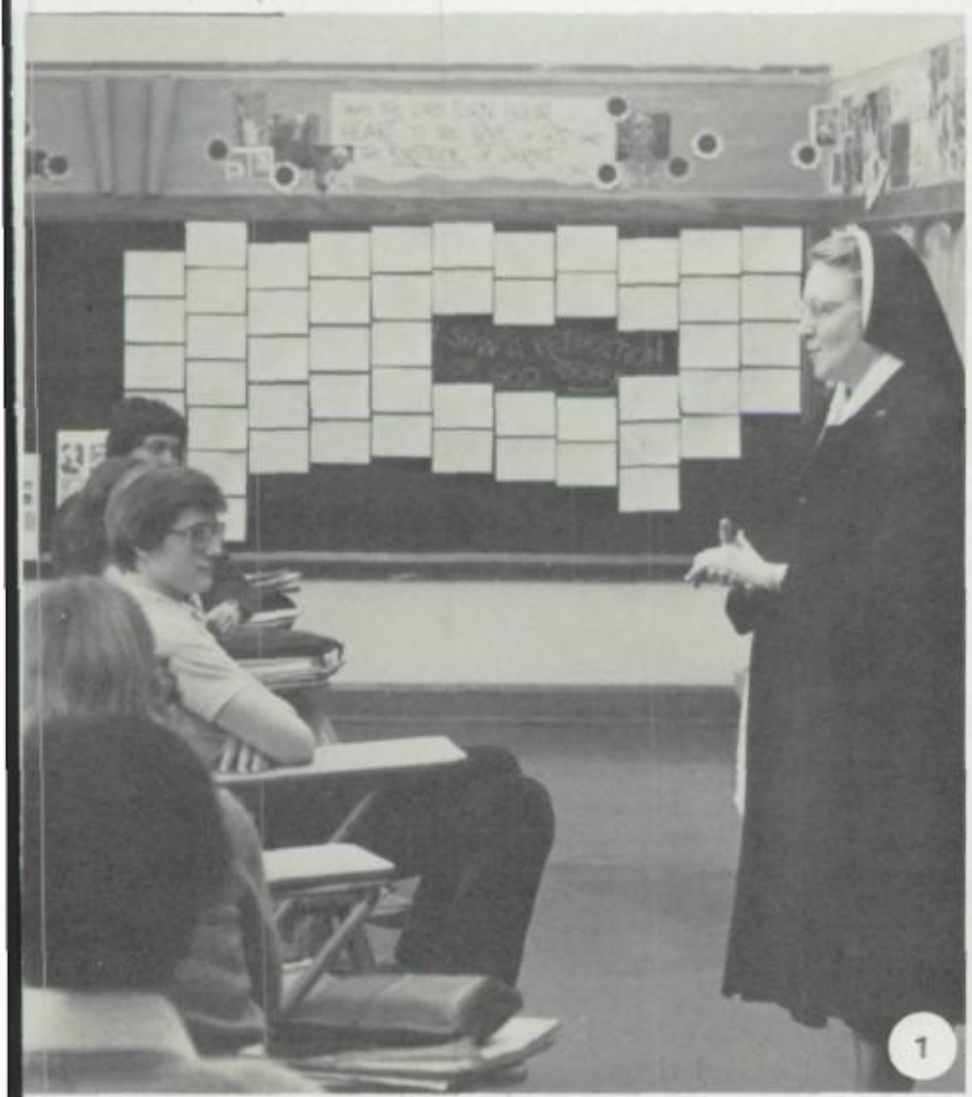
Growing



1. With the approval of Snoopy, Sue Allen plays her guitar in freshmen religion encouraging the freshmen to participate in singing.
2. Preparing for the penance service before Christmas breake Sherl Rossman, Michelle Schaffer, and Sister Deanne work on the snowflakes.
3. There is another way to participate in mass besides singing and praying, and Bob Simon and Steve Boose illustrate it by serving at a high school mass.
4. Religion can be a topic of discussion anywhere as demonstrated in senior hall by Sister Nathan and Mark O'brenovich.



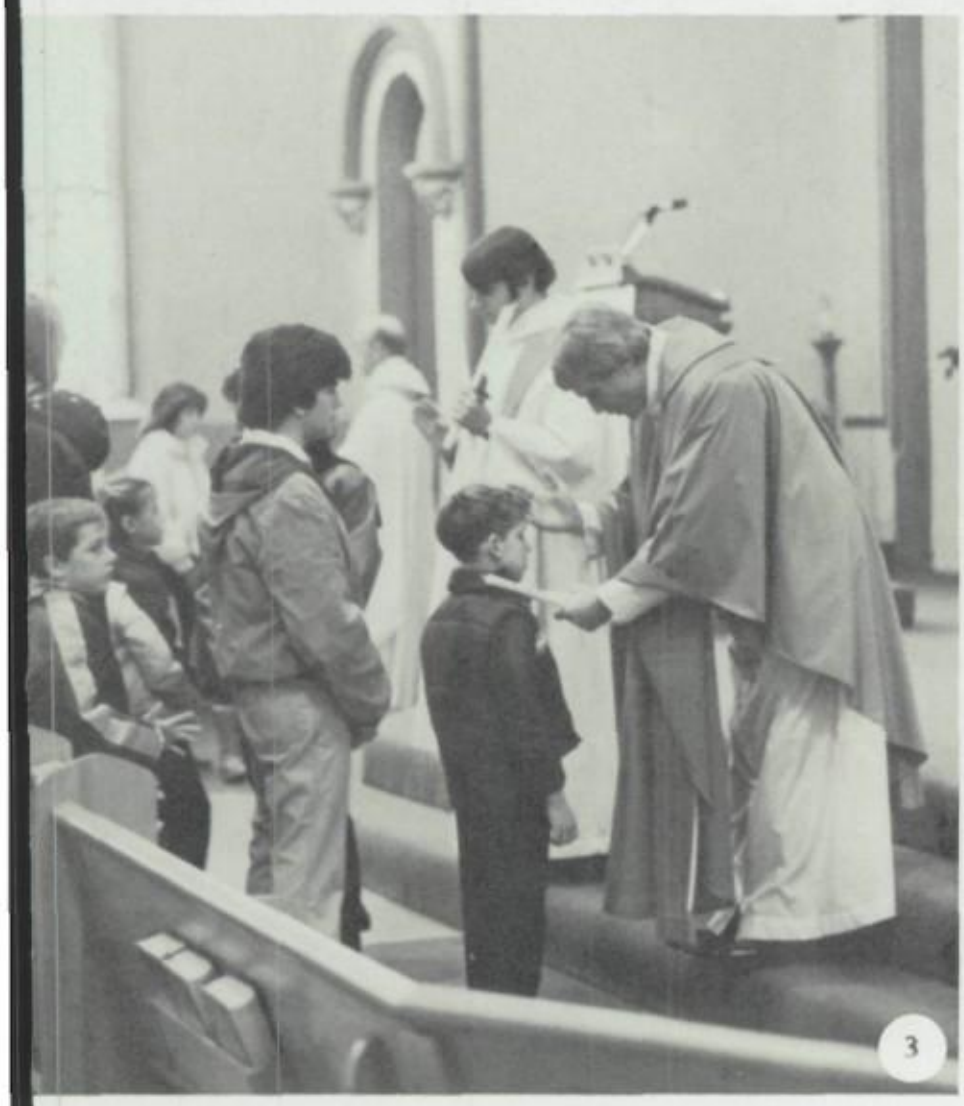
Up . . .



One of the longest traditions at St. Paul's was our religion classes. Experiencing Christ was the purpose of our faith. The religion department was designed to guide and develop the students into true christians. The traditional classroom approach was the main source of our education. The practical approach involves the service projects for the juniors and the various religious activities, above all our liturgies and retreats.

The subject matter of our classes was based on our Christian background. Each class has a basic goal to teach. The freshmen's objective was to acheive the challange of a Christian. Sophomores learned the sacraments and the Bible. The juniors besides thier service projects took interest in thier Church history and the essentials of morality. Since the seniors are preceeding into the world they are absorbing the fundalmentals of the faith and the importance of marriage.

Religion is more than a study to us, it is the way we live. As we accomplished our goals, we gained a closer understanding of Christ in ourselves and others.



1. A former teacher of most of our students, now one of the six Assistant Generals of the Notre Dame Sisters in Rome, Sister Terrisilla tells the sophomore class about her adventures.

3

An old tradition recently reborn is that of the annual class retreats. Each retreat was different in its own right and experiences, though unique, very similar.

Even though the sophomores and freshmen don't stay overnight they just get away from the regular school day.

This year the freshmen and sophomores had their retreat at the Sowworful Mother Shrine. The juniors enjoyed an overnight affair at Shelby. And the event that the seniors may never forget was at Burgamo in Dayton.

Our other religious activities which has been a tradition for a while is our high school liturgies. Every class took their turn preparing the masses throughout the year in which the whole school participated.

A new twist within our religion department is the involvement of some of our students in T.E.C. (Teens Encounter Christ). They had a chance to search for their own identity with other teens around the diocese.

Together with class retreats, liturgies, and T.E.C. we here at St. Paul's have tried to develop into God's community.

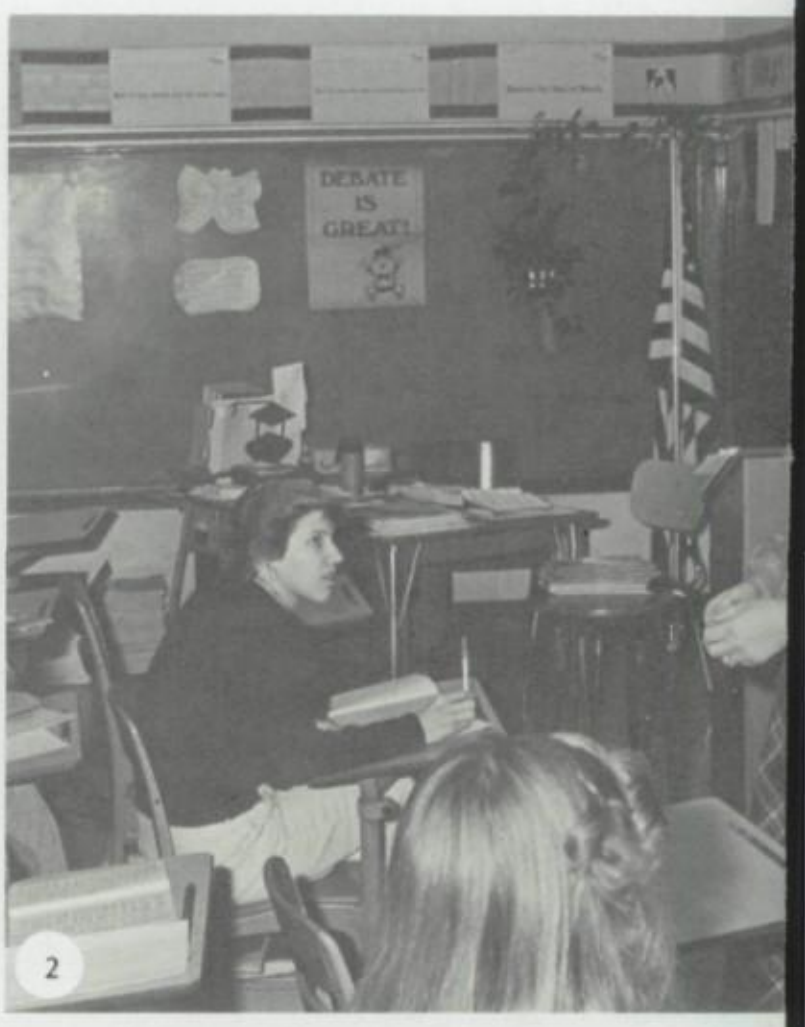
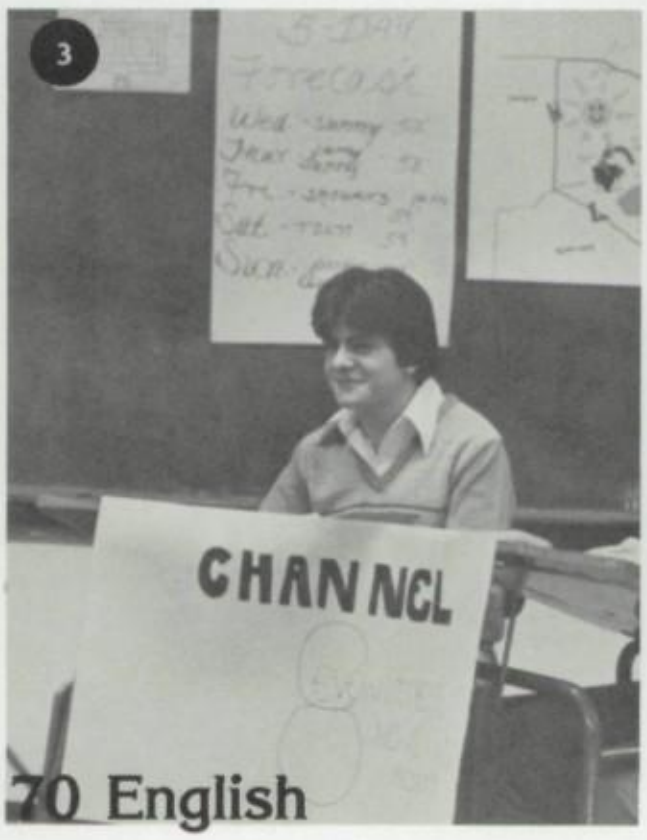
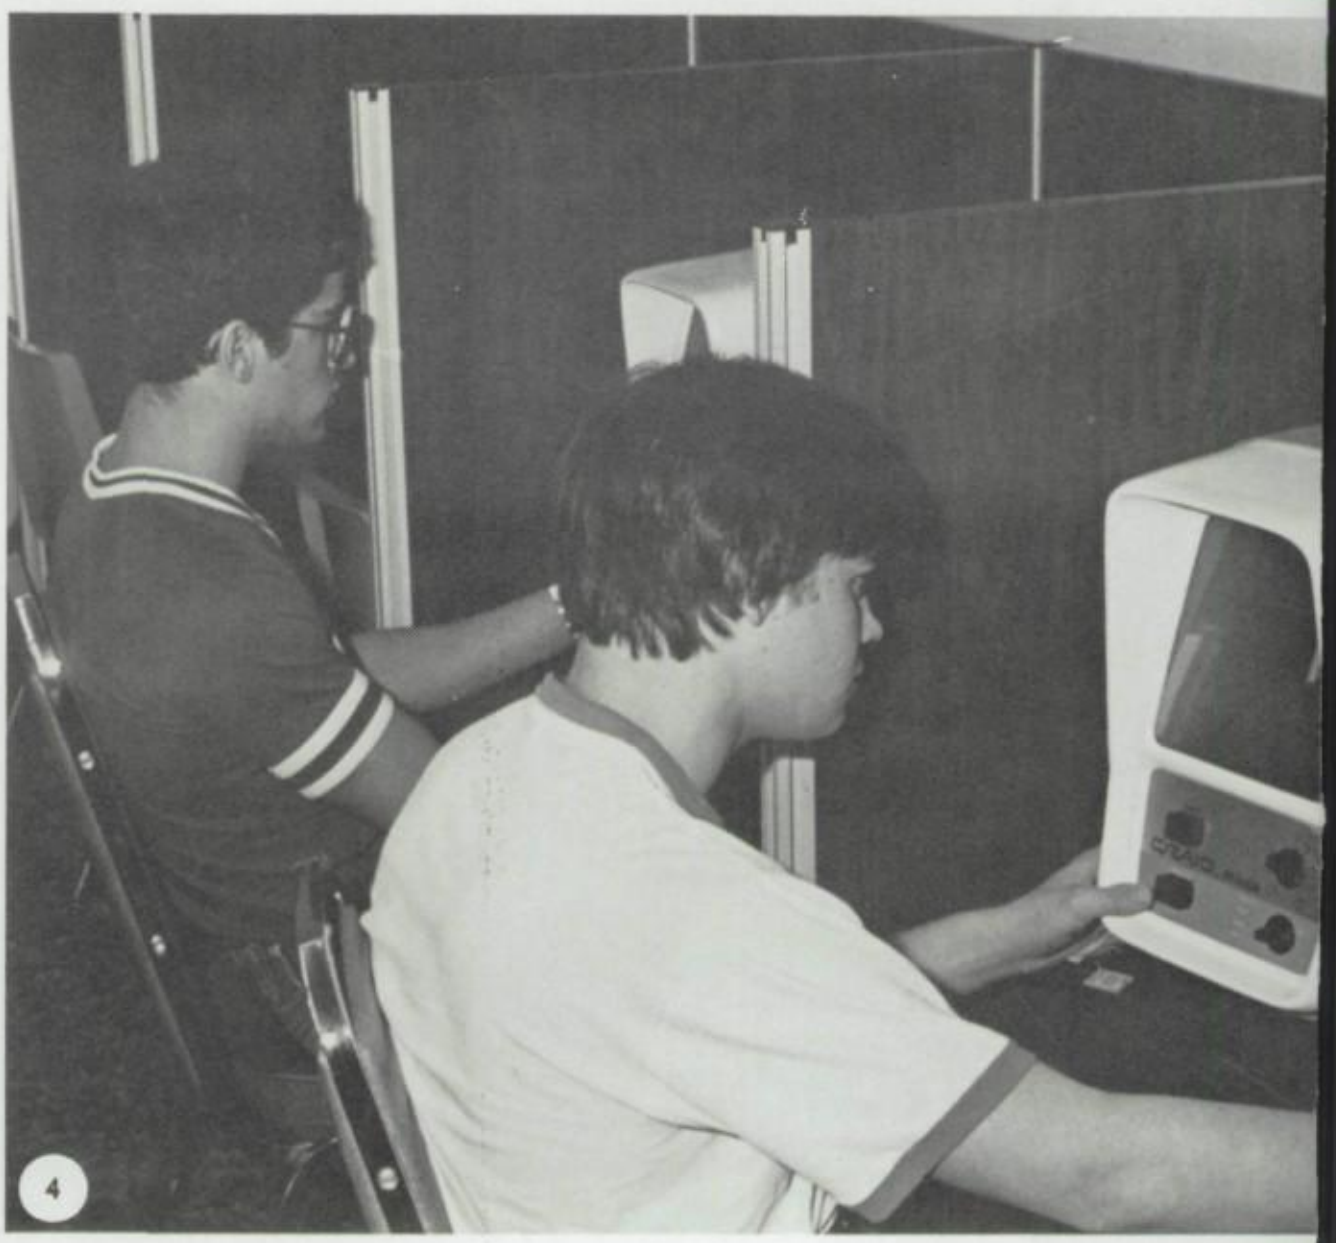
Experience

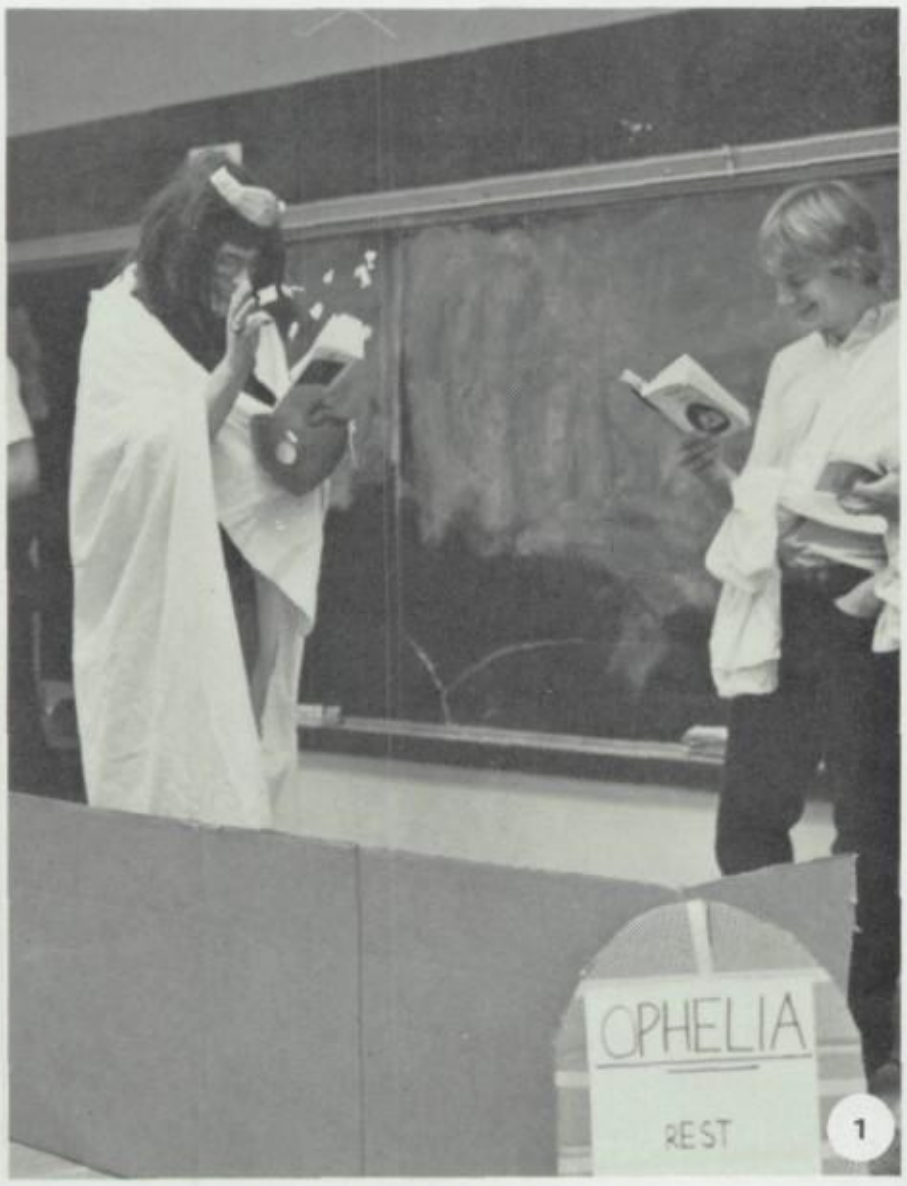
A World Of Basics And Change



1. Matt Heit catches Pat Pickett off guard will performing their ballad in senior English
2. Mrs. Hummel helps the English II class understand their vocabulary words.
3. The future anchorman for the Eye-witness News is Noe Zapata telling us the latest news in speech.
4. Rob Shibley and Mike Conney consentrate on their reading machines in Sr. Carmel's class.







The English students of St. Paul's developed themselves in many areas. Some of the students were determined to accomplish the basics of Grammar, while others took interest in literature and the knowledge of their vocab.

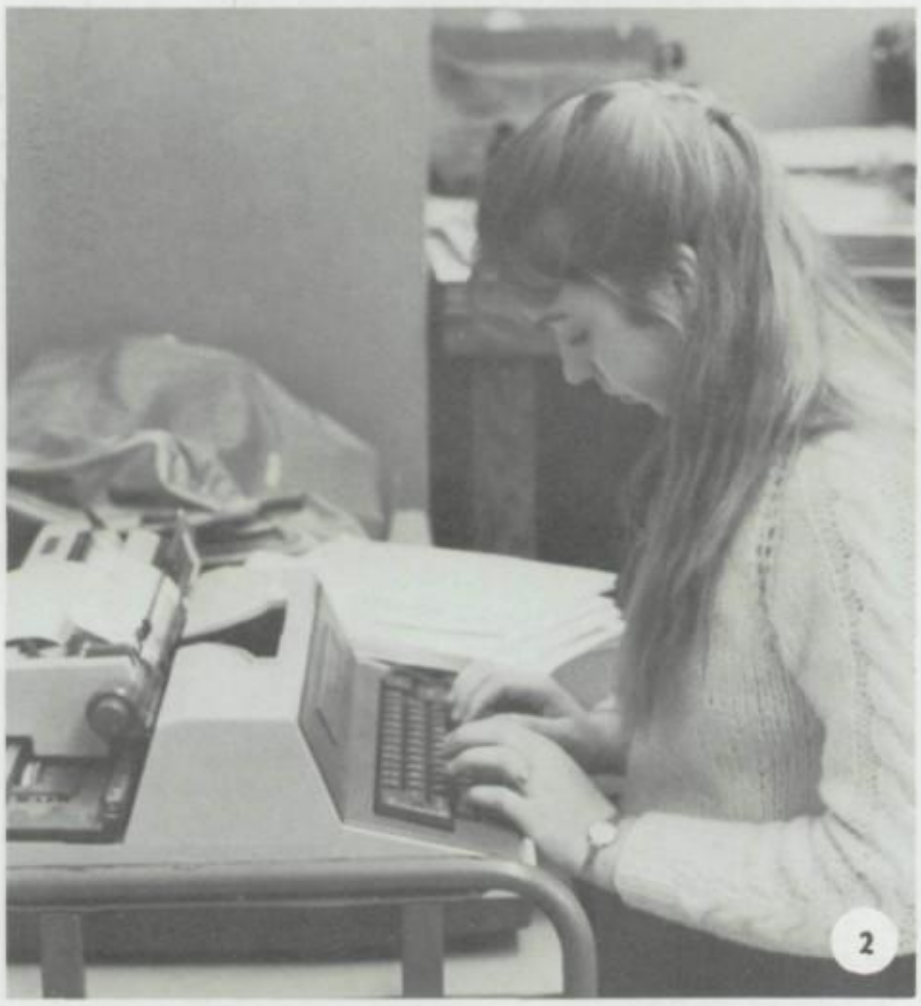
Use of these skills took place in a variety of ways: acting, speaking, and writing in class and before the class.

With the new speech teacher, Mr. Linder, we also developed our skills in verbal communication.

Some students chose to advance their reading skills with the help of Sister Mary Carmel and her machines in special reading classes.

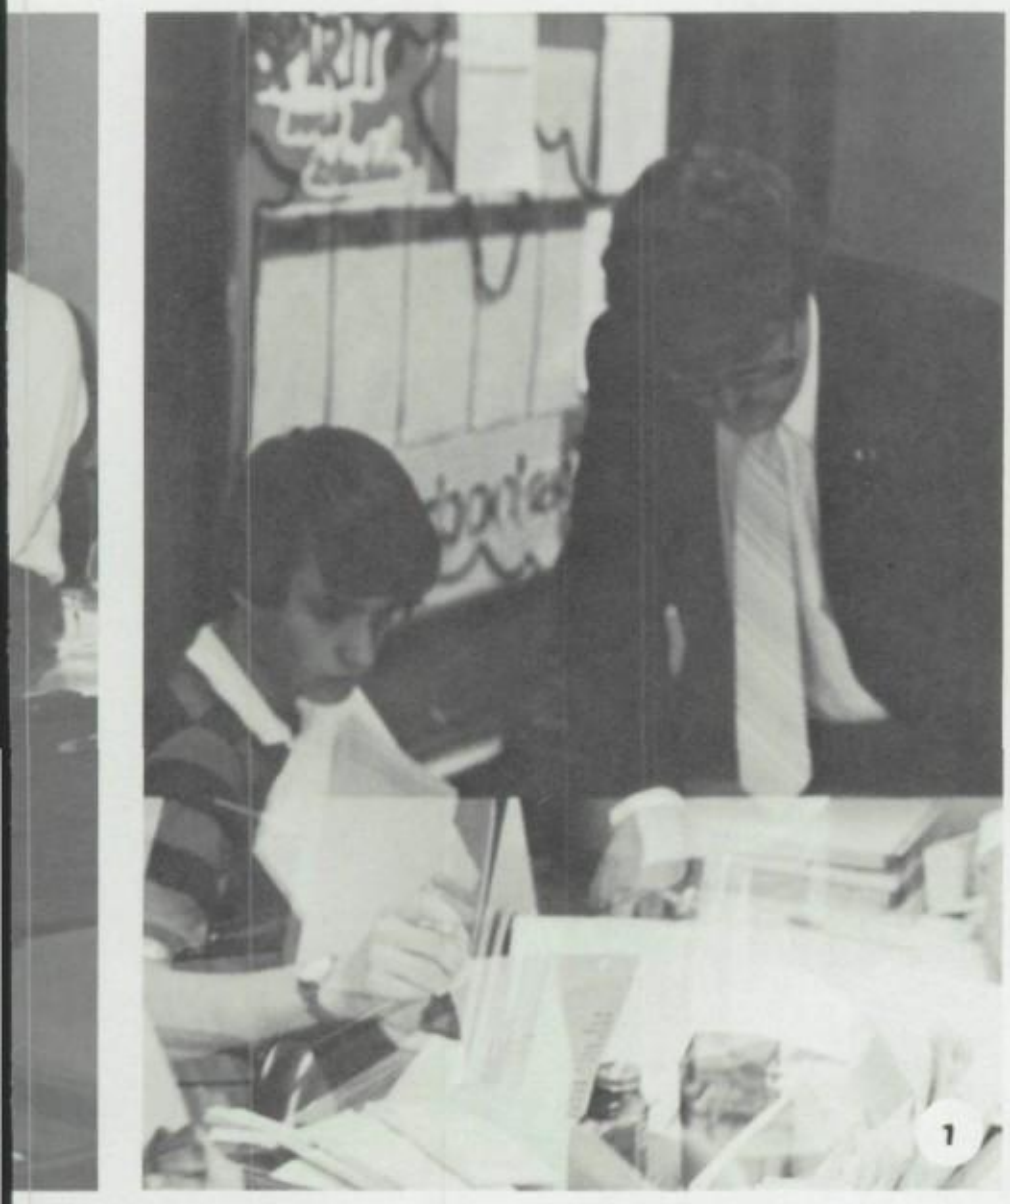
Whether freshmen or seniors all advanced their skills in communication through English. Participation in all of these subjects allowed the students to be introduced to the world of English, a world of basics and of change.

1. Mourning over the death of Ophelia are Gertrude, Craig Moffit, and Hamlet, Kelly Amato at her grave site.
2. Barb Burton and Barb Smith display their talent by composing and performing their own ballad, It's Too Late.
3. Learning the techniques of the camera for speech is Jeri Wyatt taking advice from Mr. Linder.



Look Ahead

1. 1981 - 82 Yearbook Staff: 1st. row: Sue Mushett, Barb Burton, Kay Gahagan. 2nd. row: Marty Schaffer, Bob Simon, Bill McDonald, Pat Newcomer, Sandy Robron, Joan Fox, Amy Mushet, and Patty Nickolie.
2. Amy Mushett types copy for the yearbook.
3. Sue Mushett and Sandy Robron arrange their pictures for the yearbook.



"Get those pages in. Rewrite this segment, this picture looks better here. Deadline tomorrow, where are we today?" Words such as these, opened daily yearbook classes at St. Paul High. The responsibility of compiling a day by day verbal and pictorial history fell to this class.

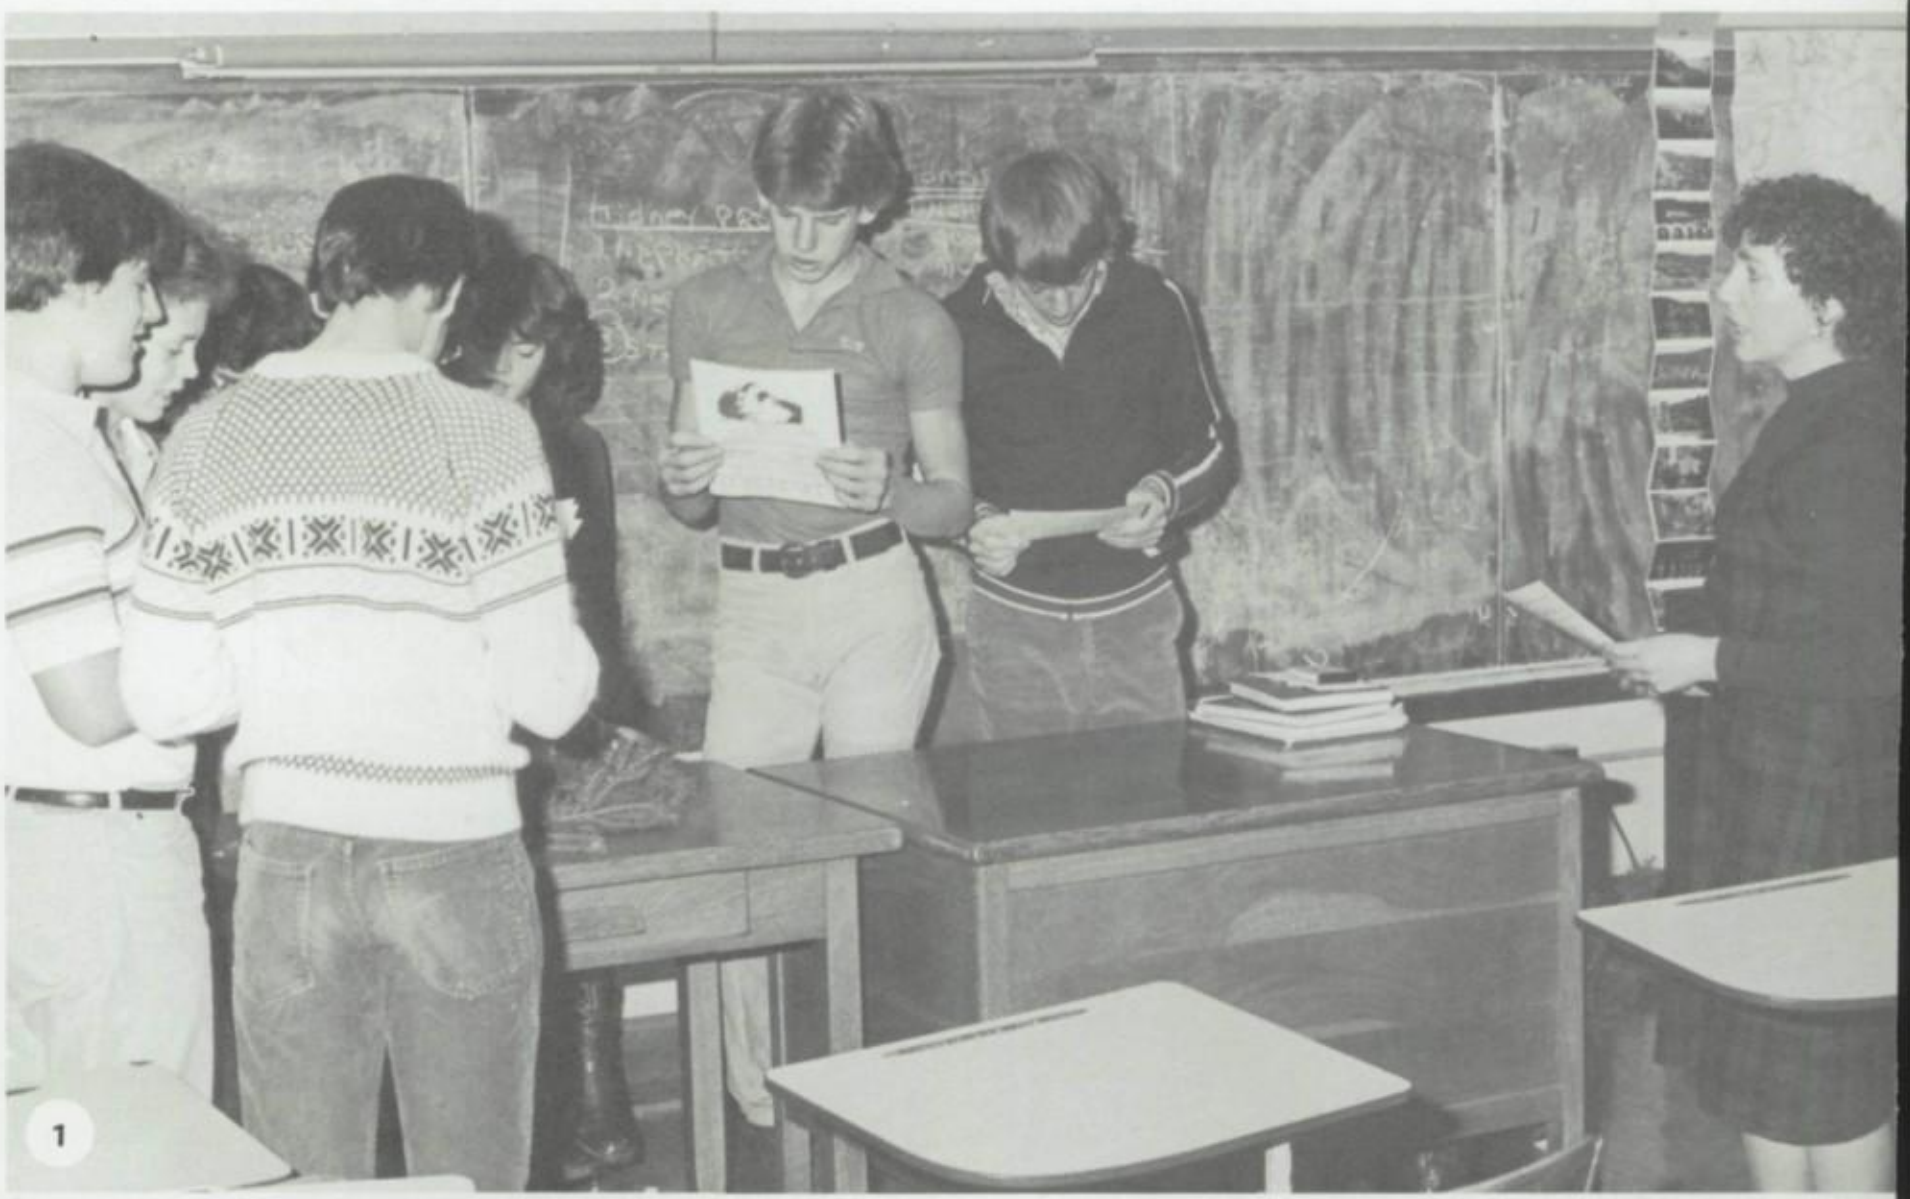
Unlike most of the areas that we had for study, Yearbook was a full year of hands on experience in a specialized Journalism field.

Yearbook students learned the skills necessary to be a good photographer. Then after pictures came back, captions had to be written for them, places found on pages for them and finally copy, like this, had to be written to tie these pictures together.

Words, pictures, people and a year worth of patient work in yearbook turned out the fine product you've got now.

1. Editor Pat Newcomer and Advisor Mr. Vickery work on the 81 - 82 yearbook, tradition with a twist.
2. "You mean we have to have 10 more pages to reach our deadline?", words of wonder from staff member Sandy Robron.
3. Pat Newcomer and Barb Burton look through newly arrived pictures hoping for some good athletic shots.

With Spirit



1. Mrs. McCrillis, the new German teacher, leads the German I students in German Christmas carols.
2. Mark Doughty tries to conquer his French I test.
3. French I students absorb the pronuciation of their foreign language from Mr. Vickery.

Languages

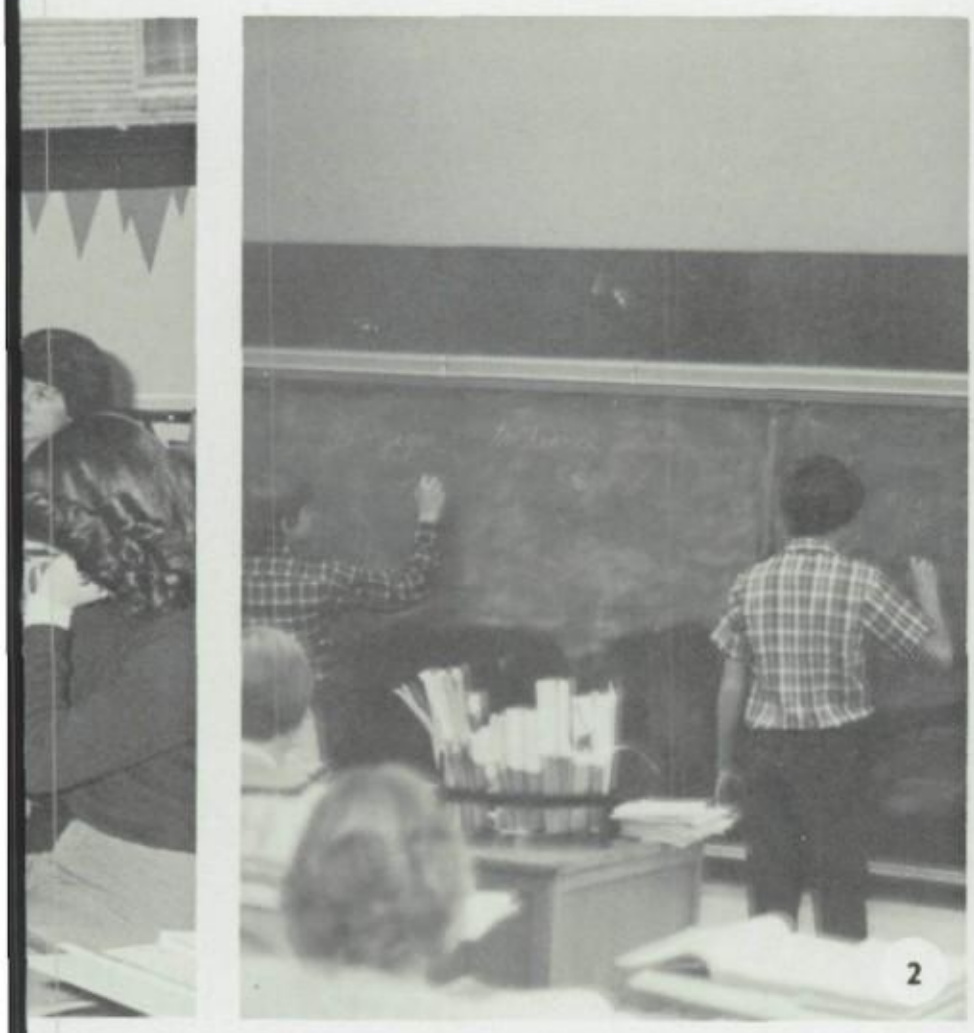
Most of the students had the task of understanding the English language but others furthered their education in foreign languages.

The French students were introduced to the pronunciation as well as the cultures of the French language. French students went to the Wagon Wheel, a French Restarant in Shaker Heights to enjoy a meal prepared for them by Chef Alfred Voisin. There the students met true Frenchmen and tasted not only the cuisine but also the culture.

The comprehension and reading skills of the German language were accomplished with the aid of our new German teacher Mrs. McCrillis. The students were exposed to the German culture by going to the Hofbrauhaus Restarant where they enjoyed German food.

St. Paul students found it interesting and challenging to be a part of the school's European department.

1. Andy Smith tries to pronouce the words of his French II book.
2. Mike Smith and Charley Wheeler take on the challenge of writing the french language.
3. Steve Boose prepares a wreath for the German II Christmas presentation.



1. Karen Landoll concentrates on her World Geography.
2. Jane Schmul and Sandy Kocher display their 50's day costumes in Senior Government.
3. Sandy Robron, Dave Rospert, and Carol Rospert study hard in Senior Government.

The time line from the past to the present was studied in the history classes this year.

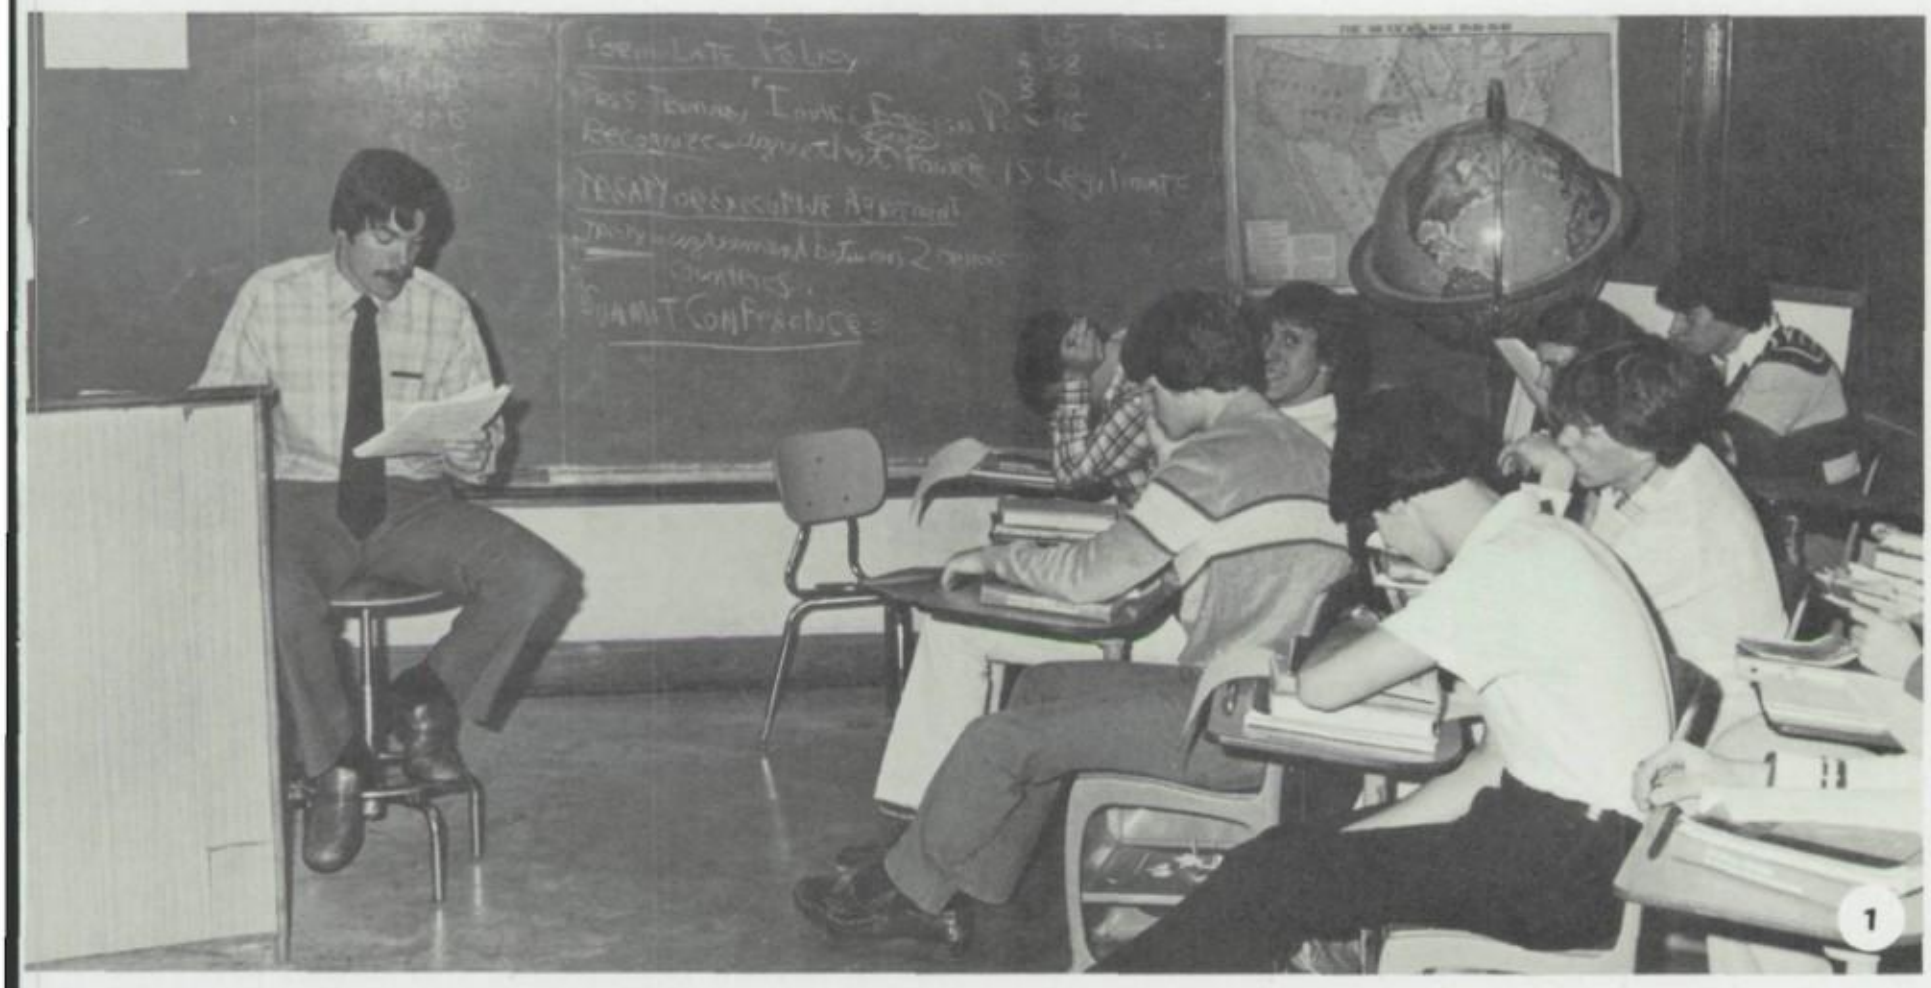
The juniors covered the history of the United States from colonial times to the present. Among the special things that happened was the writing of individual constitution.

The seniors inquired into the functions of the federal government, they also involved themselves in a trial of a drunken driver and the government debates.

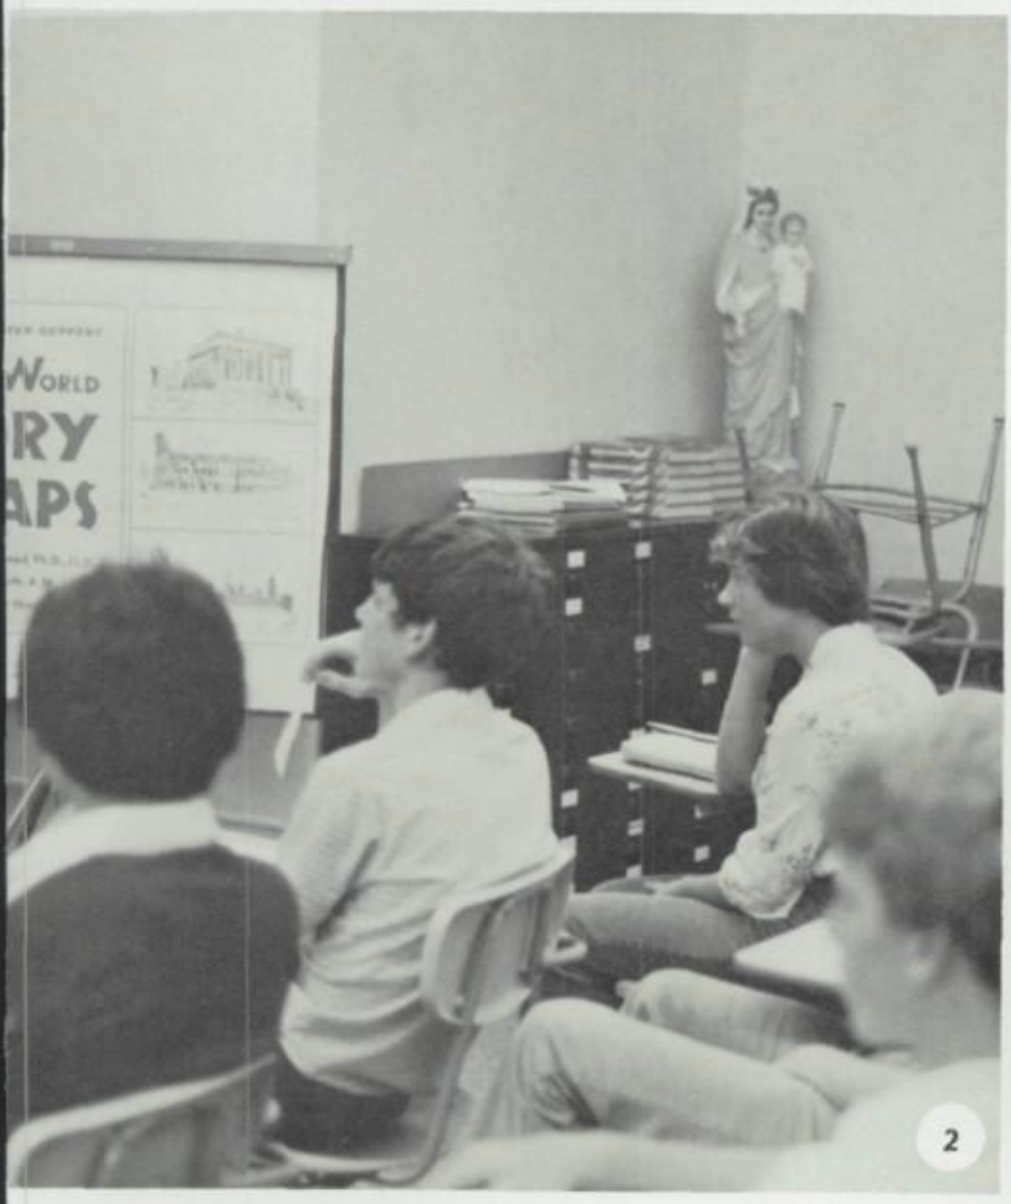
World history and World Geography dealt with cultural and factual backgrounds of countries. The students concentrated on various regions of the world with emphasis on climate conditions, political, cultural, and economic conditions.

Psychology and Sociology were taken by some students at St. Paul's. The main objective was to help the high school student understand himself and influence on his behavior.

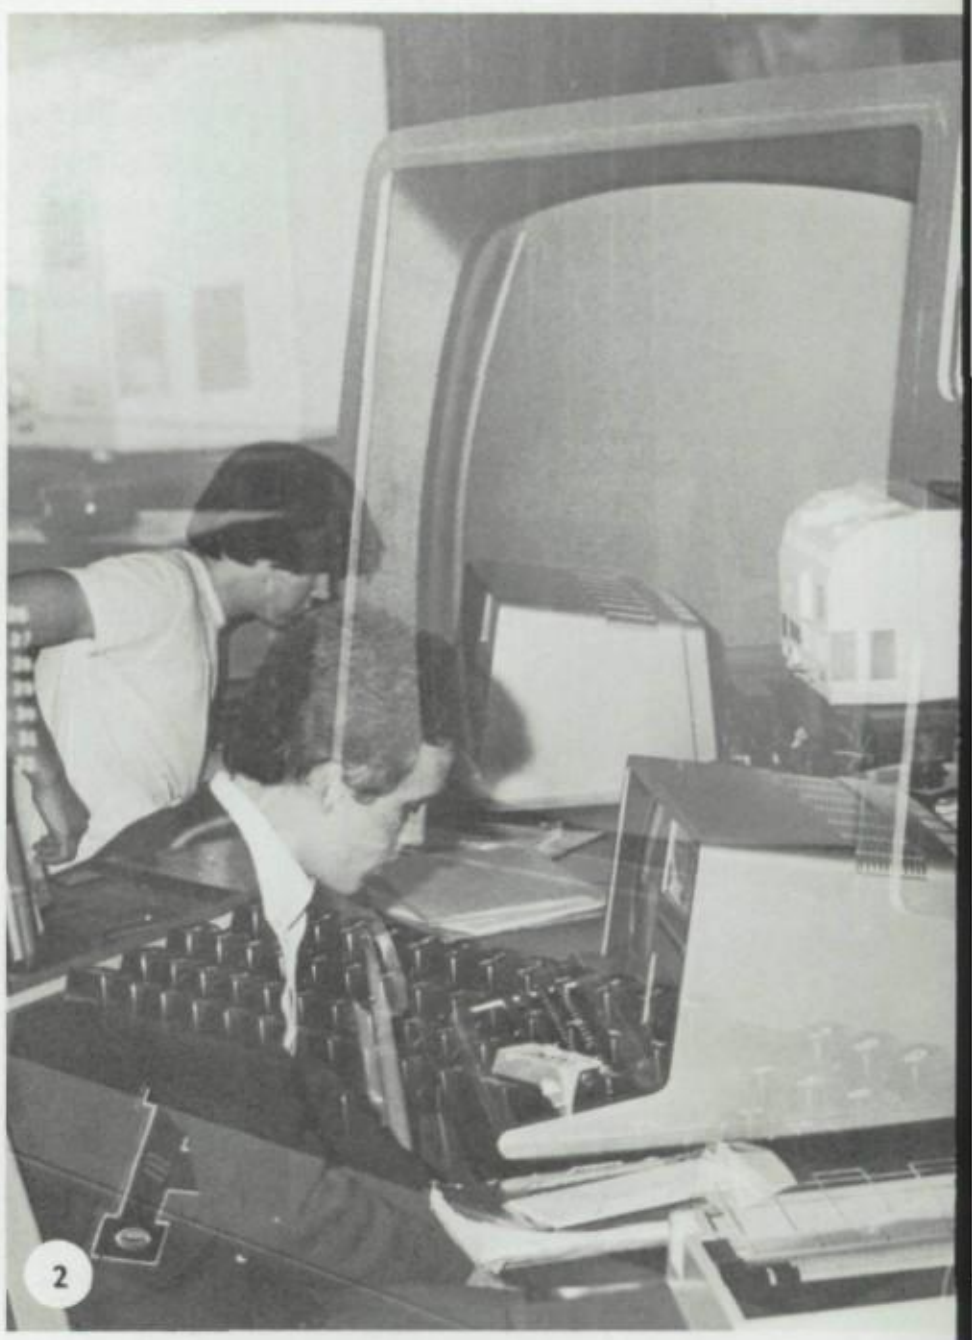
History Today And



1. Mr. Hoxie discusses the issues with the senior boys.
2. The Freshmen World Geography class listens to the lectures of Mrs. Baurer.
3. Krista Wechter takes notes in American History.

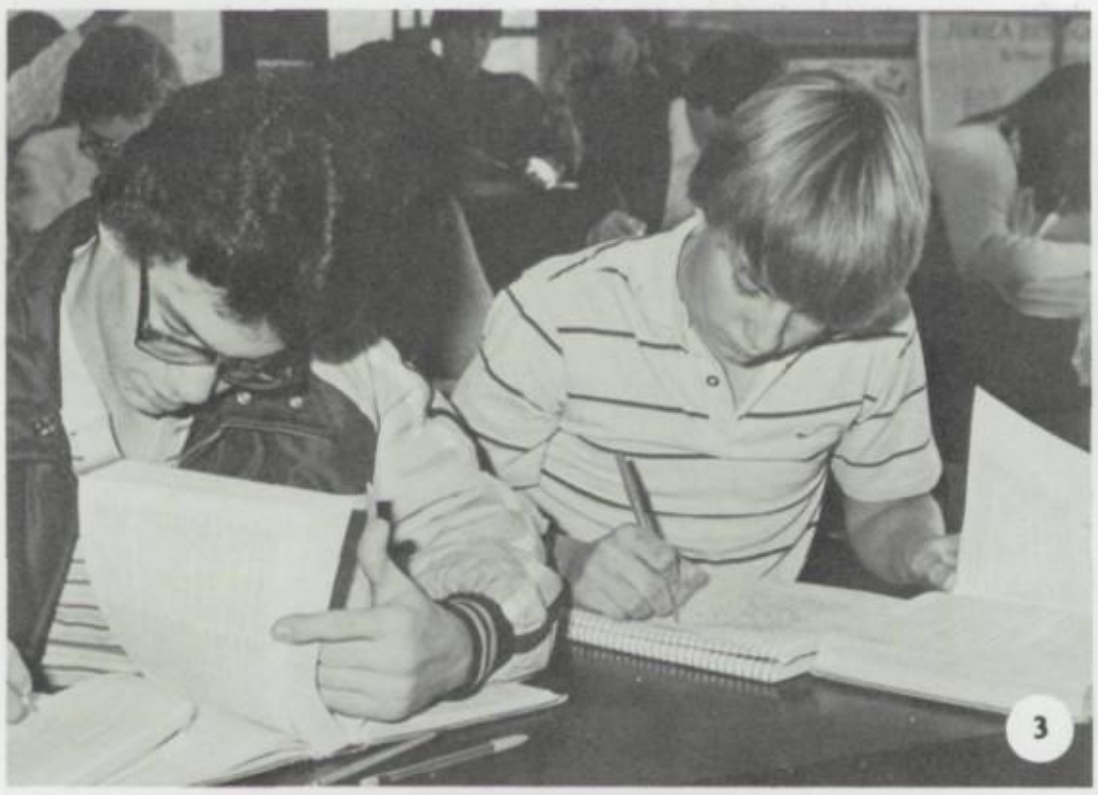


Tomorrow



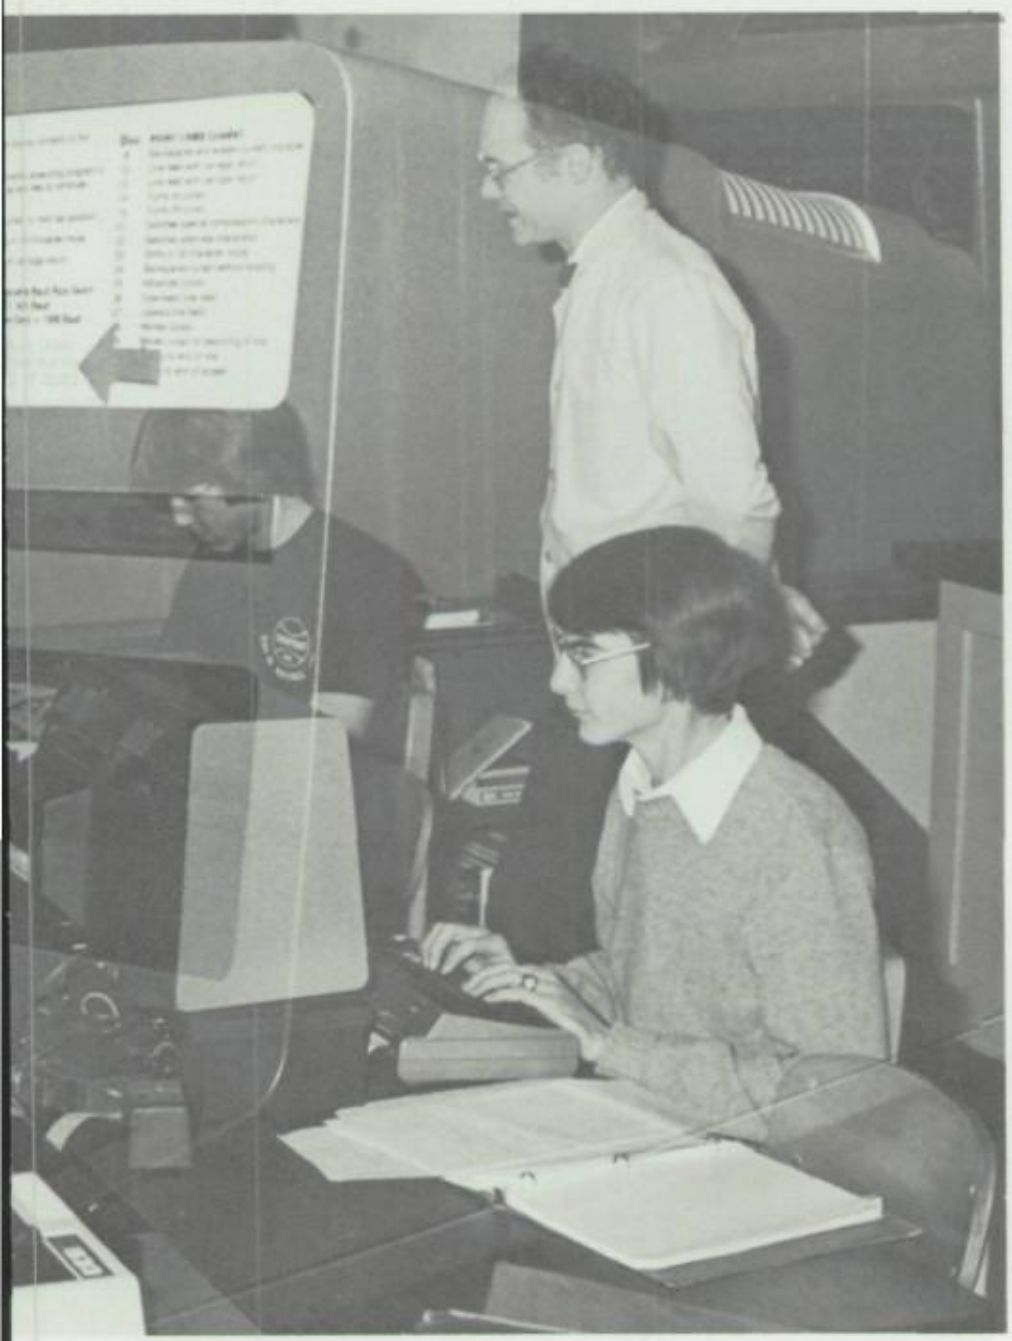
1. Shari Tremmel stares at her dissected cat.
2. Mr. Swabley looks on as his Computer II students delve deeply into their computer programs.

The World



3. Reading and Writing are as much a part of Biology as dissecting is as demonstrated by Jude Ott and Dale Braden.

4. Another day ends in the lab, with Theresa McPherran works on her lab formula in Chemistry.



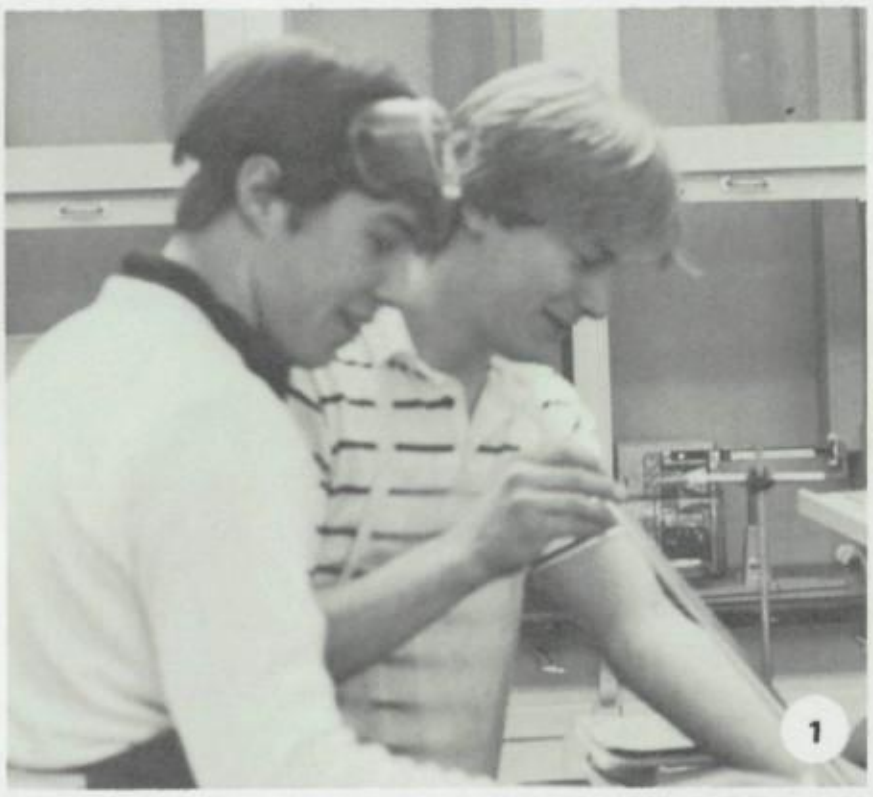
Of Science

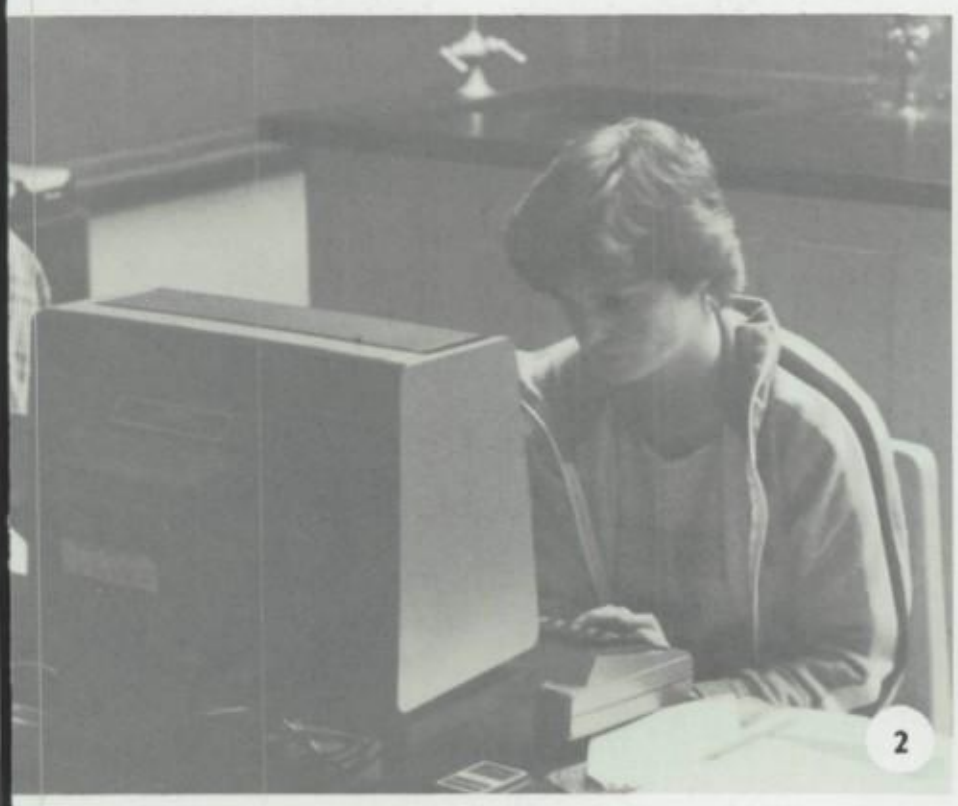
Our basic science classes this year were taught by Mr. Boll and Mr. Swabley. They intoduced the students into the world of science in various ways. In biology I students learned about the new world of science through microscopes and disection, The Advanced Biology classes disected the common cat.

The students were also given the opportunity to take first hand experience at preparing their own programs in computer science, while trying to understand the Basic computer language.

The future scientist of the world were created in chemistry, while the students experimented with formulas and chemicals.

The students undertook the challenges so that they may conquer the undiscovered mysteries of the world.



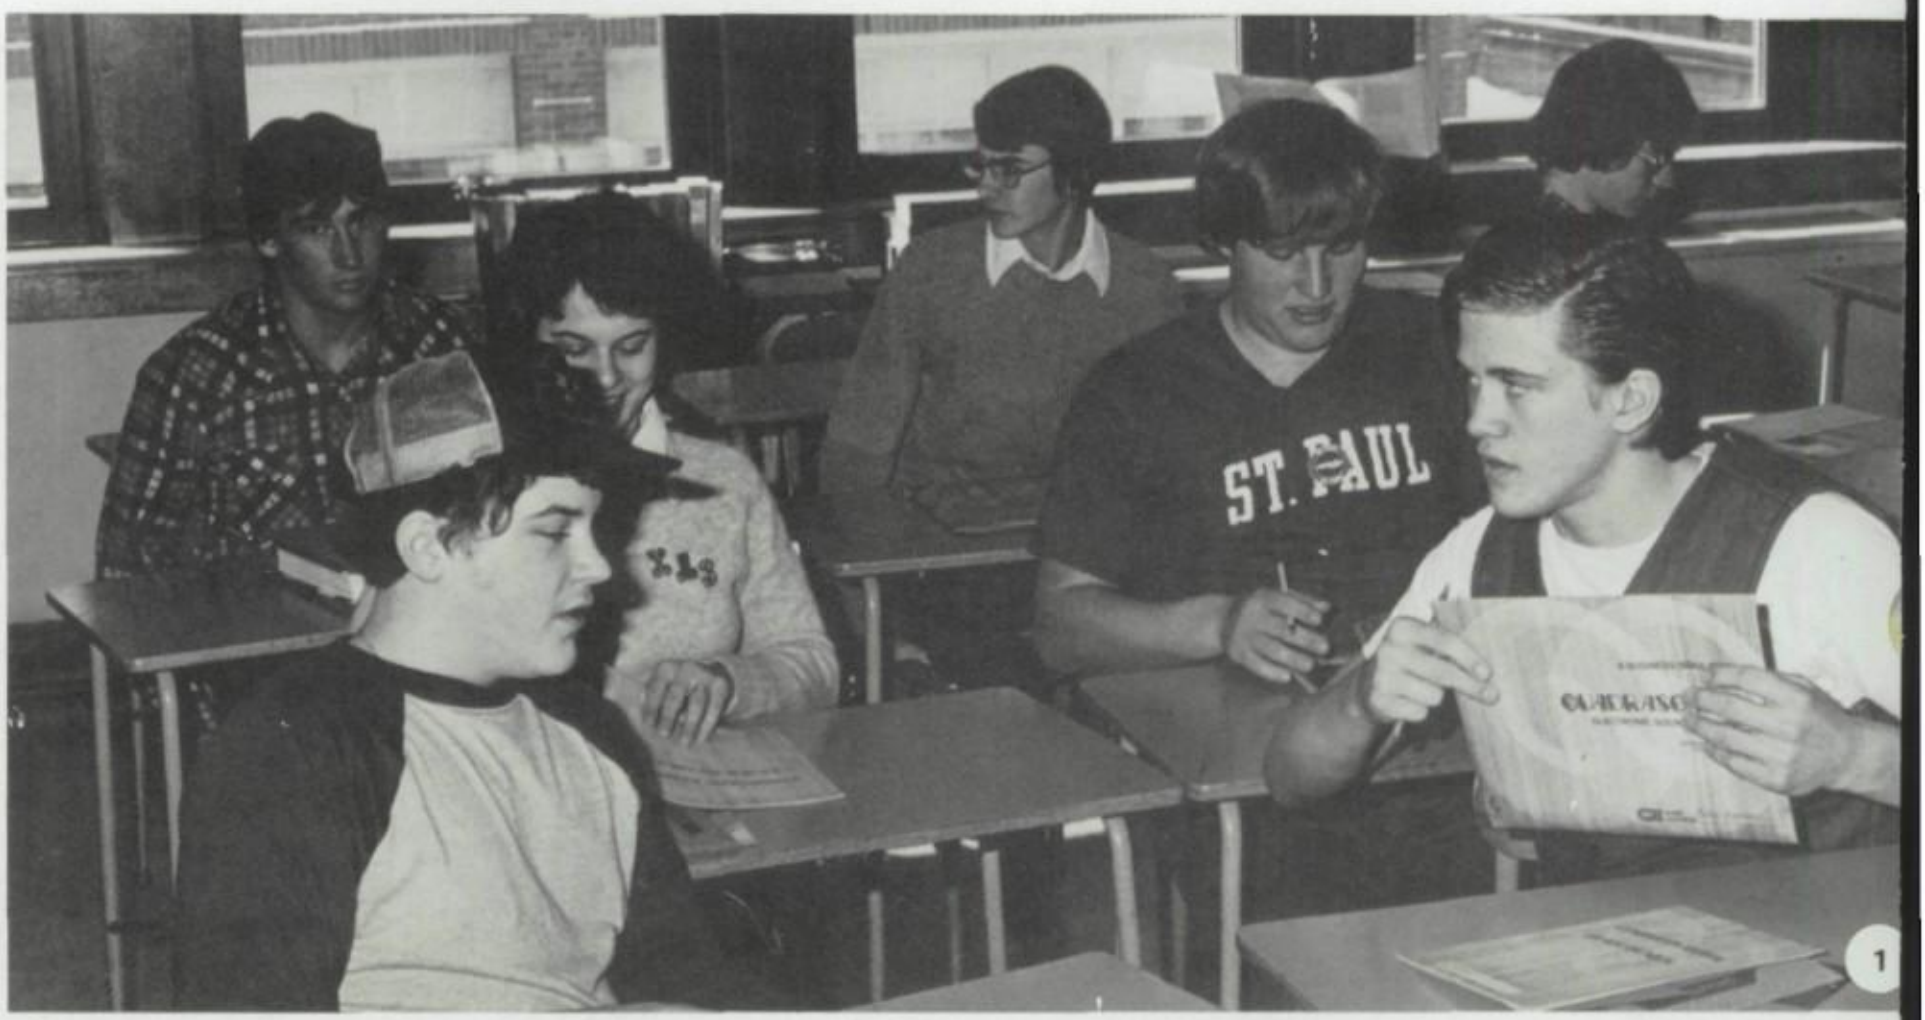


1. Teamwork is demonstrated in Chemistry by Marty Roth and Kelly Amato who work together on an experiment for Mr. Swabley.

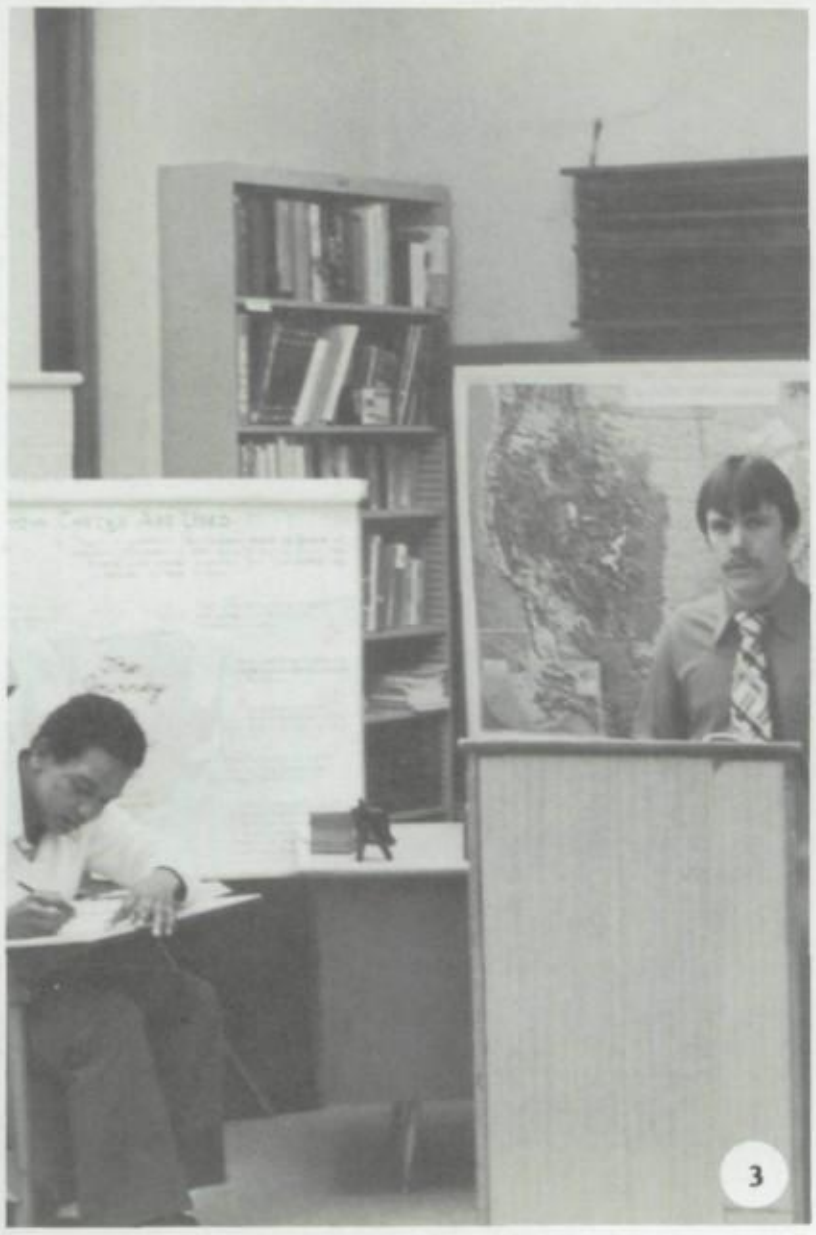
2. Lauri Rospert trys to outwit the computer in Computer I.

3. Bob Dudics drills for oil, at our Energy assembly presented by Oak Ridge Association University.

The Business World



1. Chuck Conney and Mark Rospert discuss the project of the year, Quadrosonics, in Accounting I.
2. Kelli Lau works on her Accounting, outside of class.
3. Concentration in the name of the game, in Mr. Hoxie's General Business Class.

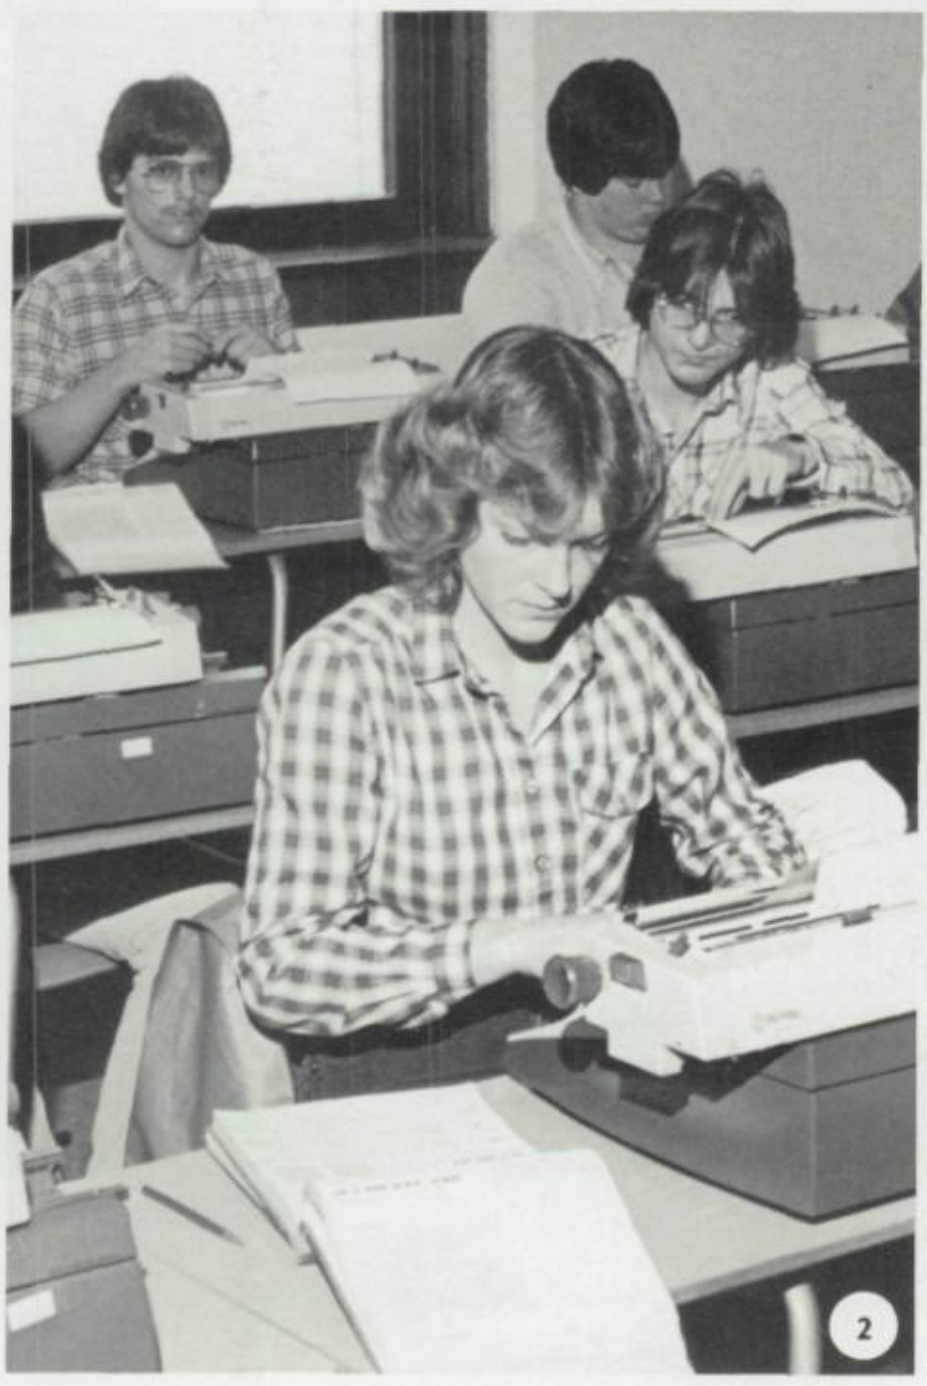


Various business courses were offered to prepare the students for future jobs. These courses consisted of Accounting I and II, Typing I and II, Shorthand, General Business and Business Law.

Typing students learned styles of business letters and forms. Students also learned the location of the keys, the way the typewriter operates, and proper ways to type term papers and notes.

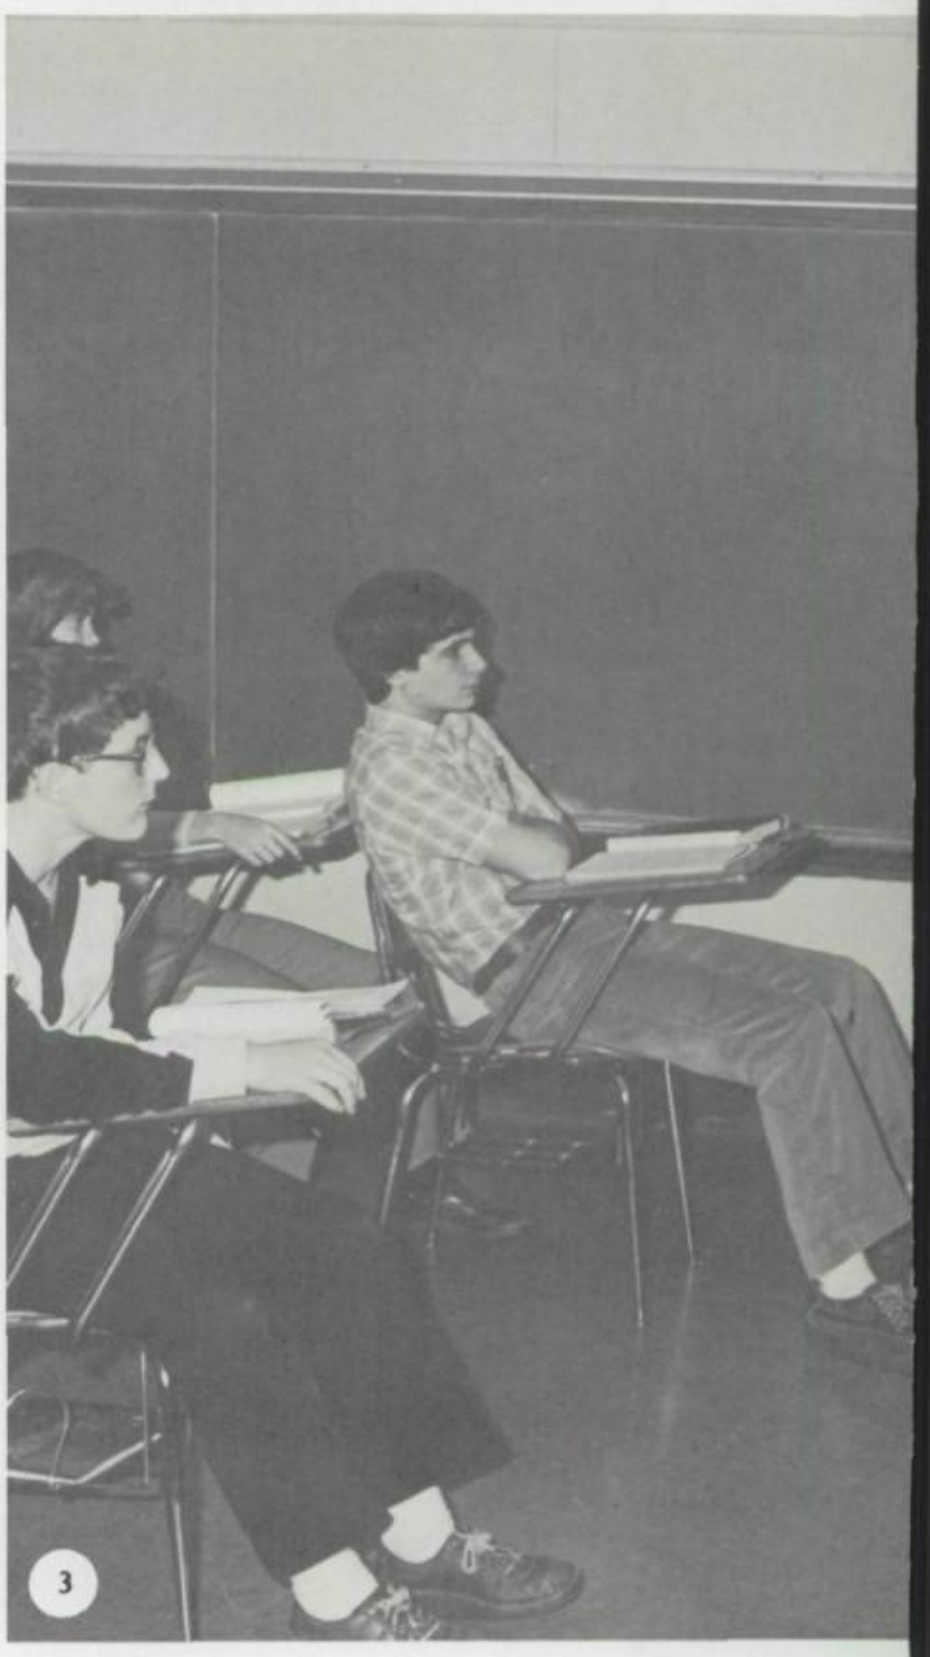
Shorthand which is a rapid method of writing the spoken word. Taught students the shorthand alphabet and how to use it in transcribing letters and dictation which was proven useful in other classes. The Shorthand students had two bakesales to rase money for shorthand records.

Business Law and General Business give a practical aspect study of the business economic enviroment. Business Law students learned legal relationships that they can expect to encounter in the world today.



1. Shortland I class concentrates on their shorthand.
2. Kris Missler practices the fundamentals of Typing I.
3. Paul Martinez tries to complete an assignment while he tries to improve his time.

Logical Thinginking

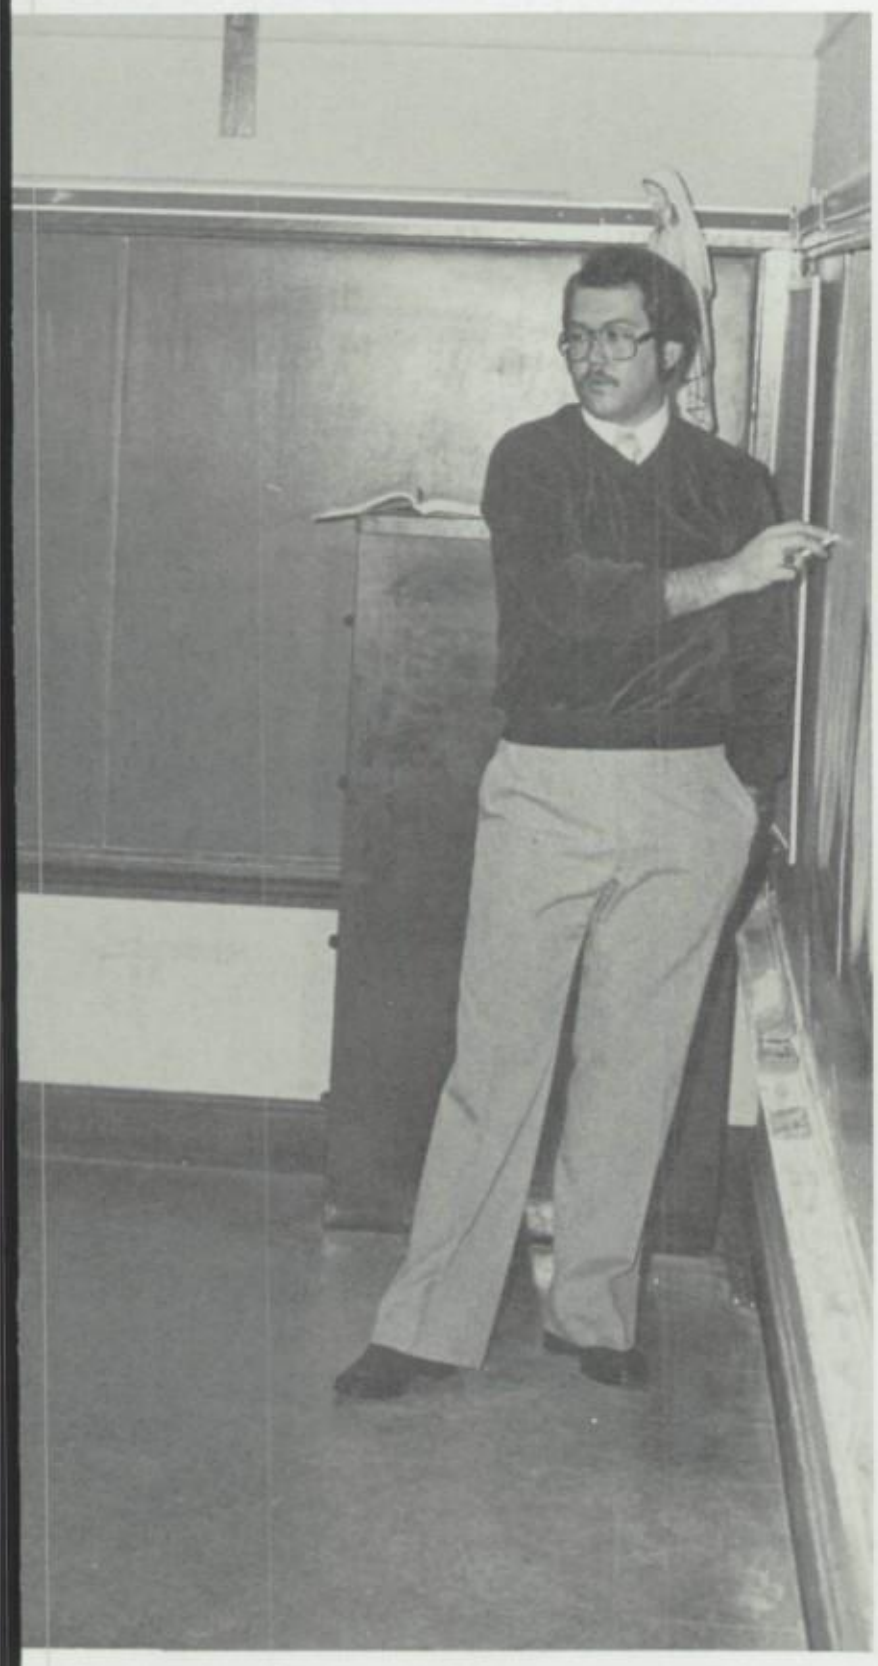


1. Kellie Lau shows that the calculator can be used in study hall also.
2. Trisha Gross tries to comprehend her Geometry problems.
3. Freshmen listen attentivly to Mr. Fawcett's math class.
4. Kris Missler, John Fisher, and Robin Woodside listen to Mr. Fawcett.

Mathematics

Algebra and Geometry helped train the student's mind to make it keener and more understanding of complex matters. Many students take two or more years of math because at most colleges it is required. Freshmen had the option of Pre-Algebra and Algebra I. Geometric figures provided a challenge of sophomore students, while juniors and seniors struggled through Algebra II and Trig. Some of the seniors took Math IV to further their education in Math.

1. Kathleen Barmen and Liz Binsack work on the math section of the P.S.A.T. test.
2. Brian Missler, Dave Rhoad and John Volcheck work on their Algebra II.
3. Trying to understand their Algebra I are Mike Schaffer & Kris Missler.



1. Gary Ringholz flashes a smile as he works on his clay project in Art.
2. Elizabeth Burger, Norwalk Highs visiting resident artist, teaches ceramics to the Art classes.
3. Jill Eberly displays art project, which won at regional conpetition and went on to state conpetition.

The Art class under the instruction of Mr. Linder experienced some new and exciting projects this year. A clay unit was also introduced by visiting artist Elizabeth Burger of Norwalk. Thirty - three students from grade nine through twelve took part in the art program and gained valuable experience in line drawing, cartooning, water color, ceramics and even candle making. The advanced students took a spring field trip to Bowling Green State University for a visit with some of the art instructors and a campus tour. The Art students finished their year of instruction by putting their works on display at the High School Art Show.

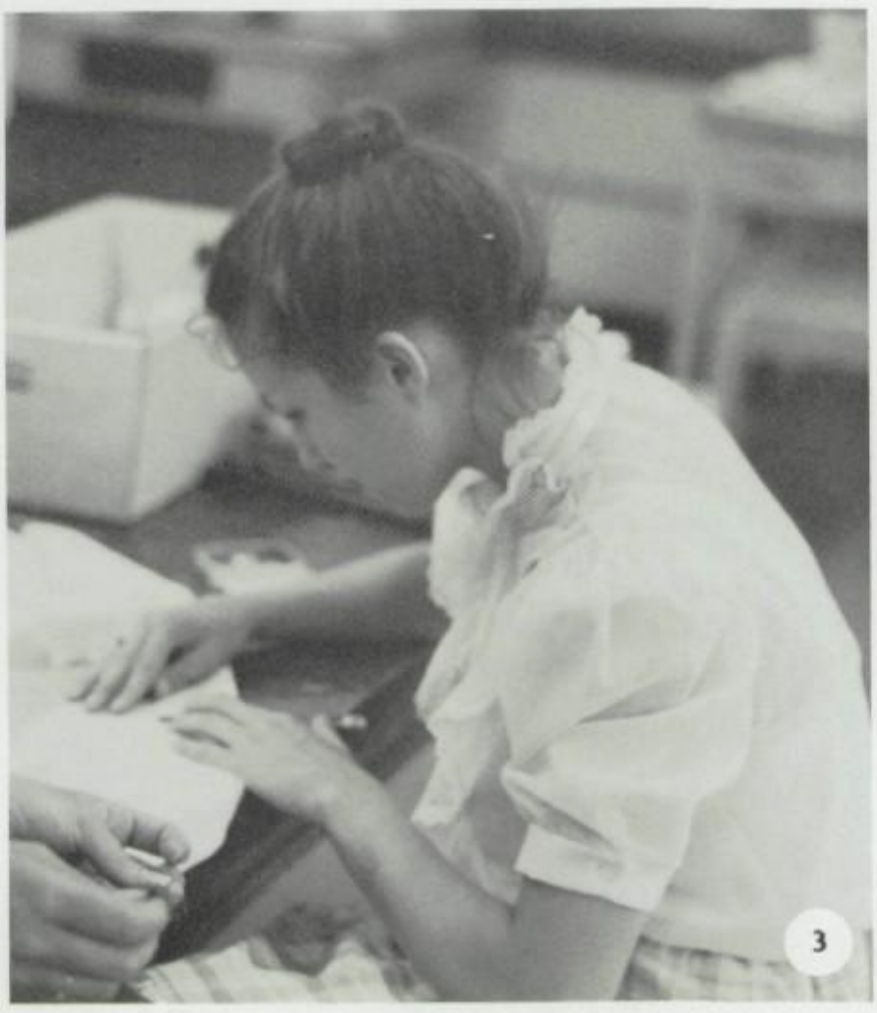
The Junior High School also had Mr. Linder as an instructor and they experienced such things as Indian and Tribal voodoo masks, a large city was also constructed in the cafeteria by all the students in grades five through eight. The students also had fun in learning other Two demensional techiques in Art.

And Creative

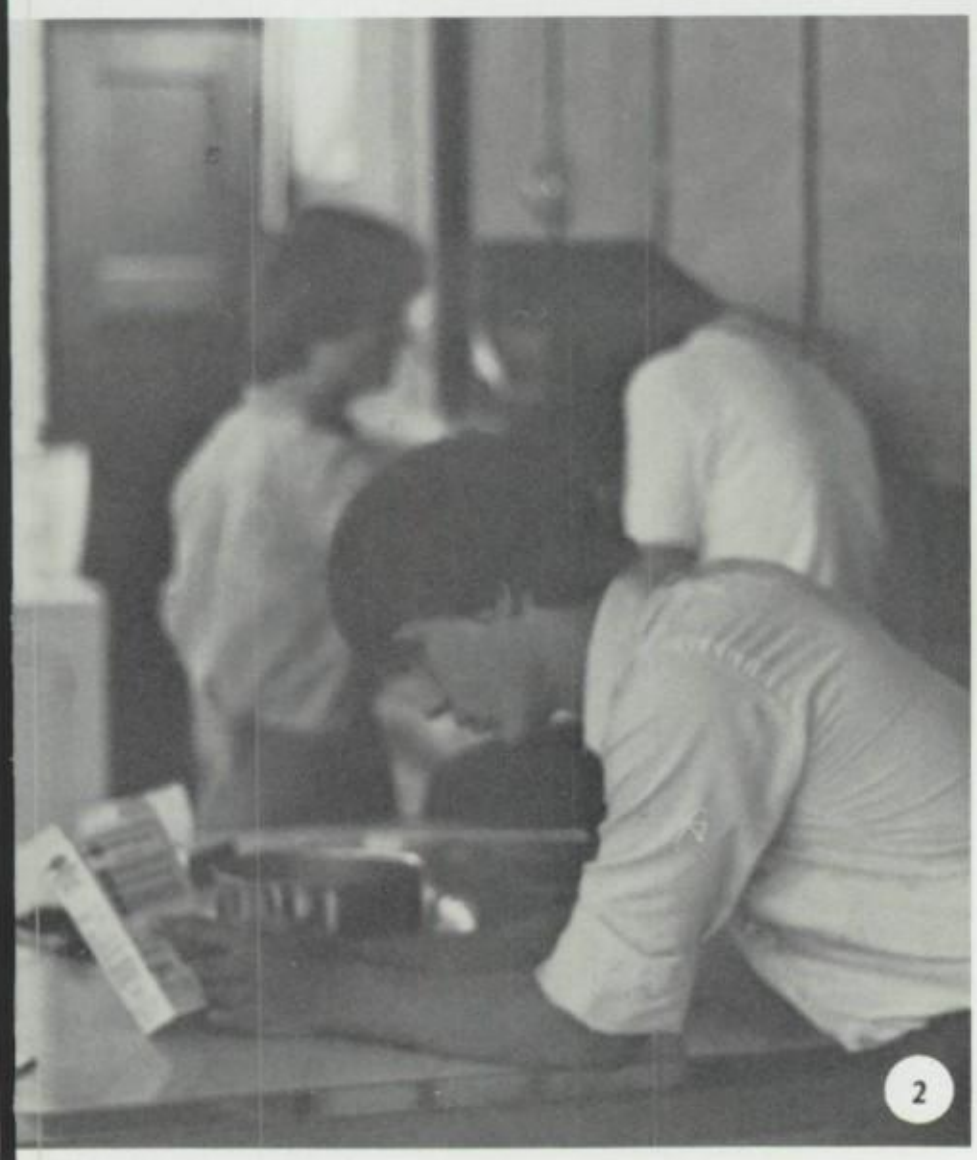
1. Sherl Rossman and Julie Good try to follow directions on candle making in Art.
2. Mark Berry shows off his creativity in Art IV.
3. Monica Myers, Chuck Hemenway, and Brad Alge help each other in finiching their projects in Religino I.

Homemakers

1. Mrs. Bates helps Donna Phillips finish her latch hook rug which is one of many projects the Home Ec students did.
2. Laurie Rospert and Shelly Seitz try a new concoction in Foods as Patty Spaar looks on.
3. Rita Smith tries to finish her sewing project in Home Ec. II
4. Kathy Creamer works on her ceramics projects in Home Ec. I



Of Today



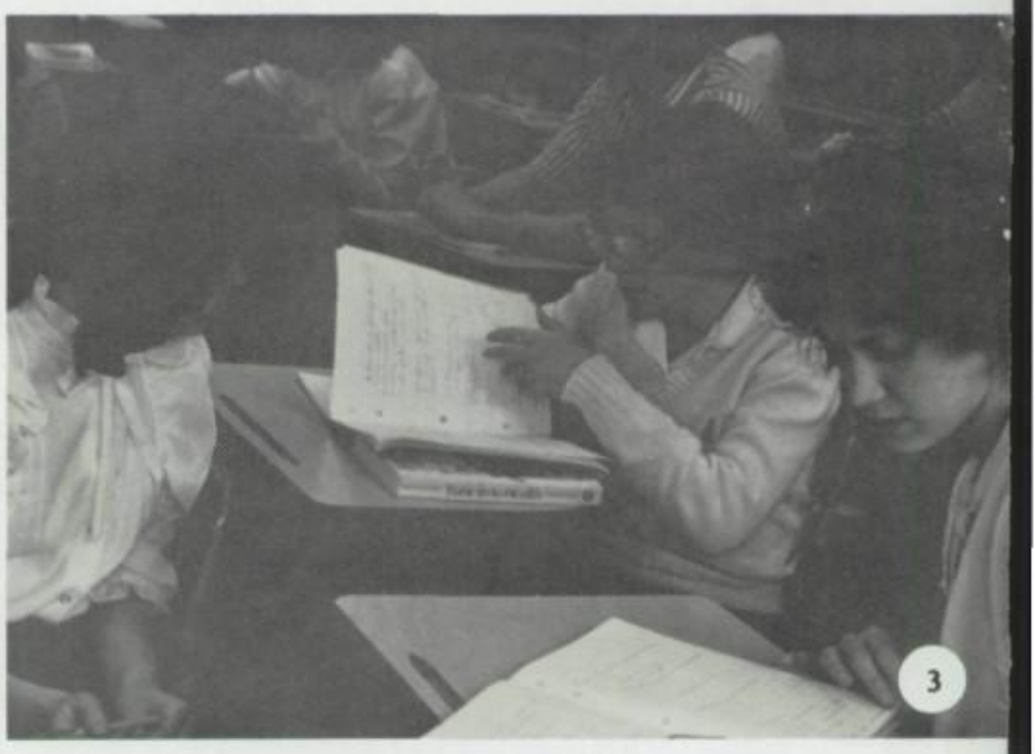
This year the students became homemakers, skilled seamstresses, crusine cooks and perfectioners. The classes they learned these skills in were Home Economics I & II, Foods and Nutrition, and Sewing. The students, with the help of Mrs. Bates tried to accomplish their projects in food as well as in sewing. The bigger the project, the bigger the determination among the students.

Besides Home Economics being practical, it helped the students to be creative and economical.

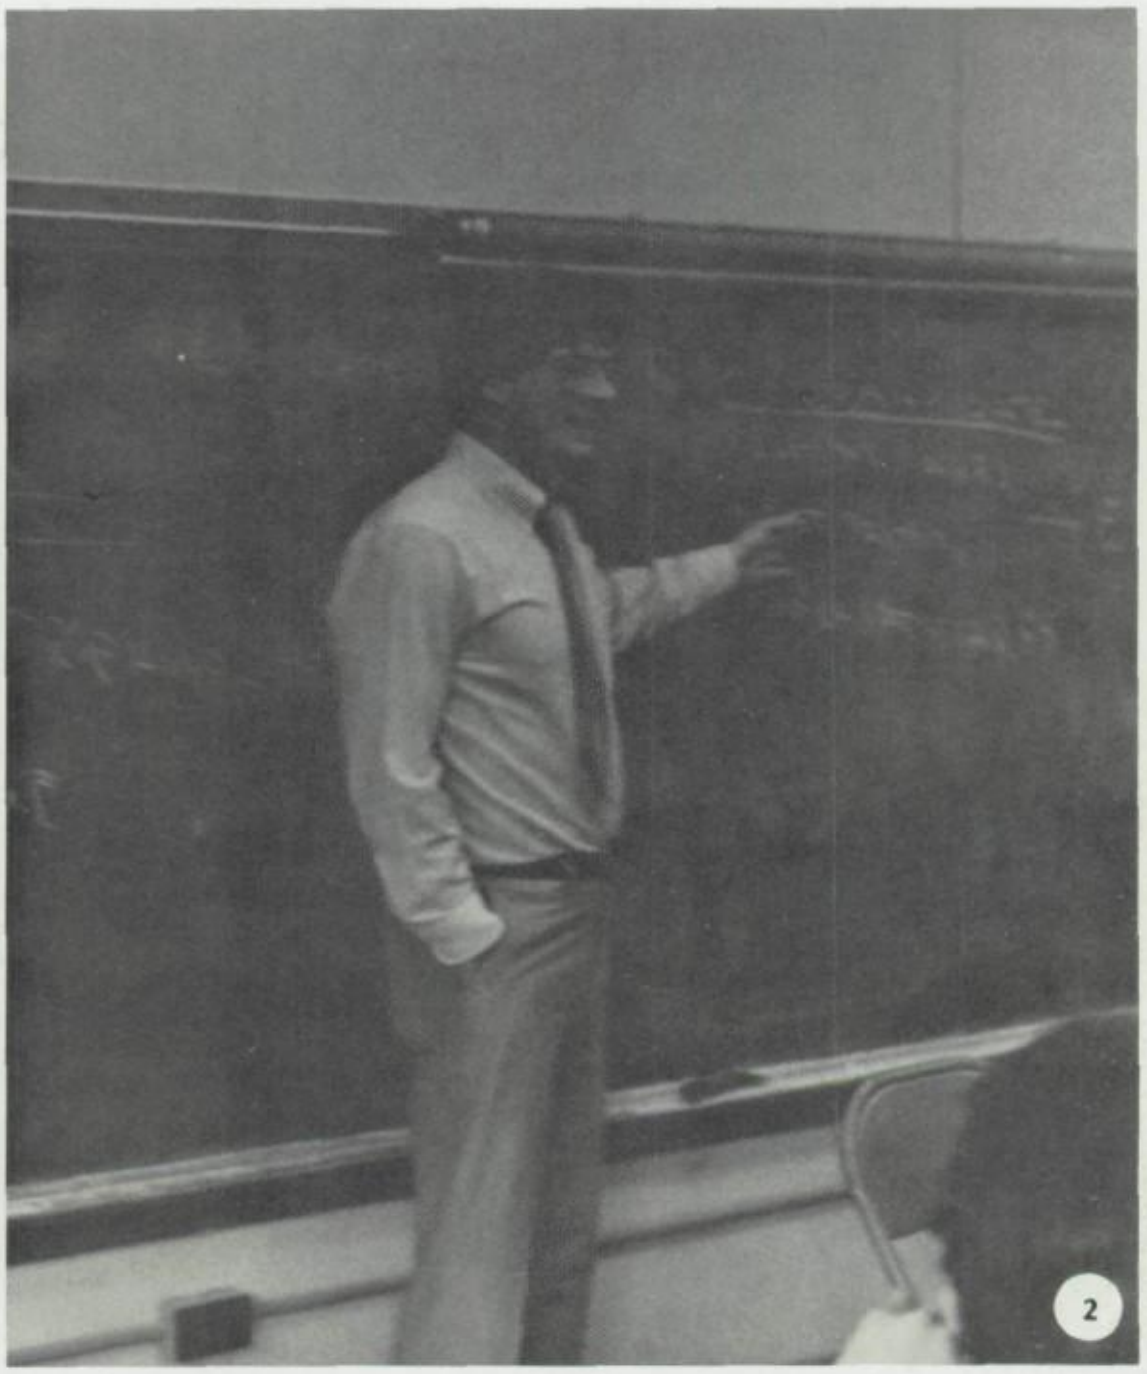
The Home Economics department provided opportunities for the development of the individual, for improvement of family membership, for growth in community citizenship.

1. Jim McClaflin works on his project in Home Ec, I
2. Sean Schaffer reads the direction on how to bake a cake, in Foods and Nutrition.

Physical Fitness, Health



1. Mike Smith tries to hit the imaginary baseball in Phys. Ed. I
2. John Burton awaits the return of the tennis ball in Gym II.
3. Karen Hipp and Dorthy Atkinson discuss the health problems that will be on their health test.



For the freshmen and sophomore the required classes of physical education and health were taken throughout the year. During the course of the week they learned health benefits along with sports activities in gym.

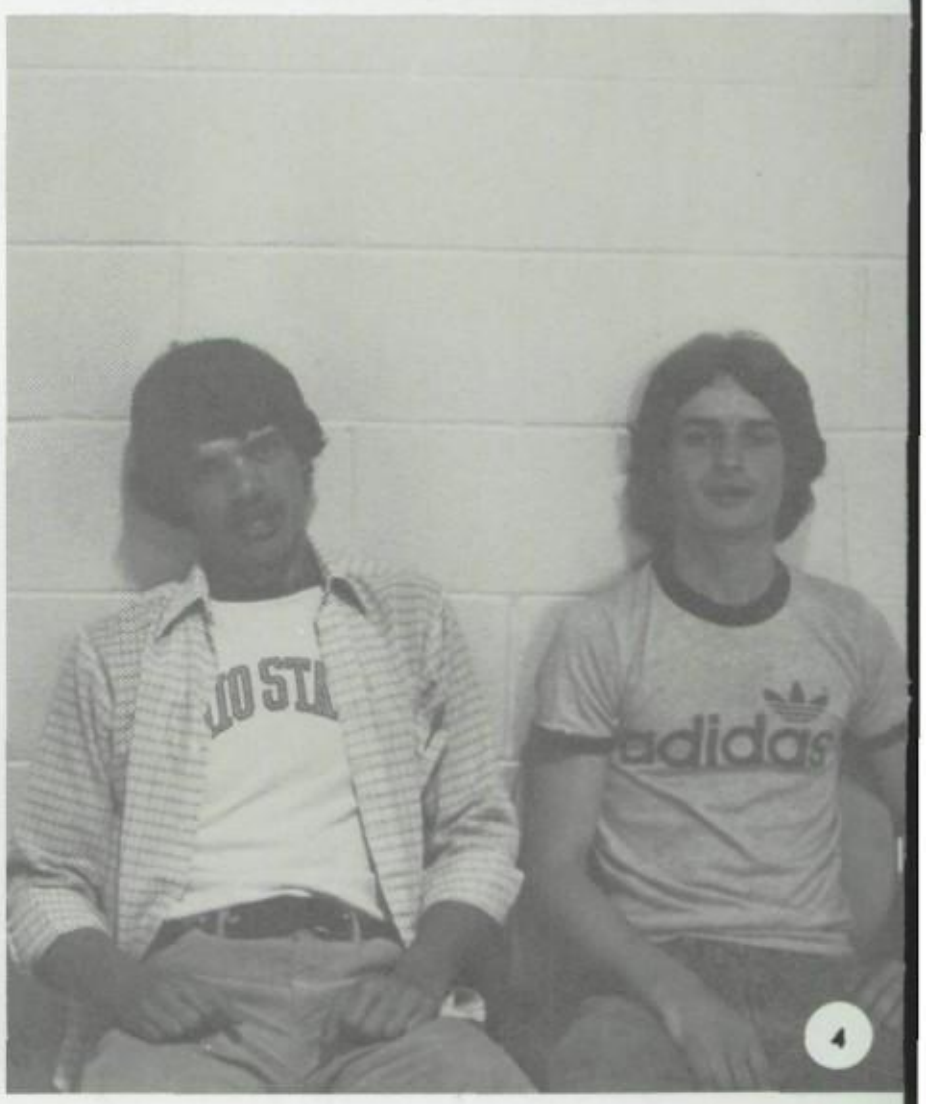
Physical education consisted of more than just plain old exercise. It involved basketball, softball, tennis, rollerskating and most important good sportsmanship. The student kept the body active along with the mind in health and gym.

Health and physical education gave the student a chance to enjoy themselves and the opportunity to perform to the best of their ability.

1. Dave Steffanni does his stuff in gym by really kicking the ball.
2. Coach Roberts tries to explain the carbohydrates formula to his health class.
3. Jim McClaflin jogs around the track for gym class.

Ehove - Preparing For The

1. Junior Lynette Braden enjoys her salad during lunch at EHOVE.
2. Linda Rospert, with help from another student, shows her talent in cosmotology.
3. Rick Fries does his thing in machines trades.
4. Jeff McGinn and a friend relax after a busy day at EHOVE.



Future

From the time that they enter high school, St. Paul students are looking for a vocation in life. For many, this leads to college, but for some others, EHOVE is a good training ground for the future.

This year fourteen St. Paul students attended EHOVE Joint Vocational School. The students maintained their connection with St. Paul as a home school but took all of their classes at the vocational center in Milan. Their work at EHOVE brought them involvement in areas ranging from Carpentry to Cosmetology. Of course the students had to continue their formal classwork in such areas as Social Studies and English.

Like other EHOVE students, the St. Paul crew kept their connection with "home-base" through a student connection and through athletic teams, school dances, and many other activities.

FACULTY

The English I students listen so attentively to their teacher Mrs. Hummel.

The following pages hold our religious and educational leaders. Although we have added new members to the staff and have sadly said good-bye to others, the quality of true devotion beams through.

Our priests at St. Paul parish did a wonderful job of carrying out the Catholic faith by teaching religion in each of the grades once a week. Father Thomas as our pastor and superintendant took time from his busy schedule and gave timely guidance and advice in our behalf.

The Notre Dame Sisters were an inspiration in their actions as well as their teachings of Christ in our daily lives. They inspired us not only in religion class but in the other various subjects in which they taught.

Many different skills from the basic academic studies to the various sports were taught by the lay faculty. Our lay faculty, under the supervision of Mr. Jack Porter our principal, gave totally and freely of themselves to give the student body a quality of knowledge and the most priceless gift of all · · · a Catholic education.

Proudly our yearbook presents our faculty in action . . . . . .

Mrs. Vicki Tinker gives her undivided attention to the camera.

Mr. Klausing, our guidance councelor, helps Lorin Greene with his schedule.

The maintainance crew at SPH did a fine job of keeping our school in condition inside and outside. From sweeping the floor after school hours, to shoveling the sidewalks before school hours and many other tasks in between.

And how could we forget the great job our cafeteria ladies' did by feeding the students a home-made, well balanced hot meal.

Last but not least two gentlemen that provided safety for all the students at St. Paul, our faithful corner cops.

These men made everyone that crossed their corner feel great early in the morning with their cheery "Good morning" and "How are you today sunshine!"

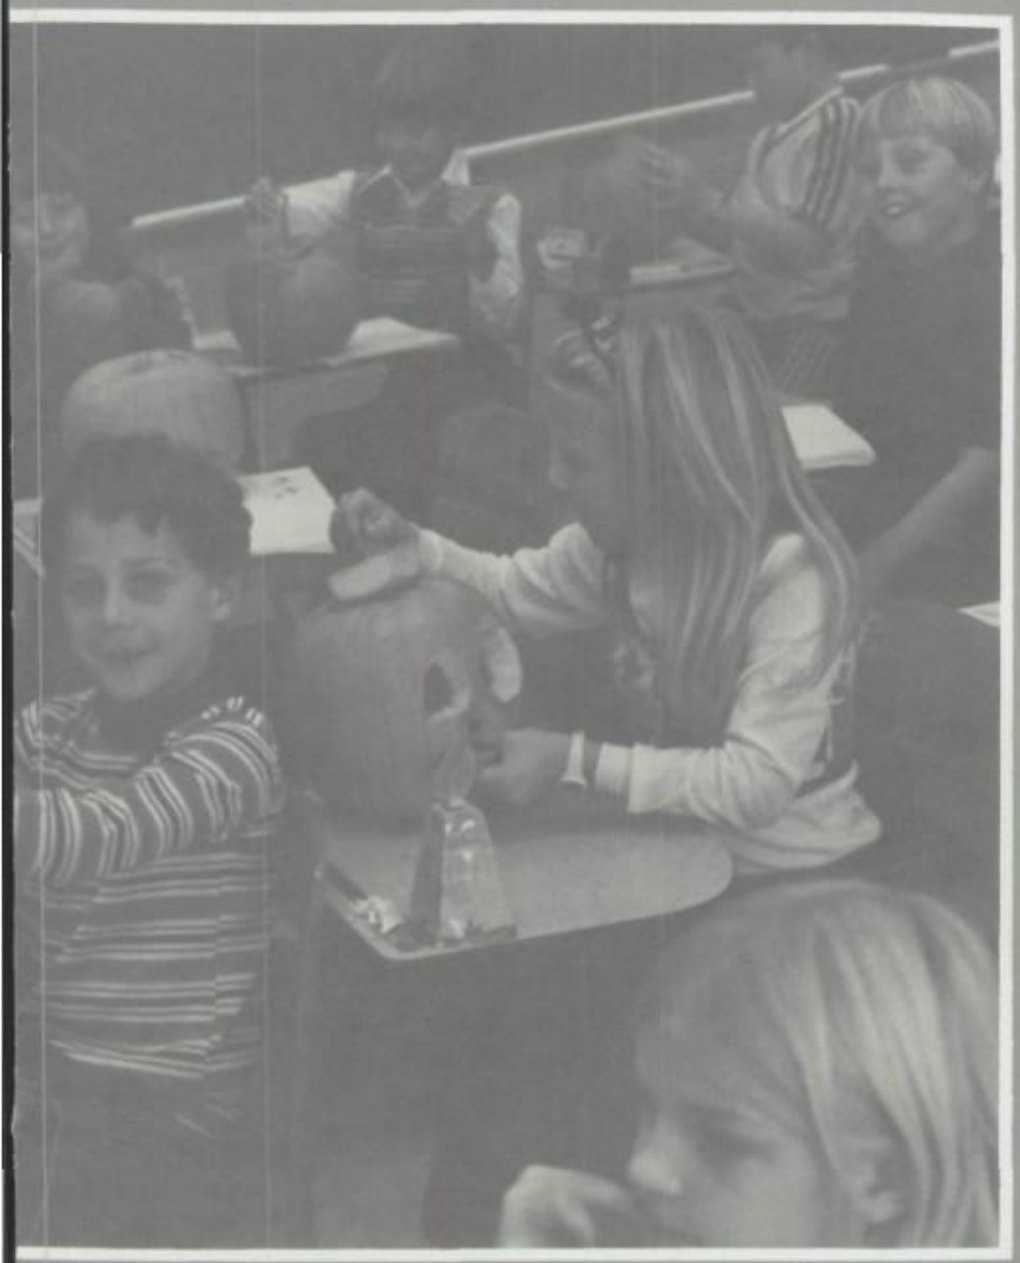
GRADE SCHOOL

Eighth-graders listen intently to a speech presented by Father Hohenbrink for their retreat in the Social Hall.



Second-graders gather around Mrs. Meyers for a lesson in reading.

The third grade takes delight in examining their pumpkins, which were given to them by the high school students.

This is the first time a grade school section has been included in the yearbook. This is going back to an old tradition yet twisting from the recent one of excluding it. The kindergarten has also been included, for although they are small, they give the school a lot of character.

The first grade had a fun-filled year which was also a learning experience as they had to get used to going to school. A year of spiritual growth for the second grade was highlighted by their First Communion. The 3rd and 4th grades kept up traditions of their own by helping plan the carnival. In the main building, the students got a taste of high school with the changing of classes, and they experienced the athletic part of school by participating in intramural competition.

Overall, the students continued traditions of their own but they also shared traditions of the High School, which included retreats and sporting events, but most of all, unity.

Mike Adelman and Scott Nickoli talk over the thrills of high s freshmen orientation.

Tradition was a big part of being an underclassman during the past year.

For the freshmen, tradition meant being the low man on the totem pole. Tradition was initiation, orientation, and confusion.

For the sophmores, tradition was looking back and realizing you've made it through the toughest year of high school life. It also brought in the tradition of getting your very own SPH class ring. Sophmores greatly realized the old traditional need of making money for their class treasury. Let's not forget the thrill of getting your driver's license!

To juniors, tradition is looking forward to becoming seniors. The juniors took great responsibility in getting the junior-senior prom off the ground. It was also tradition, that as a junior, you got to stay over night on retreat. There's just something about that, that makes you feel superior to all the rest. As tradition has it, the juniors did service projects for religion class, such as helping grade-schoolers, and visiting the aged at various nursing homes. The juniors successfully completed the money-making magazine drive.

The goal of the whole school was to bring new life to St. Paul's, each class building their spirit, which gave St. Paul's its true meaning.

These freshmen don't seemed to enthused with Algebra I.

This year's freshmen experienced a bit of high school life by participating in the activities both in and out of school.

Freshmen went through the usual growing pains of being in high school as most of us do, such as getting classes mixed up, feeling your knees quiver as seniors harass you, and not understanding "the rules."

Freshmen were lead under the direction of, Mike Adalman-pres., Jenny Gassman-sec., Mike Lang-treas., Theresa Hackathorn-vice. Together the freshmen succeeded the toughest year of high school.

The class of '85 is 75 people strong, which is the largest class in the school. Freshmen will return next year, one step closer to leadership.

85's Pride Is Showing

The class of 1984 looks into the future with mixed emotions. The year 81-82 has been a successful one, and next year is expected to be even better.

Sophomores were led by president-Dave Hedrick, vice president-Sue Dixon, secretary-Jackie Smith, and treasurer-Amy Obringer.

Sophs have made tremendous progress as they prepare to enter their final two years of their high school career. As they do we know that the class will stay as unified as they are now, and bring new spirit to St. Paul's.

Sophomores were helped along by their advisors Mrs. Kathy Hummel and Mrs. Charlene Bauer.

Under the leadership of its officers, the junior class treasury was expanded towards their goal. The officers leading the class of '83 were: Pres.-Cindy Bleile; Vice-Pres.-Sally Reed; Sec.-Kim Renneckar and Tres.- Beth Shibley. The junior advisors were Wilbur Vickery and Vernon Fawcett.

They were very successful in their magazine drive and held many service projects such as visiting the nursing homes and helping the grade schoolers during class. The majority of the junior class participated in extra-curricular activities like band, pep club and many sports.

The juniors have made tremendous progress advancing towards leadership and responsibility.

Students enter St. Paul's knowing little about the school and its standards. This is freshmen year.

When they reach sophomore year, they have matured immensely and have aquired many new friends.

As juniors, they feel they have truly become a member of the St. Paul family.

After these three years of learning, growing, and sharing with each other, they are ready to enter their final year and become the leaders of the school.

Shari Tremmel shows us that there's more than one way to skin a cat.

SENIORS

Sandy Kocher and Mike Ringholz prefer what they see to listening to Mr. Swabley's Basic Computer Language.

The year was 1982. We never thought it would come, and some of us had doubts that we'd make it. "Senioritis" had taken its toll; the halls were filled with the rowdieness best known to the senior class.

The past four years have brought knowledge relied on when we walked out the doors for the last time. Along with that knowledge was a sense of pride and achievement in finding our faith in God.

Our memories consist of an endless list: those fulfilling retreats, our class trip to King's Island, the triumphs and defeats experienced in sports. Most of all, we cherish the love we had for one another. Some will never see each other again, yet some are friendships treasured and bonded for life. Remember the smiles from your fellow classmates, they kept you going from day to day.

For the Senior Class of 1982, the future is just beginning TODAY. What lies in store for us is questionable; yet must be looked at optimistically. Our future is right before our eyes; and we must be aware NOW of our goals and ambitions. There's no stopping us because we have the determination and ambition to fulfill our dreams.

Joan Fox and Angie Pecora take a little break from their yearbook duties to make a startling impression on our photographer.

Class Of 1982

Our Pride Is Showing!

The Senior class of 1982 did a lot to prepare for the "big year" even before the school year ever started. At the end of Junior year, the class chose its class song, colors, motto, flower and trip. During the summer the class held a car wash and a bake sale to build up their treasury.

During the Senior year, the class held another bake sale and held the annual Pizza Drive.

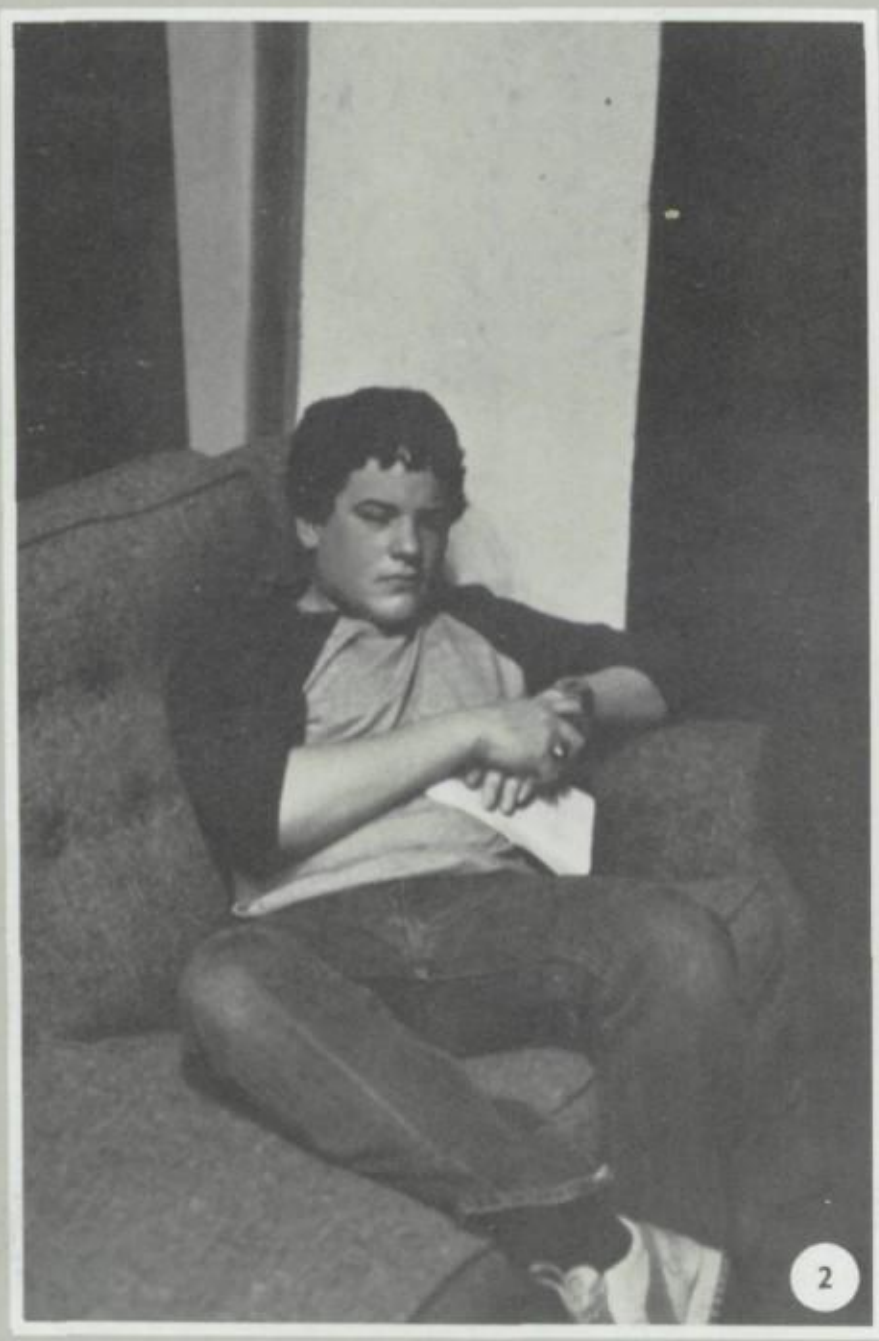
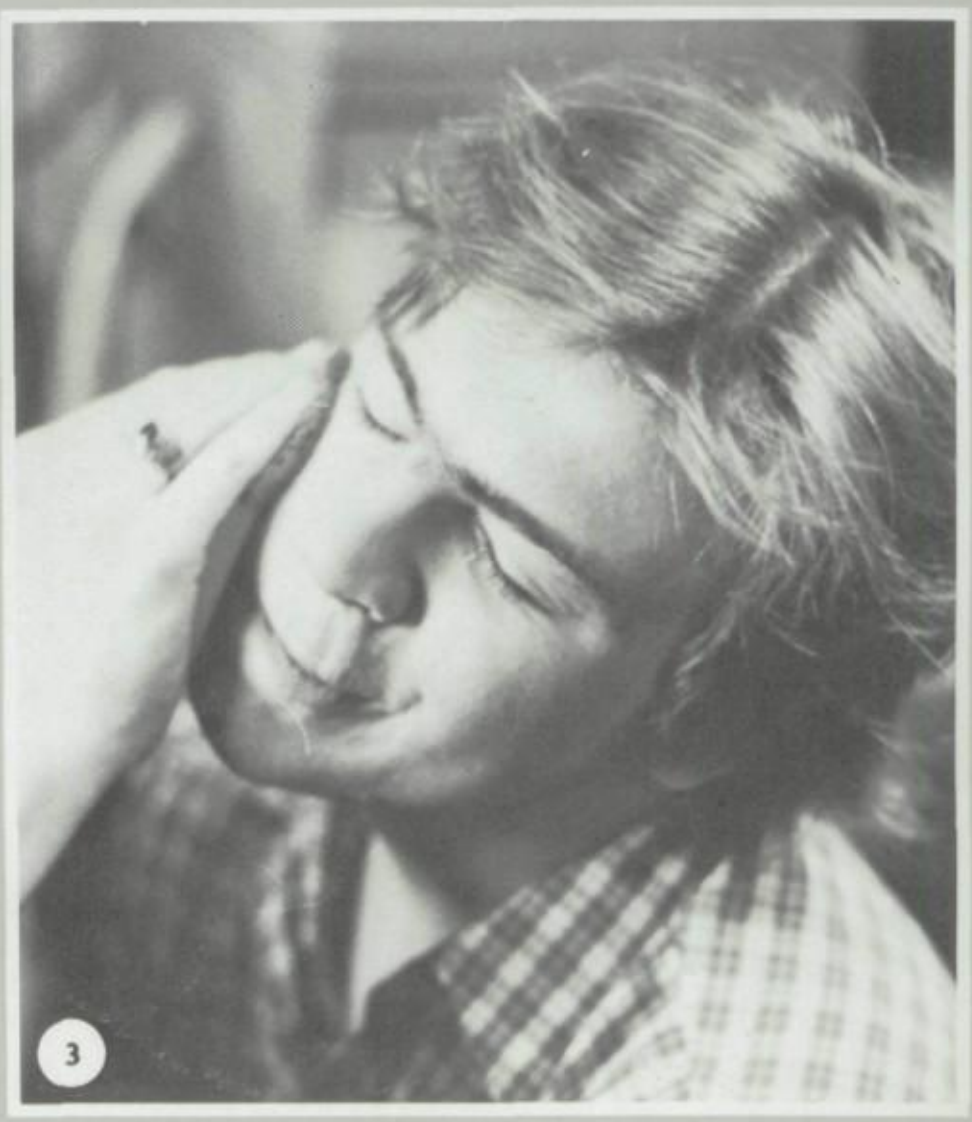
Father Of

The 1982 Senior Class Play, "FATHER OF THE BRIDE", was a great experience for all involved. The play was directed by Mr. Steve Smith, who not only donated his time, but also many of the props that were used in the production. The cast had three performances, including one for the student body. Two evening performances were presented on April 17 and 18. After the last presentation, the cast presented Mr. Smith with a directors chair in gratitude for all the work he did with the play.

The cast received additional help from Monica Egle, who taook on the task of Student Director, and Theresa McPheran, who prompted whenever some one would forget their lines.

Those involved in the play in any aspect will never forget the good feeling it left when it was over!





1. Chuck Conney relaxes while trying to memorize his lines before the urtain opens for the first performance of "FATHER OF THE BRIDE". 2. 2. Mr. and Mrs. Banks listen to Mr. Massoula describe Buckingham Caterers' role in the reception.
3. Finally, Buckley and Kay are alone so that they can discuss their wedding plans.

Prom - 1982

"Making The Best Of Times . . ."

They came dressed in their finest. Boys in suits and tuxedoes; girls in long dresses came to Sandusky, Ohio to enjoy themselves and take home memories of Prom 1982.

"Making the Best of Times" was the theme of the Junior - Senior Prom, held at the Greentree Inn on Saturday, May 15, 1982. The Joe Nigro Band provided the entertainment for the dance, and to make the evening memorable, the Junior class presented ceramic book momentos painted in the Senior colors to the seniors who attended.

The afterprom events included an evening swim and bowling at the Greentree from midnight until 3:30 a.m.

The Prom proved to be very successful, thanks to the hard work of the Junior class. It was an evening everyone will remember.

1. Kim Renneckar and Brian Missler enjoy themselves as they dance the night away at Prom 1982.
2. Dav Rhoad and his date are caught off guard by the camera as Prom '82 comes to a close.

The day was May 23, 1982. Parents, relatives and friends filled St. Paul Church for a very special occasion, the Sixtieth Commencement Exercise honoring the Class of 1982.

Thoughtful graduates entered to the haunting sound of Pomp and Circumstance. Salutatorian Barb Smith welcomed all present and a sentimental, but glorious, celebration began.

After Communion and a memorable speech by Albert Vargas, Mr. Porter presented the class to the Pastor who distributed diplomas.
